Your route through the book

01 Turning a reference photo into a clear request, page 4

Separate a reference image into chosen and unchosen features, then confirm the agreed length before cutting.

02 Describing shape, texture, and everyday styling, page 14

Compare visible features, clarify an everyday styling limit, and distinguish a style label from an agreed result.

03 Discussing color without promising a photograph, page 26

Clarify a color goal and previous-product uncertainty while explaining what a consultation has not yet established.

04 Booking time and handling appointment changes, page 36

Explain a delay, calculate the earliest ordinary finish, and offer a reschedule without promising a shortened service.

05 Checking comfort and pausing clearly, page 49

Acknowledge discomfort, clarify the client description, and arrange a check without diagnosing or prescribing a position.

06 Explaining services, prices, and product choices, page 59

Explain an optional service, compare complete totals, and confirm a client choice before adding anything.

07 Responding to a concern about the result, page 71

Acknowledge a specific result concern, separate appearance from confirmed findings, and arrange review before promising a remedy.

08 Passing preferences to the next appointment, page 81

Hand over confirmed preferences, an unbooked consultation request, and photography permission as separate facts.

Agree on the feature, not just the name.

A useful consultation turns broad words and reference pictures into a shared understanding of length, shape, time, price, and permission. Clear language also leaves room to pause, assess suitability, or review a result without promising what has not been established.

A photo contains several choices

The client may want the outline but not the length or fringe. Ask which features matter and confirm the agreed plan before treating the whole picture as an instruction.
"The reference is chin-length, but our agreed outline is collarbone-length, with no fringe requested."

Appearance and technique differ

Explain the supplied visible contrast before using a style label. A photo does not establish which method is suitable for the client or how long daily styling will take.

Assessment comes before assurance

A color goal, Friday deadline, or product name does not establish suitability, service duration, or cost. Record the relevant history and explain what remains to be assessed.
"Today is a consultation; the previous home-color product is still unknown."

A preference is not every permission

A retained length or no-spray request can be passed to reception. A future-service request is not a booking, and service consent is not permission for promotional photography.
"The consultation is requested but not booked, and no promotional-photo consent is recorded."

Professional boundaries

All salons, clients, prices, photographs described in words, and incidents are fictional. This book teaches workplace English, not cutting, chemical services, medical assessment, product testing, or legal requirements. Follow actual professional training, local rules, product instructions, consultation and consent procedures, and emergency arrangements. No example authorizes an unassessed chemical service, continuing through discomfort, or using a client image without the relevant permission.

A Read the situation

LESSON 01 / TURNING A REFERENCE PHOTO INTO A CLEAR REQUEST

Separate a reference image into chosen and unchosen features, then confirm the agreed length before cutting.

Keep the ponytail length

Client Alex shows stylist Ren a photograph of a chin-length bob with a straight fringe. Alex likes the outline but wants enough length for a low ponytail. No cut has started. Through clarification, they agree to discuss a collarbone-length outline rather than copying the chin-length endpoint. Alex confirms that no fringe is requested. Ren must keep the visual reference, practical length requirement, and agreed plan distinct. The conversation does not guarantee that every strand will tie back or authorize other changes not specifically agreed.

People: Alex, Client; Ren, Stylist.

Read the record

Choose one answer per question using the facts above.

1. What practical feature matters to Alex?

A. Copying every feature of the photo
B. A new straight fringe
C. A guaranteed chin-length cut today
D. Enough retained length for a low ponytail

2. Which endpoint is agreed for the outline discussion?

A. An unspecified amount removed
B. Collarbone length
C. Chin length copied automatically
D. Ear length

3. What is the fringe status?

A. It is mandatory for every bob
B. No fringe is requested
C. The photo automatically authorizes it
D. It has already been cut

B Vocabulary in use

CORE TERMS

consultation
Discussion to establish preferences, suitability, and the proposed service.

conduct a consultation

bob
Short-to-medium haircut family with a defined outline, varying in length and shape.

clarify the bob outline perimeter

Outer edge defining the haircut's overall length and shape.

discuss the perimeter

collarbone length
Length described relative to the collarbone.

confirm collarbone length

low ponytail
Hair gathered and secured low at the back of the head.

retain low-ponytail length bangs

Common US term for a fringe.

explain bangs

reference photo
Image used to communicate an idea, not automatically a complete instruction.

discuss the reference photo

outline
Outer visible shape or boundary of the haircut.

confirm the outline

chin length
Length described relative to the chin.

distinguish chin length

retained length
Hair length kept rather than removed.

preserve retained length fringe

Front hair shaped to fall over or around the forehead; also called bangs.

clarify the fringe

straight fringe
Fringe with a visually straight outline across the front.

identify the straight fringe

Say it in context

Stress the highlighted expression. Keep the surrounding words connected; pause at the end of the phrase.

consultation CONSULTATION parting

Line or division where hair is separated; also called a part.
identify the parting

blunt outline
Perimeter with a visually solid, even edge.
describe a blunt outline

layers
Hair lengths arranged at different levels within a haircut.
discuss layers

trim
Removal of a limited amount, which still needs an agreed length.
clarify the trim

length removal
Amount of hair to be cut off.
confirm length removal

shrinkage
Shorter visible length when curls recoil from a stretched or wet state.
allow for visible shrinkage agreed plan

Service details explicitly confirmed with the client.
repeat the agreed plan

consent
Permission for the specified action, not every possible variation.
confirm service consent

Say it in context

Stress the highlighted expression. Keep the surrounding words connected; pause at the end of the phrase.

straight fringe STRAIGHT FRINGE

identify the straight fringe

Keep the meaning precise: Fringe with a visually straight outline across the front.

parting PARTING

identify the parting

Keep the meaning precise: Line or division where hair is separated; also called a part.

C Phrases that move the work forward

Open the reference
Which features of this photograph do you like?

Identify the visible endpoint
The photograph shows a chin-length bob.

Name the requirement
Keeping enough length for a low ponytail matters to you.

Keep the fringe separate
The photo has a straight fringe; is that part of your request?

Confirm before cutting
Let us agree on the length before any cut begins.

Clarify front length
How much front length do you want retained?

Avoid an absolute promise
I cannot promise every strand will tie back from the photo alone.

Read back the plan
Collarbone-length outline, retained ponytail length, no fringe.

Separate length and shape
Do you want the outline, the length, or both?

Ask about daily use
Do you need to be able to tie it back?

Propose the longer outline
Shall we discuss a collarbone-length outline instead?

Record the exclusion
No fringe is requested.

Avoid copying everything
The photo is a reference, not permission for every feature.

Check the outline
Is this the shape you mean?

Invite correction
Please stop me if I have misunderstood the priority.

Close the consultation point
That is the agreed direction, with no cut started yet.

Precision in real exchanges

Purpose: Ask about daily use
Useful wording: Do you need to be able to tie it back?

Purpose: Name the requirement
Useful wording: Keeping enough length for a low ponytail matters to you.

D Choose the response that fits

Choose one response for each situation. Preserve the facts, the decision boundary, and the purpose of the exchange.

1. Which read-back preserves the agreement?

A. Copy everything because a photo was shown
B. Collarbone-length outline, retain ponytail length, no fringe
C. Chin-length with the photo's fringe
D. Remove all front length automatically

2. Which feature needs separate consent?

A. Keeping the collarbone endpoint already discussed
B. Recording the ponytail priority already stated
C. Keeping the front length as requested
D. The straight fringe shown in the photo

3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Outer visible shape or boundary of the haircut. Which term fits?

A. low ponytail
B. side length
C. length removal
D. outline

4. Rebuild the exchange from "Keep the ponytail length". Alex: "Could it sit around here instead? I'm pointing to my collarbone. I don't want to spend the day pinning loose pieces back." Ren: [missing response] Alex: "Good. By outline, do you mean the edge around the bottom? That's the part of the picture I like." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. Not precisely. A trim could mean different amounts to different clients. We still need to agree where the ends should sit.

B. Yes, let's talk through the reference photo first. Is it the shape you like, or the length as well?

C. A collarbone-length outline is the direction we'll discuss. I'll check your actual front and side lengths before promising what will reach.

D. No problem. I'll read back the main points: longer outline at the collarbone, keep the ponytail requirement, and no bangs.

Answers and explanations, page 106

01 Alex: I like the shape in this picture, but I still need to tie my hair back for work. Can we keep that?

02 Ren: Yes, let's talk through the [1] _____ first. Is it the shape you like, or the length as well?

03 Alex: Mostly the shape. Looking at it now, the ends are much higher than mine. Where would they finish on me?

04 Ren: This one is [2] _____. That could conflict with tying it back, so we should discuss a longer version.

05 Alex: Could it sit around here instead? I'm pointing to my collarbone. I don't want to spend the day pinning loose pieces back.

06 Ren: A [3] _____ outline is the direction we'll discuss. I'll check your actual front and side lengths before promising what will reach.

07 Alex: Good. By outline, do you mean the edge around the bottom? That's the part of the picture I like.

08 Ren: Exactly. The [4] _____ gives that outer shape. We can discuss the shape without copying how short the photograph is.

09 Alex: And please leave out the bit across the forehead. I don't want bangs. Are those the same as a fringe?

10 Ren: Yes, [5] _____ is another word for bangs. I'll make that clear in the notes.

CONVERSATION / CONTINUED

11 Alex: Thank you. I usually wear a low ponytail, not a high one. Does that help explain the length I need?

12 Ren: It does. The [6] _____ needs to support how you wear it. A photo alone can't tell me whether every piece will reach.

13 Alex: I understand. I just don't want you to see the picture and assume I want everything in it.

14 Ren: No problem. I'll [7] _____ the main points: longer outline at the collarbone, keep the ponytail requirement, and no bangs.

15 Alex: That's right. When people say just a trim, does that tell you how much to remove?

16 Ren: Not precisely. A [8] _____ could mean different amounts to different clients. We still need to agree where the ends should sit.

17 Alex: Then let's agree on that before you start. I'd rather check the length in the mirror first.

18 Ren: Certainly. We can confirm the [9] _____ before any cutting. Nothing has been cut yet.

19 Alex: Great. Longer than the picture, enough length to discuss tying it back, and definitely no fringe.

20 Ren: That's the [10] _____. I'll check the remaining details with you before we begin.

Return to the case

Client Alex shows stylist Ren a photograph of a chin-length bob with a straight fringe. Alex likes the outline but wants enough length for a low ponytail. No cut has started. Through clarification, they agree to discuss a collarbone-length outline rather than copying the chin-length endpoint. Alex confirms that no fringe is requested. Ren must keep the visual reference, practical length requirement, and agreed plan distinct. The conversation does not guarantee that every strand will tie back or authorize other changes not specifically agreed.

Choose one answer per question. Use the case facts and keep any uncertainty or limits intact.

1. What does trim fail to specify on its own?

A. Whether the service includes shampoo
B. The agreed amount or endpoint of length removal
C. Whether the client wants any maintenance
D. Whether all layers must be removed

2. Which promise is unsupported?

A. No fringe is requested.
B. Every strand will definitely fit into a ponytail based only on this photo.
C. No cut has started.
D. The reference shows a chin-length bob.

Answers and explanations, page 108

Listen for the distinction

Switch roles for turns 11-20. Read the question about trim and distinguish length retained from length removed.

A picture starts the conversation

A client may expect a photograph to explain a preference but may not want every feature copied. Ask which part appeals to them, then point out any conflict with a practical requirement. Confirm the plan in ordinary length words before relying on technical style names.

F Say it / transfer to a new case

Confirm another reference-photo request

A client shows an ear-length reference but agrees to a shoulder-length outline. The client wants front length retained and explicitly declines bangs. No cut has started.

Complete the four gaps. With a partner, read alternate roles, then switch. Studying alone, read both roles and pause before each response.

WORD AND PHRASE BANK

bangs / shoulder-length / front / started

01 Stylist: The agreed outline is [1] _____.

02 Client: Please retain the [2] _____ length.

03 Stylist: No [3] _____ are requested.

C. A collarbone-length outline is the direction we'll discuss. I'll check your actual front and side lengths before promising what will reach.

D. Exactly. The perimeter gives that outer shape. We can discuss the shape without copying how short the photograph is.

LESSON 02 / DESCRIBING SHAPE, TEXTURE, AND EVERYDAY STYLING

Compare visible features, clarify an everyday styling limit, and distinguish a style label from an agreed result.

Less bulk, not bare sides

Client Morgan wants less fullness at the neckline but no exposed skin at the sides. Barber Dev has two reference photographs. Photo A, labelled low taper, shows visible hair covering the sides. Photo B, labelled skin fade, shows exposed skin at the shortest area of the sides. Morgan spends five minutes styling each morning. Dev compares only these supplied appearances. No cutting method, exact length, or guaranteed maintenance time has been agreed. Morgan prefers the covered-side appearance of A, while keeping the neckline concern separate.

People: Morgan, Client; Dev, Barber.

Read the record

Choose one answer per question using the facts above.

1. What does Morgan want at the neckline?

A. An agreed cutting technique
B. A guaranteed daily result
C. Less fullness
D. More exposed skin at the sides

2. Which supplied photo shows covered sides?

A. Neither has been described
B. Photo A
C. Photo B
D. Both show bare sides

3. How much daily styling time does Morgan report?

A. Forty minutes
B. Five minutes
C. Twenty minutes
D. No time limit is mentioned

C Phrases that move the work forward

Name the priority
You want less fullness at the neckline.

Compare the references

Check the label
When you say taper, is this the appearance you mean?

Ask about routine
How much time do you usually spend styling it?

Avoid a guarantee
I cannot promise that routine from the photograph alone.

Avoid technical assumptions
We have not agreed on a cutting method yet.

Clarify bulk
Where does the fullness bother you most?

Read back the appearance
Less neckline fullness, with visible hair covering the sides.

Keep the exclusion clear
You do not want exposed skin at the sides.

Describe the contrast

Separate the areas
Let us discuss the neckline separately from the sides.

Record the time limit
You have about five minutes each morning.

Clarify coverage
Is keeping the sides covered the important feature?

Ask for a visible comparison
Which of these side appearances is closer to your preference?

Check the natural pattern
We still need to assess how your hair grows.

Confirm the boundary
Choosing A does not mean copying every detail.

1. Which comparison is supported?

A. Every low taper looks identical.

B. B guarantees five-minute styling.

C. A authorizes every cutting method.

D. A shows covered sides; B shows exposed skin at the shortest area.

2. Which clarification best follows less bulk?

A. Would you like a skin fade around both ears?

B. Shall I shorten the whole back by the same amount?

C. Does that mean you want the top shorter too?

D. Where does the fullness bother you most?

3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Back portion of the neck near the lower hairline. Which term fits?

C. hairline

4. Rebuild the exchange from "Less bulk, not bare sides". Morgan: "A looks closer. Please don't take the sides as short as B; it's the fullness at the collar that bothers me." Dev: [missing response] Morgan: "Should I ask for a taper next time, then? I used that word before and got something much shorter." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. In photo A, labelled low taper, there is visible coverage over the sides. Photo B has exposed skin in its shortest side area.

B. Understood. Exposed skin is not part of your request. The neckline concern does not override that boundary, and choosing A does not select every detail.

C. Your styling routine is an important part of the discussion. Five minutes is your available time, not something I can guarantee from a reference image.

D. Let us separate the neckline from the sides. We can compare the visible features in these two pictures before assuming a style name explains everything.

03 Morgan: The first picture looks closer. The second one is much shorter at the sides than I would feel comfortable wearing.

04 Dev: In photo A, labelled low taper, there is visible [2] _____ over the sides. Photo B has exposed skin in its shortest side area.

05 Morgan: A looks closer. Please don't take the sides as short as B; it's the fullness at the collar that bothers me.

07 Morgan: Should I ask for a taper next time, then? I used that word before and got something much shorter.

08 Dev: It can help, but a [4] _____ is clearer here. Pointing out covered sides and the area of unwanted fullness gives us more precise information than the label alone.

09 Morgan: That makes sense. The fullness bothers me where the hair meets my collar, rather than across the whole back of my head.

B. retained length

C. trim

D. front length

2. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Fade whose shortest area exposes skin in the supplied reference. Which term fits?

A. sideburn

B. growth pattern

C. fullness

D. skin fade

3. Rebuild the exchange from "Keep the ponytail length". Alex: "And please leave out the bit across the forehead. I don't want bangs. Are those the same as a fringe?" Ren: [missing response] Alex: "Thank you. I usually wear a low ponytail, not a high one. Does that help explain the length I need?" Which response belongs in the gap?

A. This one is chin-length. That could conflict with tying it back, so we should discuss a longer version.

B. Certainly. We can confirm the length removal before any cutting. Nothing has been cut yet.

C. That's the agreed direction. I'll check the remaining details with you before we begin.

D. Yes, fringe is another word for bangs. I'll make that clear in the notes.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "Less bulk, not bare sides". Morgan: "Let me check the main point: I prefer A's covered sides, and I want less fullness at the neckline near my collar." Dev: [missing response] Morgan: "Yes. Show me how short you mean before we start, especially around the ears." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. We will confirm the remaining details before proceeding. Your five-minute time budget stays in the consultation, alongside the neckline priority and the clear preference for visible hair over the sides.

B. Yes. That is the agreed appearance for discussion. It does not yet specify an exact length or technique, and it does not include the exposed side area in B.

C. It can help, but a visual comparison is clearer here. Pointing out covered sides and the area of unwanted fullness gives us more precise information than the label alone.

D. I will record the unwanted bulk in that location. We still need to agree on the exact length and assess the actual hair before choosing a method.

LESSON 03 / DISCUSSING COLOR WITHOUT PROMISING A PHOTOGRAPH

Clarify a color goal and previous-product uncertainty while explaining what a consultation has not yet established.

> A cool tone by Friday?
> Client Priya wants the cool color tone in a photograph before Friday. Colorist Ellis is conducting a consultation only today. Priya used a home-color product previously but cannot identify it. Suitability, service duration, and cost have not been assessed, and no color appointment is booked. Ellis distinguishes the desired tonal character from the lightness or darkness of the reference. The conversation records the unknown product and the deadline without promising a formula, exact photographic match, or completion by Friday.

People: Priya, Client; Ellis, Colorist.

Choose one answer per question using the facts above.

1. What is booked today?

A. A confirmed product test
B. A consultation only
C. A completed color service
D. A guaranteed Friday transformation

2. Which history detail remains unknown?

A. The previous home-color product
B. Whether Priya brought a photo
C. The requested Friday deadline
D. The preference for a cool tone

3. Which claim is unsupported?

A. No color appointment is booked.
B. The photographed result will be completed by Friday.
C. The client wants a cool tone.
D. Cost has not been assessed.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "A cool tone by Friday?". Priya: "I see. I like the cool look, but I don't necessarily want to go much lighter than I am now." Ellis: [missing response] Priya: "I used a color from a shop at home a while ago. I do not remember the name or what type it was." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. I will record your color goal and the unknown product history. No product or formula has been selected, and no color appointment is booked.

B. That helps. Tone describes that color character. We can discuss the cool quality separately from how light or dark you want the overall result.

C. Exactly. The level is the lightness or darkness. The picture gives us a starting point, but those two preferences still need their own discussion.

D. Yes, accurate product identity is useful for the assessment. For now, the honest record is that you used a product but cannot identify it.

Answers and explanations, page 115

One useful distinction

Level describes lightness or darkness; tone describes color character. A cool reference tone does not identify a suitable product, establish a formula, or show that the same result can be achieved on Priya's hair by Friday.

Listen for the distinction

Read the history and booking exchange. Keep unidentified product, consultation only, and unassessed time and cost unchanged.

3. Rebuild the exchange from "Less bulk, not bare sides". Morgan: "That makes sense. The fullness bothers me where the hair meets my collar, rather than across the whole back of my head." Dev: [missing response] Morgan: "I also have only five minutes in the morning. I cannot spend a long time trying to reproduce a photograph every day." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. Let us separate the neckline from the sides. We can compare the visible features in these two pictures before assuming a style name explains everything.

B. It can help, but a visual comparison is clearer here. Pointing out covered sides and the area of unwanted fullness gives us more precise information than the label alone.

C. Understood. Exposed skin is not part of your request. The neckline concern does not override that boundary, and choosing A does not select every detail.

D. I will record the unwanted bulk in that location. We still need to agree on the exact length and assess the actual hair before choosing a method.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "The appointment no longer fits". Luis: "Could we read the details back before I go? I want to be certain I have heard the time correctly and that it is still the haircut." Hana: [missing response] Luis: "Yes, tomorrow at ten for the haircut. I'll check the date on the confirmation before I leave." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. Twenty past two is the revised start. We normally allow forty minutes for this service, so it would not be finished at that point.

B. Yes. The confirmation message should show the actual date for tomorrow, ten o'clock, and the haircut service. We will check those details together.

C. I will check the booking record when making the change. The record should show the agreed replacement and the salon-caused reason for rescheduling.

D. I understand. With the usual service duration, the ordinary finish would be three o'clock. That is fifteen minutes after you need to leave.

LESSON 05 / CHECKING COMFORT AND PAUSING CLEARLY

Acknowledge discomfort, clarify the client description, and arrange a check without diagnosing or prescribing a position.

Pause before the wash

Sam reported neck pressure before water started. Imani immediately stopped preparation and attended to the concern through the salon process. The dialogue takes place afterward: Sam is away from the basin and reports feeling comfortable. Noor, the lead stylist, has been asked to review the concern. Sam agrees to review only, not further preparation or washing. No cause or injury has been established. This is not a positioning or treatment demonstration; immediate assistance must not wait for a twenty-turn conversation, and medical or emergency help follows actual response procedures when needed.

People: Sam, Client; Imani, Salon assistant.

Ben: [missing response] Aisha: "That's right. I'd rather know the price now than question it at the till." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. No. A retail product is not part of either quoted service choice, and neither requires a product purchase here. Discussing one does not mean adding it to your bill.

B. Yes. The base service here is the haircut at forty-five dollars. Declining the finish does not remove that option or turn it into the sixty-dollar combined service.

C. The combined total for both services is sixty dollars. The haircut-only option is forty-five dollars, and those are the complete totals for these two choices.

D. I will record that service authorization: haircut only at forty-five dollars, with no finish or retail product added. We have clarified the choice before either service begins.

LESSON 07 / RESPONDING TO A CONCERN ABOUT THE RESULT

Acknowledge a specific result concern, separate appearance from confirmed findings, and arrange review before promising a remedy.

The left side looks longer

At checkout, client Mei says the left side of the haircut looks longer. Receptionist Rafael hears that the earlier consultation promised an even outline. The current appearance has not been reviewed together with stylist Jo. Rafael pauses checkout and offers a mirror review with Jo. Mei accepts the review. No cause has been established, and neither a correction nor a refund has been approved. The conversation must not turn a reported concern into a confirmed cutting error, a promise to remove more hair, or an automatic payment resolution.

People: Mei, Client; Rafael, Receptionist.

Read the record

Choose one answer per question using the facts above.

1. What does Mei report?

A. The left side looks longer
B. The right side has already been corrected
C. A refund has been approved
D. The stylist has confirmed the cause

2. What was the earlier agreed expectation?

A. No discussion of the outline
B. An even outline
C. A deliberately uneven outline
D. A shorter left side only

3. What is accepted now?

A. A confirmed fault diagnosis
B. A mirror review with Jo
C. Immediate removal of more hair
D. An approved refund

C Phrases that move the work forward

Acknowledge specifically
I hear that the left side looks longer to you.

Recognize the expectation
You were expecting an even outline.

Pause the transaction
Let us pause checkout while we address the concern.

Avoid dismissal
I will not assume it is just your imagination.

Avoid a finding too soon
We have not reviewed the appearance together yet.

Offer a concrete next step
Would you like a mirror review with Jo?

Clarify orientation
Do you mean your left side as you are sitting here?

Preserve the wording
I will pass on that it looks longer, not that a cause is confirmed.

Separate review and correction
Agreeing to review does not authorize more cutting.

Avoid a remedy promise
No correction has been approved yet.

Keep payment status accurate
No refund has been approved.

Invite the relevant explanation
Jo can review the concern against the agreed outline.

Check the record
We can refer to the consultation note during the review.

Confirm the accepted step
You would like the mirror review first.

Keep the client involved
Any proposed further work should be explained before agreement.

Close without premature resolution
The review is the next step; the concern is not yet resolved.

1. Which opening is most useful?

A. I will remove more hair immediately.

B. I hear that the left side looks longer and that you expected an even outline.

C. It cannot be uneven because our stylist is experienced.

D. The stylist definitely cut it incorrectly.

2. Which statement confuses review with consent?

A. Checkout is paused.

B. Jo will review the concern.

C. No refund is approved yet.

D. Agreeing to the mirror review means we can cut more without asking.

3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Client's left-hand side, clarified from the client's perspective. Which term fits?

A. remedy

B. left side

C. client perspective

4. Rebuild the exchange from "The left side looks longer". Mei: "Please. I'm not asking for a different style; I want to check the outline we discussed." Rafael: [missing response] Mei: "Exactly. I was going to leave it, but I'd rather say something before I go home." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. I'll make that clear. You expected an even outline, and the left side currently looks longer to you.

B. We haven't established the cause yet. Let's hear Jo's assessment before discussing whether further cutting is appropriate.

C. We can take a refund request through our salon process. I haven't approved a refund by pausing checkout.

D. Of course. Let's pause checkout while we look into it. Is it your left side you're pointing to?

Ben: [missing response] Aisha: "Good. I thought buying something might be part of the deal. I'm not looking for a product today." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. No. A retail product is not part of either quoted service choice, and neither requires a product purchase here. Discussing one does not mean adding it to your bill.
B. Let me give the final charge confirmation: forty-five dollars for the haircut. Any later addition would need its own clear discussion and agreement; nothing extra has been selected today.
C. I will record that service authorization: haircut only at forty-five dollars, with no finish or retail product added. We have clarified the choice before either service begins.
D. Yes. The base service here is the haircut at forty-five dollars. Declining the finish does not remove that option or turn it into the sixty-dollar combined service.

Language for the next case

Length in the way you wear it

dry outline

The dry outline is the visible shoulder-level shape Nia wants to retain, not the longer stretched endpoint.

Amir: Then let's use your dry outline as the reference. You want the bottom to stay at shoulder level when worn naturally.

crown volume

Crown volume concerns fullness at the upper back of the head, separate from the retained outer length.

Amir: Your requested crown volume is a separate goal. Let's discuss possible shape changes before deciding how much, if anything, comes off each area.

density

Density concerns the amount of hair in an area, not the diameter of each strand or a product instruction.

Amir: Agreed. We'll keep density separate from strand thickness and your styling preferences. Neither description alone chooses a product for you.

shrinkage

Shrinkage describes the shorter visible length when curls recoil, not missing hair or a measured amount to cut.

Amir: That difference is shrinkage. We need to account for how your curls sit, without assuming every section springs back equally.

Strand thickness

Strand thickness describes individual hairs; fine strands can occur in a head with many hairs.

Amir: No. Strand thickness describes each hair. Density describes how much hair grows in an area. Your consultation records fine strands with high density.

natural fall

Natural fall is how the hair sits without being held stretched, which is the relevant appearance for this request.

Amir: I won't. We can compare the areas in their natural fall and discuss the shape you actually wear.

Read the phrases aloud. Then complete the conversation on the following pages using the word bank.

Length in the way you wear it

Client Nia wears her hair in its natural curls. Stretched, it reaches below her shoulders; dry and unstretched, it sits at shoulder level. She wants to keep that dry shoulder-length outline and more crown volume. The consultation records fine individual strands and high density. No amount to remove or cutting method is agreed.

Complete the numbered gaps. Use each bank entry once; some entries contain several words.

WORD AND PHRASE BANK

dry outline / Strand thickness / crown volume / density / natural fall / shrinkage

01 Nia: When I say shoulder-length, I mean how it sits when I leave it curly. Last time, the wet length looked right but the dry result felt too short.

02 Amir: Then let's use your [1] _____ as the reference. You want the bottom to stay at shoulder level when worn naturally.

03 Nia: Exactly. If I pull a section straight, it goes below my shoulders. That's not how I wear it during the day.

04 Amir: That difference is [2] _____. We need to account for how your curls sit, without assuming every section springs back equally.

05 Nia: I'd like more height at the top, though. Does that mean losing the length around the bottom?

06 Amir: Your requested [3] _____ is a separate goal. Let's discuss possible shape changes before deciding how much, if anything, comes off each area.

07 Nia: People call my hair thick, but the individual hairs feel quite fine. Is that a contradiction?

08 Amir: No. [4] _____ describes each hair. Density describes how much hair grows in an area. Your consultation records fine strands with high density.

09 Nia: That explains it. I have a lot of hair, but I don't want a heavy product recommendation based just on the word thick.

10 Amir: Agreed. We'll keep [5] _____ separate from strand thickness and your styling preferences. Neither description alone chooses a product for you.

11 Nia: The curls at the front sit differently from the back. Please don't assume the whole head behaves like one section.

12 Amir: I won't. We can compare the areas in their [6] _____ and discuss the shape you actually wear.

13 Nia: Would it help if I showed you where I want the bottom edge in the mirror?

14 Amir: Yes. That gives us a shared visual reference. It still doesn't turn shoulder-length into a fixed number of centimeters to remove everywhere.

15 Nia: Right. I'm asking to keep that edge, not to cut every wet section to the same shoulder line.

16 Amir: Understood. We haven't agreed on a cutting method or an amount yet. First we'll confirm the shape and the length you want protected.

17 Nia: And the crown goal is more volume, not straightening. I want to keep wearing the curls.

18 Amir: That's clear. I'll record natural curls, retained dry shoulder-length outline, and a discussion of crown volume. No straightening service has been requested.

19 Nia: Please read that back before we start, including the dry-length point. That's the part I don't want lost.

20 Amir: Certainly. Shoulder-level when dry and unstretched; more crown volume to discuss; fine strands, high density; cutting details still to be agreed.

Protect the unstretched endpoint

A client wants chin-level hair when dry and unstretched, not the collarbone endpoint seen when stretched. Individual hairs are coarse, but density is low. No cutting amount is agreed.

A number needs a length

number two

Number two corresponds to a nominal 6 mm length on this specified chart, not removal of 2 mm.

Leah: Let's check what you mean. On this hair-clipper chart, number two is listed as six millimeters remaining. Were you expecting that length?

Left means retained after cutting, whereas Pavel initially understood the number as an amount removed.

Leah: The chart describes the length left, not the amount removed. It's worth checking before we choose a guard.

number four

The supplied chart assigns 13 mm to number four; the number is not a centimeter measurement.

Leah: That's number four. We'll discuss the appearance at that length before treating the number as the whole haircut plan.

millimeters

The millimeter labels provide the actual nominal lengths; guard numbers are identifiers rather than a one-millimeter scale.

Leah: Correct. Read the stated millimeters, not just the sequence of numbers. These are the listed nominal lengths for this identified tool system.

guide comb

The guide comb and its own documentation identify the length; another trimmer need not use the same numbering.

Leah: Not automatically. Check that tool's guide comb and instructions. A remembered number from another device isn't enough to identify a matching length.

separate agreement

A side-length preference does not settle the top, neckline, or beard, which are expressly unagreed.

Leah: No. We need a separate agreement about the top. The neckline and your beard haven't been discussed either.

Read the phrases aloud. Then complete the conversation on the following pages using the word bank.

A number needs a length

For this consultation, the shop's identified hair-clipper chart lists nominal lengths: #1 = 3 mm, #2 = 6 mm, #3 = 10 mm, #4 = 13 mm. Client Pavel first says number two, thinking it means removing 2 mm. He clarifies a preference around 13 mm at the sides. Top, neckline, and beard remain unagreed; no cutting begins.

Complete the numbered gaps. Use each bank entry once; some entries contain several words.

left / guide comb / millimeters / number four / separate agreement / number two 01 Pavel: Could you do a number two on the sides? I only want a little off, not a really close cut.

02 Leah: Let's check what you mean. On this hair-clipper chart, [1] _____ is listed as six millimeters remaining. Were you expecting that length?

03 Pavel: Oh, no. I thought two meant taking off two millimeters. I'd like the sides much longer than six.

04 Leah: The chart describes the length [2] _____, not the amount removed. It's worth checking before we choose a guard.

05 Pavel: About thirteen millimeters sounds nearer what I meant. Which number is that on your chart?

06 Leah: That's [3] _____. We'll discuss the appearance at that length before treating the number as the whole haircut plan.

07 Pavel: And number three is ten millimeters? I can see the printed lengths now. They're not counting up one millimeter at a time.

08 Leah: Correct. Read the stated [4] _____, not just the sequence of numbers. These are the listed nominal lengths for this identified tool system.

09 Pavel: My beard trimmer has numbers too. Could I use the same number and expect exactly the same result?

10 Leah: Not automatically. Check that tool's [5] _____ and instructions. A remembered number from another device isn't enough to identify a matching length.

11 Pavel: So if I come back, I should mention the length as well as the number. That would avoid this mix-up.

12 Leah: Yes, along with the areas and appearance you liked. Tool settings and the final look still need checking on the actual hair.

13 Pavel: Does asking for thirteen millimeters at the sides mean you'll cut the top to thirteen as well?

14 Leah: No. We need a [6] _____ about the top. The neckline and your beard haven't been discussed either.

15 Pavel: Please leave the beard out of today's haircut conversation for now. I haven't decided what I want done with it.

16 Leah: Understood. No beard work is agreed. We'll finish the haircut consultation without adding that service by assumption.

17 Pavel: And is thirteen a promise that every single hair will measure exactly thirteen afterward?

18 Leah: No. It's the chart's nominal length, not a guarantee about every hair. We still need to agree the shape and appropriate professional approach.

19 Pavel: Then my original number-two request was wrong. Please record the longer side preference and check the remaining details with me.

20 Leah: I will: around thirteen millimeters at the sides, number four on this chart as our reference, with the rest of the plan still to confirm.

Read the color record precisely

level

Level seven describes lightness or darkness here; it does not establish the desired cool tonal character.

Tariq: It matches the requested level, but the note also says still warm. Your goal is level seven with a cool tone.

tone

Tone distinguishes the warm observed sample from the cool target even though both are described at level seven.

Tariq: Exactly. The recorded tone is different. We shouldn't summarize that as a perfect match.

Regrowth

Regrowth identifies the naturally grown root area, which is recorded separately from the previously colored lengths.

Tariq: No. Regrowth refers to the naturally grown area near your scalp. That starting area is recorded at level five.

previously colored lengths

The longer previously colored area has its own starting record; it cannot be merged with the natural regrowth entry.

Tariq: Right. The previously colored lengths have a different starting record. Keeping the areas separate prevents a misleading whole-head summary.

strand test

A strand test supplies information about the tested hair sample; it is not a whole-head guarantee or a skin allergy assessment.

Tariq: No. The strand test gives information about that sample. It doesn't guarantee an identical response across different areas.

allergy-alert assessment

The allergy-alert assessment is a separate incomplete requirement; an acceptable-looking hair sample does not replace it.

Tariq: Yes. The applicable allergy-alert assessment is incomplete. The hair sample's color result doesn't complete that requirement.

Read the phrases aloud. Then complete the conversation on the following pages using the word bank.

Read the color record precisely

Fictional record review, not service instructions: client Mara has natural regrowth recorded at level 5 and previously colored lengths at level 7, warm. No formula, whole-head service, price, or timing is approved.

Complete the numbered gaps. Use each bank entry once; some entries contain several words.

01 Mara: The note says level seven on the test strand. Isn't that the level I wanted? I'm wondering why the color plan isn't ready.

02 Tariq: It matches the requested [1] _____, but the note also says still warm. Your goal is level seven with a cool tone.

03 Mara: So reaching seven doesn't mean the test looks like my goal. We need to read the words after the number too.

04 Tariq: Exactly. The recorded [2] _____ is different. We shouldn't summarize that as a perfect match.

05 Mara: I can also see level five beside regrowth. Is that a second description of the same test strand?

06 Tariq: No. [3] _____ refers to the naturally grown area near your scalp. That starting area is recorded at level five.

07 Mara: And the level-seven warm entry beside lengths describes the hair that was colored before, not all my hair from root to tip.

08 Tariq: Right. The [4] _____ have a different starting record. Keeping the areas separate prevents a misleading whole-head summary.

09 Mara: Does the strand result tell you exactly what every part of my hair will do if you use the same approach?

11 Mara: I thought a test meant the safety checks were finished too. Is that a different part of the record?

12 Tariq: Yes. The applicable [6] _____ is incomplete. The hair sample's color result doesn't complete that requirement.

13 Mara: Then I shouldn't read test done as meaning everything is cleared for application. I can see why the labels matter.

14 Tariq: Exactly. We follow the actual product warnings, required checks, and salon procedures. This conversation doesn't provide a test method or permission to apply color.

15 Mara: Could you just increase the processing time to make the result cooler? I'm trying to understand what changes next.

16 Tariq: We can't invent that instruction from these notes. Any proposed service needs professional assessment and the product's actual directions; more time isn't an automatic solution.

17 Mara: All right. Before I book, I want to understand the proposed result, the cost, and how long the appointment would be.

18 Tariq: Those are still to be agreed. No formula, price, service duration, or whole-head application has been approved in this record.

19 Mara: Please keep the goal as level seven cool, and the sample as level seven warm. Don't overwrite one with the other.

20 Tariq: I won't. I'll retain the separate starting areas, the observed sample result, the requested goal, and the incomplete assessment so the next discussion starts from the facts.

D Correct. tone: Color character such as warm or cool, distinct from lightness. The usual combination is "clarify the tone".

Return to the exercise, page 30

D4. Rebuild the exchange from "A cool tone by Friday?". Priya: "I see. I like the cool look, but I don't necessarily want to go much lighter than I am now." Ellis: [missing response] Priya: "I used a color from a shop at home a while ago. I do not remember the name or what type it was." Which response belongs in the gap?

C. Exactly. The level is the lightness or darkness. The picture gives us a starting point, but those two preferences still need their own discussion.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 18, after Priya says: "Okay, let's work out the plan first. I'll try to find the old packaging before we talk about booking." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Priya says: "Is cool the right word? I like that it does not look golden. I am less certain about whether I want it lighter." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Correct. This is Ellis's response in turn 6. It connects Priya's preceding point with Priya's follow-up. Level refers to relative lightness or darkness, which remains a separate preference to clarify alongside the cool tone.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 10, after Priya says: "I may have the packaging somewhere. Would the exact name be more useful than my memory of the color on the box?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

E / Conversation

1. color consultation

Turn 2. Color consultation identifies today's booked discussion and assessment, not an appointment to perform the requested color service.

03 / Answers and explanations / continued

2. Tone

Turn 4. Tone describes the warm or cool character Priya likes, rather than the separate question of how light the color is.

3. level

Turn 6. Level refers to relative lightness or darkness, which remains a separate preference to clarify alongside the cool tone.

4. home color

Turn 8. Home color identifies the reported earlier product use without inventing its exact brand, category, or effects.

5. product identity

Turn 10. Product identity means the actual identifying information, which is more useful than guessing the category from a remembered package color.

6. Suitability

Turn 12. Suitability is whether the proposed service is appropriate after assessment; it has not been established by the reference or deadline.

7. service duration

Turn 14. Service duration is the time needed for the proposed service, which remains unassessed rather than guaranteed to fit before Friday.

8. cost

Turn 16. Cost has not been assessed because the service plan is not established; no quoted total is available from the supplied facts.

9. color goal

Turn 18. Color goal captures the desired cool-tone appearance without turning it into a selected formula, accepted price, or booked service.

10. booking status

Turn 20. Booking status distinguishes today's consultation from a future color appointment, which remains unbooked despite the client's preferred deadline.

Return to the conversation, page 32

03 / Answers and explanations / continued

F / Accuracy and scope

F1. Which response handles the deadline accurately?

A. I understand Friday matters; we have not assessed whether that is achievable.

The response acknowledges the preference without replacing the pending assessment with a promise.

Return to the exercise, page 34

F2. Which status should reception receive?

A. Consultation only; no color appointment booked.

The supplied facts establish only the consultation and an unbooked future service.

Return to the exercise, page 34

F / Guided speaking

1. warmer

Colorist: The requested tonal direction is warmer.

Turn 1. Warmer describes the desired color character in this new request.

2. unidentified

Client: My previous product remains unidentified.

Turn 2. The product was used but its identity is still unknown.

3. consultation

Colorist: Today is a consultation only.

Turn 3. The appointment covers discussion rather than an approved color service.

4. booked

Reception: No future service is booked.

Turn 4. A desired result and event do not create a confirmed appointment.

F / Rebuild the exchange

1. Rebuild the exchange from "A cool tone by Friday?". Priya: "I appreciate knowing that before I plan around it. I also need to understand how much time I would have to set aside." Ellis: [missing response] Priya: "And the price? I have seen very different prices for color services, and I do not know which description applies to my request." Which response belongs in the gap?

D. We have not established the service duration yet. It depends on the plan after assessment, so I do not want you to treat a guessed length of appointment as confirmed.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 16, after Priya says: "And the price? I have seen very different prices for color services, and I do not know which description applies to my request." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Priya says: "I love the cool color in this picture. I have an event on Friday, and I was hoping I could have it done before then." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 8, after Priya says: "I used a color from a shop at home a while ago. I do not remember the name or what type it was." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Correct. This is Ellis's response in turn 14. It connects Priya's preceding point with Priya's follow-up. Service duration is the time needed for the proposed service, which remains unassessed rather than guaranteed to fit before Friday.

A / Read the situation

A1. What is the revised start based on the stated delay?

D. 2:20

Twenty minutes after the original 2:00 appointment gives a 2:20 start.

Return to the exercise, page 36

A2. When would the ordinary forty-minute service finish?

A. 3:00

Adding forty minutes to 2:20 gives an ordinary finish of 3:00.

Return to the exercise, page 36

A3. Which replacement does Luis choose?

C. Tomorrow at 10:00

The client chooses the available 10:00 appointment tomorrow as the replacement.

Return to the exercise, page 36

D / Response choices

D1. Which explanation is accurate?

B. Starting at 2:20 would ordinarily finish at 3:00, after your departure deadline.

The calculation preserves the ordinary duration and shows the fifteen-minute conflict.

Return to the exercise, page 40

D2. Why is the change fee waived here?

C. The salon's delay causes the rescheduling under its stated policy.

The brief gives a specific local policy and a salon-caused delay.

04 / Answers and explanations / continued

D3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Updated beginning time following a change. Which term fits?

D. revised start

A Not here. availability: Whether a slot can currently be offered. The usual combination is "check tomorrow's availability".

B Not here. salon-caused delay: Delay originating from the salon's schedule or operations. The usual combination is "acknowledge the salon-caused delay".

C Not here. duplicate booking: Two appointments unintentionally active for the same intended service. The usual combination is "avoid a duplicate booking".

D Correct. revised start: Updated beginning time following a change. The usual combination is "confirm the revised start".

Return to the exercise, page 40

D4. Rebuild the exchange from "The appointment no longer fits". Luis: "Then I think we have a problem. I cannot move the time I need to leave, and I do not want to be watching the clock throughout." Hana: [missing response] Luis: "Could you squeeze it into twenty-five minutes? I really do have to be out by quarter to three." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. I understand. With the usual service duration, the ordinary finish would be three o'clock. That is fifteen minutes after you need to leave.

A Correct. This is Hana's response in turn 6. It connects Luis's preceding point with Luis's follow-up. Service duration is forty minutes; adding it to the revised 2:20 start produces a 3:00 ordinary finish.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 18, after Luis says: "Could we read the details back before I go? I want to be certain I have heard the time correctly and that it is still the haircut." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 16, after Luis says: "Thanks. Last time I changed an appointment, I got two reminders. Could you check that today is cancelled?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Luis says: "Thank you for telling me. Does that mean I would start at twenty past two, or is that when the haircut would be finished?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

Return to the exercise, page 40

E / Conversation

1. delay

Turn 2. Delay is the difference between the original 2:00 start and the revised 2:20 start, not the length of the haircut itself.

2. revised start

Turn 4. Revised start identifies 2:20 as the updated beginning, while the ordinary forty-minute service still has to follow.

3. service duration

Turn 6. Service duration is forty minutes; adding it to the revised 2:20 start produces a 3:00 ordinary finish.

4. departure deadline

Turn 8. Departure deadline is Luis's fixed latest leaving time of 2:45, which the ordinary revised schedule cannot meet.

5. availability

Turn 10. Availability means the 10:00 slot tomorrow can currently be offered; it becomes the replacement only after Luis chooses and confirms it.

6. fee waiver

Turn 12. Fee waiver means the salon does not charge the change fee in this salon-caused rescheduling; it is not a refund or universal rule.

7. replacement booking

Turn 14. Replacement booking means tomorrow's accepted appointment takes the place of today's slot rather than adding another active haircut booking.

8. booking record

Turn 16. Booking record holds the active appointment and change reason; updating it helps avoid conflicting reminders or duplicate active slots.

9. confirmation message

Turn 18. Confirmation message should state the actual date, 10:00 time, and haircut service so the client can verify the replacement details.

10. duplicate booking

Turn 20. Duplicate booking would leave two unintended active appointments; the accepted tomorrow slot replaces today's delayed appointment.

Return to the conversation, page 42

04 / Answers and explanations / continued

F / Accuracy and scope

F1. Which booking record is correct after acceptance?

D. Tomorrow 10:00 replaces today's appointment.

The accepted option is a replacement, not a second active appointment.

Return to the exercise, page 45

F2. Which response should be avoided?

C. We will definitely compress the forty-minute service into twenty-five minutes.

No shortened service has been promised or established as feasible.

Return to the exercise, page 45

F / Guided speaking

1. 2:00

Reception: The ordinary finish would be 2:00.

Turn 1. Forty-five minutes after 1:15 gives an ordinary finish of 2:00.

2. ten

Client: That is ten minutes after my departure deadline.

Turn 2. The ordinary 2:00 finish is ten minutes later than 1:50.

3. 9:30

Reception: Tomorrow's replacement is at 9:30.

Turn 3. The client accepts the specific 9:30 alternative supplied in the brief.

4. waived

Reception: The change fee is waived.

Turn 4. The stated policy removes this fee because the salon caused the delay.

F / Rebuild the exchange

1. Rebuild the exchange from "The appointment no longer fits". Luis: "All right, please move it to ten tomorrow. I would prefer that to rushing today or being late for my next commitment." Hana: [missing response] Luis: "Thanks. Last time I changed an appointment, I got two reminders. Could you check that today is cancelled?" Which response belongs in the gap?

D. I will confirm the replacement booking for tomorrow at ten. Today's appointment will no longer remain as an active second booking for the same service.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Luis says: "I am here for my two o'clock haircut. Before I sit down, I should mention that I have to leave by quarter to three." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 6, after Luis says: "Then I think we have a problem. I cannot move the time I need to leave, and I do not want to be watching the clock throughout." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Luis says: "Thank you for telling me. Does that mean I would start at twenty past two, or is that when the haircut would be finished?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Correct. This is Hana's response in turn 14. It connects Luis's preceding point with Luis's follow-up. Replacement booking means tomorrow's accepted appointment takes the place of today's slot rather than adding another active haircut booking.

D3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Place where the body touches a support or surface. Which term fits?

A. contact point

A Correct. contact point: Place where the body touches a support or surface. The usual combination is "identify the contact point".

B Not here. pause: Temporary stop pending clarification or a check. The usual combination is "keep preparation paused".

C Not here. intensity: How strong a sensation feels to the client. The usual combination is "clarify reported intensity".

D Not here. positioning: How the client is placed, not a prescription made by this exercise. The usual combination is "refer a positioning concern".

Return to the exercise, page 53

D4. Rebuild the exchange from "Pause before the wash". Sam: "Is Noor the person who checks the wash station? I don't know who I should explain it to." Imani: [missing response] Sam: "All right. It was where my neck touched the support, not across my scalp. Please make that clear." Which response belongs in the gap?

C. Noor is our lead stylist. I've asked for the review. We follow our response procedures if further help is needed.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Sam says: "The pressure was right at the back of my neck. Thank you for stopping; I feel comfortable now that we're away from the basin." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 14, after Sam says: "Can Noor look at it without us starting again? I'd like to hear what's proposed first." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Correct. This is Imani's response in turn 6. It connects Sam's preceding point with Sam's follow-up. Noor is the colleague arranging this salon review, not a substitute for medical or emergency care.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Sam says: "I thought I should mention it straight away, but I was worried about holding up the appointment." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

Return to the exercise, page 53

E / Conversation

1. preparation

Turn 2. Preparation stopped before any water or washing began, so the sequence must stay accurate.

2. discomfort

Turn 4. Discomfort is the sensation Sam reported, not proof of a particular injury or cause.

05 / Answers and explanations / continued

3. lead stylist

Turn 6. Noor is the colleague arranging this salon review, not a substitute for medical or emergency care.

4. contact point

Turn 8. The contact point locates the pressure where the neck met the support.

5. client report

Turn 10. The client report preserves Sam's own description without adding an unsupported explanation.

6. water

Turn 12. Water never started, so temperature cannot be invented as an observed cause.

7. comfort check

Turn 14. The comfort check is a review, not permission to carry out the wash.

8. consent

Turn 16. Consent concerns a specific next action; improvement alone is not permission to proceed.

9. resume

Turn 18. Resume refers to paused preparation; the wash itself has not begun at all.

10. agreed next step

Turn 20. Sam accepts the review only, while preparation remains paused and washing has not begun.

Return to the conversation, page 55

F / Accuracy and scope

F1. Which reassurance overreaches?

B. This is definitely harmless, so we can carry on.

Harmlessness is not established, and the client has not agreed to continue.

1. pressure

Assistant: The reported sensation is pressure.

Turn 1. Pressure is the client's description, not an inferred injury or diagnosis.

2. started

Client: The water has not started.

Turn 2. The concern occurs before water begins, preserving the correct chronology.

3. review

Assistant: The agreed next step is a comfort review.

Turn 3. Review is the action accepted by the client in this scenario.

4. resume

Client: I have not agreed to resume.

Turn 4. Agreement to review does not authorize restarting the paused wash.

1. Rebuild the exchange from "Pause before the wash". Sam: "Can Noor look at it without us starting again? I'd like to hear what's proposed first." Imani: [missing response] Sam: "Good. I feel better now, but I don't want that taken as an automatic yes." Which response belongs in the gap?

D. Yes. The comfort check is separate from agreeing to continue. Asking for it doesn't commit you to another attempt.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Sam says: "The pressure was right at the back of my neck. Thank you for stopping; I feel comfortable now that we're away from the basin." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 6, after Sam says: "Is Noor the person who checks the wash station? I don't know who I should explain it to." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Sam says: "I thought I should mention it straight away, but I was worried about holding up the appointment." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Additional item or service requiring agreement. Which term fits?

D. add-on

A Not here. pomade: Styling-product category often associated with shape, control, or sheen. The usual combination is "clarify a pomade preference".

B Not here. service exclusion: Element not covered by the quoted service. The usual combination is "explain service exclusions".

C Not here. purchase decision: Client's choice whether to buy an item. The usual combination is "confirm the purchase decision".

D Correct. add-on: Additional item or service requiring agreement. The usual combination is "confirm an add-on".

Ben: [missing response] Aisha: "Can I just have the haircut today? I am keeping to a budget, and I would rather understand the basic option clearly." Which response belongs in the gap?

D. The optional finish is your choice. Neither service has begun, and I will confirm what you want before adding anything to the agreed plan.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Aisha says: "So if I have both, the final amount is not forty-five. I would like the complete number rather than just the extra amount." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 16, after Aisha says: "Ah, so matte doesn't tell me how strong the hold is. I was mixing those up." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 14, after Aisha says: "For example, what does matte mean? I have seen it on products, but I am not sure whether it describes strength or something else." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Correct. This is Ben's response in turn 6. It connects Aisha's preceding point with Aisha's follow-up. Optional finish is a separate service the client may accept or decline; it is not automatically authorized by choosing the haircut.

2. combined total

Turn 4. Combined total adds the forty-five-dollar haircut and fifteen-dollar finish, giving sixty dollars with no other charges in the exercise.

3. optional finish

Turn 6. Optional finish is a separate service the client may accept or decline; it is not automatically authorized by choosing the haircut.

4. base service

Turn 8. Base service is the haircut alone at forty-five dollars, which remains available without the optional finish.

5. retail product

Turn 10. Retail product is a separate take-home purchase, not a required component of either quoted service choice in this scenario.

6. product recommendation

Turn 12. Product recommendation is a suggestion to discuss, not the client's authorization to buy or a condition of receiving the stated service.

7. matte finish

Turn 14. Matte finish describes a lower-shine appearance, not the degree of hold or a guarantee that a product suits every client.

8. purchase decision

Turn 16. Purchase decision belongs to the client and remains separate from asking questions or hearing a recommendation.

9. service authorization

Turn 18. Service authorization is limited to the haircut the client selects; it excludes the optional finish and any retail purchase.

10. charge confirmation

I have seen it on products, but I am not sure whether it describes strength or something else." Ben: [missing response] Aisha: "Ah, so matte doesn't tell me how strong the hold is. I was mixing those up." Which response belongs in the gap?

D. A matte finish describes a lower-shine appearance. Hold is a different feature, and the actual product information matters when comparing what a particular item claims.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 8, after Aisha says: "Can I just have the haircut today? I am keeping to a budget, and I would rather understand the basic option clearly." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Aisha says: "So if I have both, the final amount is not forty-five. I would like the complete number rather than just the extra amount." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 6, after Aisha says: "I hadn't realized it was separate. Can I have the haircut without paying for the extra styling?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D4. Rebuild the exchange from "The left side looks longer". Mei: "Please. I'm not asking for a different style; I want to check the outline we discussed." Rafael: [missing response] Mei: "Exactly. I was going to leave it, but I'd rather say something before I go home." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. I'll make that clear. You expected an even outline, and the left side currently looks longer to you.

A Correct. This is Rafael's response in turn 6. It connects Mei's preceding point with Mei's follow-up. The even outline was the reported consultation expectation, not a new style request.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 10, after Mei says: "Do you think it needs more taken off? I don't want it getting shorter and shorter." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

Turn 10. The cause remains unknown until the relevant review; the receptionist should not invent it.

6. permission to cut

Turn 12. Permission to review the result does not authorize additional cutting without a separate agreement.

7. refund request

Turn 14. A refund request can be raised through the salon process but has not been approved here.

8. reported concern

Turn 16. The reported concern is that the client's left side looks longer, not that an error is already confirmed.

9. correction

Turn 18. A correction would be additional work; no particular correction has been proposed and accepted yet.

10. pending

Turn 20. Pending means the accepted review has not yet occurred; the concern is not recorded as resolved.

F2. Which next step has been accepted?

C. Mirror review with Jo before deciding a remedy

The brief confirms review only and leaves both correction and refund unapproved.

F / Guided speaking

1. right

Reception: The reported concern is the right side.

Turn 1. The client identifies the right side in this new scenario.

2. even

Client: We agreed on an even outline.

Turn 2. Even outline is the earlier expectation relevant to the review.

3. review

Reception: The accepted next step is a mirror review.

Turn 3. Review is accepted, while a particular remedy has not been authorized.

4. approved

Reception: No refund is approved.

Turn 4. Pausing checkout and reviewing the concern do not establish refund approval.

F / Rebuild the exchange

1. Rebuild the exchange from "The left side looks longer". Mei: "And if I'm still unhappy after we've looked at it, who can discuss the payment with me?" Rafael: [missing response] Mei: "Okay. I wasn't sure what happened next. For now, I'd like Jo to see this side." Which response belongs in the gap?

B. We can take a refund request through our salon process. I haven't approved a refund by pausing checkout.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 10, after Mei says: "Do you think it needs more taken off? I don't want it getting shorter and shorter." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Correct. This is Rafael's response in turn 14. It connects Mei's preceding point with Mei's follow-up. A refund request can be raised through the salon process but has not been approved here.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Mei says: "Before I pay, could someone look at this side? It seems longer than the other one, and we agreed on an even outline." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 6, after Mei says: "Please. I'm not asking for a different style; I want to check the outline we discussed." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

A / Read the situation

A1. What future service is requested?

B. A color consultation, not yet booked

The client requested a consultation but has not selected or accepted an appointment.

Return to the exercise, page 81

A2. Which preferences are confirmed?

C. Retained front length and no finishing spray

The brief confirms only the two stated service preferences.

Return to the exercise, page 81

A3. What is the photography status?

C. No promotional-photo agreement is recorded

No explicit agreement has been recorded, so permission must not be assumed.

Return to the exercise, page 81

D / Response choices

D1. Which handover is accurate?

C. Retain front length; no spray; color consultation requested but unbooked.

The correct handover preserves both confirmed preferences and the unbooked request.

Return to the exercise, page 85

D2. What does no promotional-photo agreement recorded mean?

C. Do not treat promotional use as authorized.

Absence of a recorded agreement does not supply permission for promotional use.

D3. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Request not to use finishing spray. Which term fits?

D. no-spray preference

A Not here. open request: Request still awaiting a decision or arrangement. The usual combination is "track the open request".

B Not here. handover: Transfer of relevant information and responsibility between colleagues. The usual combination is "give an accurate handover".

C Not here. portfolio image: Image displayed to demonstrate work, subject to appropriate permission. The usual combination is "discuss a portfolio image".

D Correct. no-spray preference: Request not to use finishing spray. The usual combination is "record the no-spray preference".

Return to the exercise, page 85

D4. Rebuild the exchange from "Requested is not booked". Sora: "It does. Those are the client's words. We didn't agree to a different product instead." Jordan: [missing response] Sora: "The client also asked about a future color consultation. We haven't picked a date or booked anything." Which response belongs in the gap?

B. Then the no-spray preference gets its own line. That should be easier for the next stylist to spot.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 20, after Sora says: "Thank you. Please make sure whoever sees the next appointment has those preferences in front of them." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Correct. This is Jordan's response in turn 6. It connects Sora's preceding point with Sora's follow-up. This preference records the explicit product exclusion, without authorizing a substitute.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 14, after Sora says: "Right. If someone asks about a portfolio picture later, the note mustn't suggest we've already dealt with it." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 16, after Sora says: "Can you read the summary back? The booked-versus-requested bit is the one I'm most concerned about." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

E / Conversation

1. client profile

Turn 2. The client profile holds the relevant preferences and requests, rather than a new confirmed booking.

2. retain

Turn 4. Retain means keep the front length, the opposite of cutting it shorter.

08 / Answers and explanations / continued

3. no-spray preference

Turn 6. This preference records the explicit product exclusion, without authorizing a substitute.

4. consultation request

Turn 8. The request concerns a future discussion, not an accepted color service or appointment.

5. unbooked

Turn 10. Unbooked is accurate because no appointment date has been offered and accepted.

6. Service consent

Turn 12. Permission for the salon service does not itself authorize promotional photographs or their publication.

7. recorded

Turn 14. Recorded refers to documented agreement; its absence cannot be replaced by an assumption.

8. read-back

Turn 16. A read-back repeats the actual choices and statuses so a colleague can catch changed meaning.

9. booking status

Turn 18. Booking status remains separate from confirmed preferences, so an enquiry cannot become a booking by accident.

10. follow-up contact

Turn 20. Follow-up contact is the next availability conversation, not an assertion that an appointment already exists.

Return to the conversation, page 87

F / Accuracy and scope

F1. Which label should replace an inaccurate booked entry?

C. Requested, not booked

Requested reflects the client's interest without inventing an accepted date.

08 / Answers and explanations / continued

F2. Which read-back catches a meaningful error?

C. No date accepted; the consultation remains unbooked.

The specific read-back verifies the unresolved booking status rather than offering a vague acknowledgment.

1. side

Stylist: Please retain the side length.

Turn 1. The confirmed retained-length preference concerns the sides in this new case.

2. unbooked

Reception: The consultation is requested but unbooked.

Turn 2. No accepted appointment has been established by the request alone.

3. reception

Stylist: The next availability discussion belongs to reception.

Turn 3. Reception is explicitly assigned the next contact in the supplied handover.

4. recorded

Reception: No promotional-image agreement is recorded.

Turn 4. The record contains no agreement authorizing promotional image use.

Jordan: [missing response] Sora: "Can you read the summary back? The booked-versus-requested bit is the one I'm most concerned about." Which response belongs in the gap?

B. I'll state that no photo agreement is recorded, rather than guessing which uses the client would accept.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 20, after Sora says: "Thank you. Please make sure whoever sees the next appointment has those preferences in front of them." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Correct. This is Jordan's response in turn 14. It connects Sora's preceding point with Sora's follow-up. Recorded refers to documented agreement; its absence cannot be replaced by an assumption.

1. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Short-to-medium haircut family with a defined outline, varying in length and shape. Which term fits?

A. bob

A Correct. bob: Short-to-medium haircut family with a defined outline, varying in length and shape. The usual combination is "clarify the bob outline".

B Not here. retained length: Hair length kept rather than removed. The usual combination is "preserve retained length".

C Not here. trim: Removal of a limited amount, which still needs an agreed length. The usual combination is "clarify the trim".

D Not here. front length: Length retained in the hair toward the face. The usual combination is "protect front length".

2. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Fade whose shortest area exposes skin in the supplied reference. Which term fits?

D. skin fade

A Not here. sideburn: Hair extending down in front of the ear. The usual combination is "clarify sideburn length".

B Not here. growth pattern: Direction or arrangement in which hair naturally grows. The usual combination is "discuss the growth pattern".

C Not here. fullness: Visual amount of hair or volume in an area. The usual combination is "reduce neckline fullness".

D Correct. skin fade: Fade whose shortest area exposes skin in the supplied reference. The usual combination is "identify the skin fade".

3. Rebuild the exchange from "Keep the ponytail length". Alex: "And please leave out the bit across the forehead. I don't want bangs. Are those the same as a fringe?" Ren: [missing response] Alex: "Thank you. I usually wear a low ponytail, not a high one. Does that help explain the length I need?" Which response belongs in the gap?

D. Yes, fringe is another word for bangs. I'll make that clear in the notes.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Alex says: "Mostly the shape. Looking at it now, the ends are much higher than mine. Where would they finish on me?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 18, after Alex says: "Then let's agree on that before you start. I'd rather check the length in the mirror first." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 20, after Alex says: "Great. Longer than the picture, enough length to discuss tying it back, and definitely no fringe." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Correct. This is Ren's response in turn 10. It connects Alex's preceding point with Alex's follow-up. Fringe and bangs name the front feature that Alex explicitly declines in this conversation.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "Less bulk, not bare sides". Morgan: "Let me check the main point: I prefer A's covered sides, and I want less fullness at the neckline near my collar." Dev: [missing response] Morgan: "Yes. Show me how short you mean before we start, especially around the ears." Which response belongs in the gap?

B. Yes. That is the agreed appearance for discussion. It does not yet specify an exact length or technique, and it does not include the exposed side area in B.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 20, after Morgan says: "Yes. Show me how short you mean before we start, especially around the ears." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Correct. This is Dev's response in turn 18. It connects Morgan's preceding point with Morgan's follow-up. Appearance describes the visible direction being discussed, without claiming an exact length or technical cutting method has already been agreed.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 8, after Morgan says: "Should I ask for a taper next time, then? I used that word before and got something much shorter." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 10, after Morgan says: "That makes sense. The fullness bothers me where the hair meets my collar, rather than across the whole back of my head." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

1. A colleague needs the term for this meaning: Relative lightness or darkness of hair color. Which term fits?

A. level

A Correct. level: Relative lightness or darkness of hair color. The usual combination is "discuss the color level".

B Not here. highlights: Selected areas made visibly lighter than surrounding hair. The usual combination is "discuss highlights".

C Not here. permanent color: Product category designed for lasting color change. The usual combination is "distinguish permanent color".

D Not here. golden: Term describing a warm gold tonal character. The usual combination is "identify golden tones".

D. time conflict

A Not here. appointment slot: Specific time reserved for a service. The usual combination is "confirm the appointment slot".

B Not here. change fee: Charge associated with altering a booking under a stated policy. The usual combination is "explain the change fee".

C Not here. confirmation message: Written or spoken statement of agreed booking details. The usual combination is "send a confirmation message".

D Correct. time conflict: Incompatibility between two timing requirements. The usual combination is "identify the time conflict".

3. Rebuild the exchange from "Less bulk, not bare sides". Morgan: "That makes sense. The fullness bothers me where the hair meets my collar, rather than across the whole back of my head." Dev: [missing response] Morgan: "I also have only five minutes in the morning. I cannot spend a long time trying to reproduce a photograph every day." Which response belongs in the gap?

D. I will record the unwanted bulk in that location. We still need to agree on the exact length and assess the actual hair before choosing a method.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Morgan says: "The back feels too full around my collar, but I do not want bare sides. I have had that misunderstood before." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 8, after Morgan says: "Should I ask for a taper next time, then? I used that word before and got something much shorter." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 6, after Morgan says: "A looks closer. Please don't take the sides as short as B; it's the fullness at the collar that bothers me." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Correct. This is Dev's response in turn 10. It connects Morgan's preceding point with Morgan's follow-up. Bulk refers to perceived fullness or weight in an area, here specifically near the collar rather than across the entire head.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "The appointment no longer fits". Luis: "Could we read the details back before I go? I want to be certain I have heard the time correctly and that it is still the haircut." Hana: [missing response] Luis: "Yes, tomorrow at ten for the haircut. I'll check the date on the confirmation before I leave." Which response belongs in the gap?

B. Yes. The confirmation message should show the actual date for tomorrow, ten o'clock, and the haircut service. We will check those details together.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Luis says: "Thank you for telling me. Does that mean I would start at twenty past two, or is that when the haircut would be finished?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Correct. This is Hana's response in turn 18. It connects Luis's preceding point with Luis's follow-up. Confirmation message should state the actual date, 10:00 time, and haircut service so the client can verify the replacement details.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 16, after Luis says: "Thanks. Last time I changed an appointment, I got two reminders. Could you check that today is cancelled?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Not here. This line belongs to turn 6, after Luis says: "Then I think we have a problem. I cannot move the time I need to leave, and I do not want to be watching the clock throughout." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

3. Rebuild the exchange from "The appointment no longer fits". Luis: "What do you have tomorrow? If there is a morning appointment, that would probably be easier than trying to make today work." Hana: [missing response] Luis: "Ten works for me. Would I have to pay a change fee even though the appointment is moving because the salon is behind?" Which response belongs in the gap?

A. There is availability at ten tomorrow morning. We can discuss moving your haircut to that slot rather than keeping you waiting for a service that conflicts with your schedule.

A Correct. This is Hana's response in turn 10. It connects Luis's preceding point with Luis's follow-up. Availability means the 10:00 slot tomorrow can currently be offered; it becomes the replacement only after Luis chooses and confirms it.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 2, after Luis says: "I am here for my two o'clock haircut. Before I sit down, I should mention that I have to leave by quarter to three." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 12, after Luis says: "Ten works for me. Would I have to pay a change fee even though the appointment is moving because the salon is behind?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "What does forty-five include?". Aisha: "Then please keep today to the haircut only, at forty-five dollars. No optional finish and no retail product for me." Ben: [missing response] Aisha: "That's right. I'd rather know the price now than question it at the till." Which response belongs in the gap?

D. I will record that service authorization: haircut only at forty-five dollars, with no finish or retail product added. We have clarified the choice before either service begins.

A Not here. This line belongs to turn 10, after Aisha says: "I also heard someone mention a styling product. Do I have to buy one to have the haircut-only option at that price?" It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 8, after Aisha says: "Can I just have the haircut today? I am keeping to a budget, and I would rather understand the basic option clearly." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

C Not here. This line belongs to turn 4, after Aisha says: "So if I have both, the final amount is not forty-five. I would like the complete number rather than just the extra amount." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

D Correct. This is Ben's response in turn 18. It connects Aisha's preceding point with Aisha's follow-up. Service authorization is limited to the haircut the client selects; it excludes the optional finish and any retail purchase.

3. Rebuild the exchange from "What does forty-five include?". Aisha: "I also heard someone mention a styling product. Do I have to buy one to have the haircut-only option at that price?" Ben: [missing response] Aisha: "Good. I thought buying something might be part of the deal. I'm not looking for a product today." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. No. A retail product is not part of either quoted service choice, and neither requires a product purchase here. Discussing one does not mean adding it to your bill.

A Correct. This is Ben's response in turn 10. It connects Aisha's preceding point with Aisha's follow-up. Retail product is a separate take-home purchase, not a required component of either quoted service choice in this scenario.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 20, after Aisha says: "That's right. I'd rather know the price now than question it at the till." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

4. Rebuild the exchange from "Requested is not booked". Sora: "Yes, that's right. The client hasn't agreed to a date, a color formula, or an alternative finishing product." Jordan: [missing response] Sora: "Thank you. Please make sure whoever sees the next appointment has those preferences in front of them." Which response belongs in the gap?

A. I'll keep the booking status separate from the preference notes. The consultation remains a follow-up request.

A Correct. This is Jordan's response in turn 18. It connects Sora's preceding point with Sora's follow-up. Booking status remains separate from confirmed preferences, so an enquiry cannot become a booking by accident.

B Not here. This line belongs to turn 10, after Sora says: "No. Reception needs to discuss availability with the client. I don't want a reminder going out before that happens." It addresses that point, not the missing turn in the supplied exchange.

Additional case 1 / Explanations

Extended conversation

1. dry outline

Turn 2. The dry outline is the visible shoulder-level shape Nia wants to retain, not the longer stretched endpoint.

2. shrinkage

Turn 4. Shrinkage describes the shorter visible length when curls recoil, not missing hair or a measured amount to cut.

3. crown volume

Turn 6. Crown volume concerns fullness at the upper back of the head, separate from the retained outer length.

4. Strand thickness

Turn 8. Strand thickness describes individual hairs; fine strands can occur in a head with many hairs.

5. density

Turn 10. Density concerns the amount of hair in an area, not the diameter of each strand or a product instruction.

6. natural fall

Turn 12. Natural fall is how the hair sits without being held stretched, which is the relevant appearance for this request.

Return to the conversation, page 94

Transfer exchange

1. chin

Client: Keep the dry outline at my chin .

Turn 1. The selected endpoint is the chin in the dry unstretched state, not the stretched collarbone position.

Additional case 1 / Explanations / continued

2. stretched

Stylist: The longer comparison shows the hair stretched .

Turn 2. The collarbone endpoint belongs to the stretched comparison, not the requested natural outline.

3. coarse

Client: The individual strands are coarse .

Turn 3. Coarse describes individual strand thickness, not how many hairs grow in an area.

4. low

Stylist: The recorded density is low .

Turn 4. Low density concerns the amount of hair in an area and can coexist with coarse strands.

Return to the conversation, page 96

Additional case 2 / Explanations

Extended conversation

1. number two

Turn 2. Number two corresponds to a nominal 6 mm length on this specified chart, not removal of 2 mm.

2. left

Turn 4. Left means retained after cutting, whereas Pavel initially understood the number as an amount removed.

3. number four

Turn 6. The supplied chart assigns 13 mm to number four; the number is not a centimeter measurement.

4. millimeters

Turn 8. The millimeter labels provide the actual nominal lengths; guard numbers are identifiers rather than a one-millimeter scale.

5. guide comb

Turn 10. The guide comb and its own documentation identify the length; another trimmer need not use the same numbering.

6. separate agreement

Turn 14. A side-length preference does not settle the top, neckline, or beard, which are expressly unagreed.

Return to the conversation, page 98

Transfer exchange

1. ten

Client: I want approximately ten millimeters remaining at the sides.

Turn 1. Ten millimeters is the requested retained length, not the amount removed.

2. three

Barber: On this chart, that is guard number three .

Turn 2. Number three corresponds to 10 mm on the supplied tool-specific chart.

3. removed

Client: The chart describes length left, not length removed .

Turn 3. Remaining length and the amount taken off are different measurements.

4. unagreed

Barber: Work on the beard is still unagreed .

Turn 4. A side-length request does not authorize a separate, undiscussed beard service.

Return to the conversation, page 100

Additional case 3 / Explanations

Extended conversation

1. level

Turn 2. Level seven describes lightness or darkness here; it does not establish the desired cool tonal character.

2. tone

Turn 4. Tone distinguishes the warm observed sample from the cool target even though both are described at level seven.

3. Regrowth

Turn 6. Regrowth identifies the naturally grown root area, which is recorded separately from the previously colored lengths.

4. previously colored lengths

Turn 8. The longer previously colored area has its own starting record; it cannot be merged with the natural regrowth entry.

5. strand test

Turn 10. A strand test supplies information about the tested hair sample; it is not a whole-head guarantee or a skin allergy assessment.

6. allergy-alert assessment

Turn 12. The allergy-alert assessment is a separate incomplete requirement; an acceptable-looking hair sample does not replace it.

Return to the conversation, page 102

Transfer exchange

1. six

Client: The sample and goal share level six .

Turn 1. Both entries state level six, so their difference is tonal rather than the supplied level.

Additional case 3 / Explanations / continued

2. neutral

Colorist: The requested tone is neutral .

Turn 2. Neutral is the goal; warm is the recorded sample result.

3. warm

Client: The sample is still described as warm .

Turn 3. The observed warm tone must remain in the record rather than being replaced by the desired tone.

4. incomplete

Colorist: The allergy-alert assessment is incomplete .

Turn 4. The hair-sample result does not complete the separate outstanding assessment or authorize application.

Responding to a concern about the result

Acknowledge specifically: I hear that the left side looks longer to you.

Recognize the expectation: You were expecting an even outline.

Pause the transaction: Let us pause checkout while we address the concern.

Passing preferences to the next appointment

Open the handover: I have two confirmed preferences and one unbooked request.

State the first preference: Please retain the front length.

State the second preference: The client does not want finishing spray.

Clear choices. Confident consultations.

Eight lessons on consultations, shape, color, bookings, comfort, prices, concerns, and handovers. Three additional conversations explore curly-hair length, clipper guards, and color-assessment records.

Turning a reference photo into a clear request

The photo has a chin-length endpoint and a straight fringe. Alex chooses neither automatically. The agreed outline discussion is collarbone-length, with no fringe requested and retained ponytail length as the practical requirement.

Describing shape, texture, and everyday styling

Discussing color without promising a photograph

Level describes lightness or darkness; tone describes color character. A cool reference tone does not identify a suitable product, establish a formula, or show that the same result can be achieved on Priya's hair by Friday.

Booking time and handling appointment changes

The delay changes the start, not the service duration. A 2:20 start plus forty minutes gives 3:00, fifteen minutes after the client must leave. Do not imply the ordinary service can simply fit into twenty-five minutes.
