Eight scenarios. Eight skills.

Follow eight conversations from the first representation question to property search, negotiation, closing, and ongoing service.

01 Agency, Representation, Compensation, and Trust 4

Before the buyer shares a negotiating limit | Clarify representation, confidentiality, and compensation without assuming an agreement already exists.

02 Client Intake, Needs Analysis, and Property Search 13

Turning good neighborhood into a usable search | Replace vague preferences with client-defined property and travel criteria without assuming affordability or belonging.

03 Listings, Property Descriptions, Pricing, and Market Data 22

Three sale prices do not make three equal comparables | Explain why a pricing comparison needs verified differences rather than a simple unqualified average.

04 Showings, Open Houses, Fair Housing, and Advertising 31

Describe the home, not the preferred household | Revise exclusionary listing language and handle showing questions with consistent, property-focused information.

05 Offers, Counteroffers, Negotiation, and Contingencies 40

A thirty-day offer with an unconfirmed loan timeline | Discuss offer timing and protections without turning a proposal or lender estimate into a binding assurance.

06 Inspections, Repairs, Disclosures, and Due Diligence 49

An inspection finding is not a repair diagnosis | Relay a technical finding accurately, arrange further evaluation, and distinguish a repair request from an agreement.

07 Financing, Appraisal, Title, Escrow, and Closing 58

Appraisal received does not mean clear to close | Explain separate closing milestones and route unresolved financial or title questions to the responsible professional.

08 Leasing, Property Management, Commercial Basics, Ethics, and Crisis Scenarios 67

The leak is logged, but the tenant needs an update | Acknowledge a missed response, establish current urgency, and give an owned update without inventing a repair appointment.

Useful detail builds client confidence.

Property decisions combine money, deadlines, technical reports, and strong personal preferences. Clear English helps clients distinguish a listing claim from a verified fact, an offer from an agreement, and a progress update from permission to proceed.

Name whom you represent

Explain the actual professional relationship and its limits before discussing confidential strategy. Do not assume that providing information or arranging access answers the representation question.

"Let us confirm the brokerage role and applicable agreement before discussing your negotiating limit."

Translate preferences into criteria

Ask about the property, budget, travel needs, and other objective requirements. Let the client identify priorities rather than selecting neighborhoods through assumptions about who belongs there.

"Which destination, transport method, and travel time should we use for the search?"

Keep the source beside the fact

Attribute an observation to the inspection report, a measurement to its source, and a financing update to the lender. Coordination does not turn an agent into a technical diagnostician or final approver.

"The report recommends specialist evaluation; it does not supply a repair diagnosis or price."

Report the exact state

Requested, received, reviewed, and cleared are different milestones. A reassuring update names the open item, responsible professional, and next communication without guaranteeing an unfinished result.

"The appraisal is received; the title questions remain open."

PROFESSIONAL BOUNDARIES

Fictional English practice using mainly US real-estate terminology, not legal, lending, valuation, engineering, or safety advice. Agency, advertising, disclosure, lease, and closing requirements vary. Actual transactions require current documents, local rules, authorized instructions, and appropriately qualified professionals.

Before the buyer shares a negotiating limit

A Read the situation

Clarify representation, confidentiality, and compensation without assuming an agreement already exists.

Prospective buyer Lena asks licensee Ren whether Ren represents both sides of a property transaction. Their relationship has not been established or documented, and the brokerage role for the particular listing still needs confirmation. No fee terms have been agreed. Lena is about to disclose her maximum offer. Ren can explain the questions that must be settled and obtain the applicable documents and broker guidance, but must not promise unrestricted advocacy, a standard commission, or confidentiality beyond the actual relationship and applicable duties.

PEOPLE / Lena: Prospective buyer | Ren: Real-estate licensee

CLARIFY THE ROLE BEFORE INVITING TRUST

A friendly conversation may sound like personal representation to a newcomer. Answer that concern directly and identify what needs confirmation. Do not encourage a negotiating disclosure while the professional role is unresolved, or substitute general reassurance for the actual terms and duties.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What is not yet established?

- | | |

| C The brokerage's role, local requirements, and applicable documents | D A universal agency rule inferred from the property's price |

- 01 Lena: Before I tell you the highest price I could offer, can you explain whether you represent me, the seller, or both sides of this property?
- 02 Ren: Let us clarify the ¹ _____ question first. Our relationship is not established, and I need to confirm the brokerage's role for this particular listing before describing the available arrangement.
- 03 Lena: I assumed that because you were answering my questions, you would automatically negotiate only for me. I do not want to misunderstand that.
- 04 Ren: Answering questions does not settle the ² _____ question. Please hold your negotiating limit until we have explained the role, duties, and relevant documents properly.
- 05 Lena: If your office is connected with the seller, would that mean you can simply represent both of us without changing anything?
- 06 Ren: We cannot assume that. ³ _____ is treated differently across jurisdictions, and any permitted arrangement has conditions and limits that need to be explained before a decision.
- 07 Lena: Who can confirm the arrangement your office can offer for this property? I would prefer a specific answer rather than a general description.
- 08 Ren: I will consult the ⁴ _____ and obtain the listing-role information. Then we can discuss the actual options instead of implying that an unresolved relationship already exists.
- 09 Lena: When we review the paperwork, I also want to know what work is included. Does the agreement cover the whole search or just this property?
- 10 Ren: The ⁵ _____ should answer that, along with any limits. We need to read the proposed terms rather than assume every conversation creates the same package of services.

E Conversations / turns 11-20

Continue with the word bank on page 10.

- 11 Lena: And if I wanted to talk to another agent later, would there be a restriction? I have not agreed to anything exclusive today.
- 12 Ren: We would review the ⁶ _____ provision, if one is proposed, and its exact reach. Your question should be answered before you decide whether those terms suit you.
- 13 Lena: I also hear different things about commissions. Is there one standard amount that the law makes everyone pay, regardless of the services?
- 14 Ren: Do not assume a fixed universal amount. ⁷ _____ needs a clear discussion of the proposed terms. We have not agreed a fee, a payment basis, or who would owe it.
- 15 Lena: If another party offers to contribute, does that automatically mean I have no obligation under an agreement I might sign?
- 16 Ren: Not automatically. The ⁸ _____ needs to be explained using the actual documents and conditions. A possible contribution and your contractual responsibility are not interchangeable statements.
- 17 Lena: I would like time to read the terms, including when the agreement ends and what would happen if I wanted to stop working together.
- 18 Ren: We should review the ⁹ _____ as well as the duration. I can explain the proposal within my role and direct legal-interpretation questions to qualified counsel when needed.
- 19 Lena: Then I will keep my maximum offer private for now. First we clarify the brokerage's role, the services, and the payment terms.
- 20 Ren: Correct. Any required ¹⁰ _____ must follow a clear explanation of the actual arrangement. Today I will obtain the missing information, not promise unrestricted advocacy before the relationship is settled.

Turning good neighborhood into a usable search

A Read the situation

Replace vague preferences with client-defined property and travel criteria without assuming affordability or belonging.

Buyer Cam asks agent Imani for a "good neighborhood" and a "short commute." Cam identifies a weekday 9 a.m. destination at Central Clinic, public transport, a target journey of no more than 35 minutes door to door, two bedrooms, and a step-free entrance. Cam proposes a $450,000 asking-price search cap, but lender qualification and the total ownership budget remain unverified. Imani must build a search from these criteria, check property claims, and avoid promising a commute time or deciding which community suits Cam.

PEOPLE / Cam: Buyer | Imani: Buyer's agent

LET THE CLIENT DEFINE FIT

A broad request invites useful questions, not assumptions about the client's background. Ask which features and travel needs matter, then supply objective information consistently. Treat accessibility details as specific property facts to verify rather than replace them with a vague label such as suitable for everyone.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What commute basis did Cam specify?

- | | |
|---|--|
| A Driving time at midnight between neighborhood boundaries | B Walking time from the nearest station only |
| C Any transport method with no arrival time | D Public transport, door to door, arriving for 9 a.m. on weekdays |

2. What does $450,000 represent here?

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| A A guaranteed accepted offer | B A proposed asking-price search cap |
| C Confirmed lender approval | D A verified total ownership budget |

3. Which property requirements are stated?

- | | |
|---|---|
| A Three bedrooms and a guaranteed school place | B A detached house with no ownership charges |
| C A renovated kitchen and a private garage | D Two bedrooms and a step-free entrance |

- 05 Cam: Some listings say ten minutes from the center without explaining how. That would not tell me whether I could reach the clinic at the right time.

- 07 Cam: Inside the property, two bedrooms are essential. I also need an entrance without steps, not just a building described as conveniently accessible.
- 08 Imani: I will record those as ⁴ _____. We should distinguish them from preferences so a larger kitchen or attractive view does not silently replace something you said is necessary.
- 09 Cam: For the entrance, I would want to know which route the description refers to. A rear route may be very different from the main entrance.

Three sale prices do not make three equal comparables

A Read the situation

Explain why a pricing comparison needs verified differences rather than a simple unqualified average.

A seller's 1,800-square-foot home is described as in good condition. Three nearby sales closed within 90 days: A, 1,800 square feet in similar stated condition, sold for $470,000; B, 2,400 square feet, sold for $540,000; C, 1,800 square feet requiring major repairs, sold for $430,000. Their simple average is $480,000. Concessions, measurement sources, and other material differences have not been verified. Seller Rosa wants to call $480,000 a proven value; agent Dev must explain the comparison's limits.

PEOPLE / Rosa: Seller | Dev: Listing agent

EXPLAIN THE ADJUSTMENT QUESTION WITHOUT INVENTING AN ADJUSTMENT

A seller may understandably favor the highest nearby sale or a neat average. Show the exact differences that affect comparability. Do not replace an unsupported average with invented dollar adjustments merely to sound analytical; distinguish what is known from what the pricing review still needs.

1. Which statement uses the average appropriately?

- A The unadjusted average is $480,000, but the properties differ materially.
- B The exact mean guarantees a $480,000 appraisal.
- C Every property is worth $480,000 because the sales are nearby.
- D The mean makes condition and size irrelevant.

2. What should happen before assigning an adjustment for B's extra area?

- A Multiply by any convenient round number without support.
- B Assume all square footage has an identical value in every property.
- C Ignore the extra 600 square feet because the sale is recent.
- D Verify comparable measurements and supporting market evidence.

3. Which wording distinguishes asking from sold prices?

- A A pending sale always supplies the final recorded price.
- B A suggested price is the same as lender approval.
- C The seller may choose a list price, but the supplied records are closed sale prices.
- D Every list price is a completed transaction price.

4. Which summary preserves the condition issue?

- A C's major repairs may affect comparability and require investigation.
- B C proves that repair needs have no effect on price.
- C C's condition must be identical to the subject property.
- D The repair cost is exactly the difference between C and A.

- 01 Rosa: The three nearby sales average four hundred eighty thousand dollars. That seems like a clean answer for what my home is worth.
- 02 Dev: It is the correct arithmetic, but a ¹ _____ needs more than the mean. The properties differ in size and condition, and some transaction details remain unchecked.
- 03 Rosa: They all closed within ninety days and are nearby. I thought that would make them equally useful comparisons for my house.
- 04 Dev: Timing and location help, but each ² _____ still needs review. Sale B has six hundred more square feet, while sale C required major repairs.
- 05 Rosa: A is the same stated size as mine and looks similar in condition. Should we pay more attention to that record?
- 06 Dev: On the supplied facts, A is the closer starting point for the ³ _____. That does not eliminate the need to verify its details or check other differences we have not yet discussed.
- 07 Rosa: Could you simply subtract a fixed amount for B's extra space and add the repair cost back to C? That would give us an adjusted answer.
- 08 Dev: Only with a supported ⁴ _____. I should not invent dollar amounts for extra area or repairs just to make the comparison look more exact.
- 09 Rosa: I also do not know whether the sellers paid any of the buyers' costs. Would that affect how we interpret the reported prices?
- 10 Dev: We should verify any ⁵ _____ and the other transaction terms. The headline price may not tell the complete economic story of a sale.

- 13 Rosa: Some neighbors quote a price per square foot as if it can be applied to any home on the street without further questions.
- 14 Dev: ⁷ _____ is another comparison tool, not a universal answer. The area definition, condition, lot, and other features can affect how useful that ratio is.
- 15 Rosa: Then should we avoid mentioning four hundred eighty thousand entirely? I do not want the presentation to sound as if we learned nothing from the sales.
- 16 Dev: We can show it as the unadjusted mean, distinct from a recommended ⁸ _____. The useful explanation is why the records need analysis, not that the arithmetic is somehow wrong.
- 17 Rosa: If we decide on an asking figure after that review, can I tell buyers that it is the value a lender's appraiser will certainly confirm?
- 18 Dev: No. A proposed ⁹ _____ or asking figure does not guarantee an appraisal or an accepted offer. Those are separate decisions with their own evidence and circumstances.
- 19 Rosa: I will keep the average on the slide but add the size and condition differences. We can mark concessions and measurement sources as still to verify.
- 20 Dev: Good. We will check each record's ¹⁰ _____ and transaction details, then explain a supported pricing recommendation. A transparent comparison is more useful than a precise number that conceals its assumptions.

- 01 Tomas: I want to offer four hundred twenty thousand dollars, with eight thousand in earnest money and a thirty-day close. That should look decisive.
- 02 Elise: We can discuss those terms, but the proposed ¹ _____ conflicts with the lender's current thirty-five-to-forty-five-day estimate. We need to resolve that gap before presenting thirty days as feasible.
- 03 Tomas: The lender said the estimate was provisional. I was hoping that a signed contract might make the process move more quickly.
- 04 Elise: It may clarify the transaction, but it does not create final approval. The ² _____ and timing need careful review, rather than assuming the lender will meet a date because we request it.
- 05 Tomas: I have not asked you to remove financing protection. I just want to understand how the dates and conditions affect the proposal.
- 06 Elise: Understood. Discussing a ³ _____ is not an instruction to make one. We should explain the consequences and obtain the appropriate review before you decide about any change.
- 07 Tomas: What does the eight-thousand-dollar deposit mean for me if the financing does not work out? I have heard that it is always refundable.
- 08 Elise: The ⁴ _____ terms need to answer that in context. I cannot promise an automatic refund without the contract, the facts, and any required actions being considered.
- 09 Tomas: So even if a condition gives me a right, there may be a date or notice step that affects whether I can use it.

- 11 Tomas: If the lender later needs more time, could we simply tell the seller that the closing date has moved?

- 13 Tomas: And if the seller sends back a different price or date, I should not assume that means our original proposal has been accepted.
- 14 Elise: Correct. A ⁷ _____ needs a fresh review of the actual terms and their legal effect. We should identify the differences clearly so you can make an informed decision.
- 15 Tomas: I also want to know who would hold the deposit and what instructions I should rely on if the offer moves forward.
- 16 Elise: We should identify the authorized ⁸ _____ and verify instructions through a trusted route. Do not treat unexpected payment details as verified merely because they mention this transaction.
- 17 Tomas: The possession date matters as well because I need to arrange a move. I should not book everything just from the proposed closing line.
- 18 Elise: Right. The ⁹ _____ must be checked separately in the terms. We should not promise access to the property before the relevant agreement and closing conditions are confirmed.
- 19 Tomas: Let us first ask the lender about the range and review the conditions. Then I can decide which offer terms I am prepared to authorize.
- 20 Elise: I will record your ¹⁰ _____ after that review and confirm the exact version before submission. At present we have a proposal to examine, not an accepted contract or a guaranteed timeline.

An inspection finding is not a repair diagnosis

A Read the situation

Relay a technical finding accurately, arrange further evaluation, and distinguish a repair request from an agreement.

06

A home inspection reports staining on a basement wall and recommends evaluation by a qualified moisture specialist. It does not establish the cause, give a repair design, or estimate a repair cost. The seller's disclosure marks prior water intrusion as unknown. Buyer Nina asks agent Omar whether the wall only needs paint and whether the seller must pay. No specialist appointment or repair agreement is confirmed. The contractual inspection-response requirements need review before any decision or deadline assurance.

PEOPLE / Nina: Buyer | Omar: Buyer's agent

BE USEFUL WITHOUT BORROWING ANOTHER PROFESSION'S CERTAINTY

An agent can locate the relevant report passage, coordinate a referral, and track the contractual steps. That is substantive help. Avoid turning a request for reassurance into a technical diagnosis, a guarantee of safety, or a conclusion about another party's obligations.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What does the report establish in this case?

A The seller accepted a repair obligation

B Staining was observed and specialist evaluation was recommended

C The wall only needs paint

D A particular pipe caused the issue

2. How does the seller's disclosure describe prior water intrusion?

A Unknown

B Confirmed never to have occurred

C Fully repaired with a transferable guarantee

D Admitted and priced into an agreed credit

3. Which next step is supported?

A Arrange qualified evaluation and review the contractual response requirements

B Promise that paint will solve the issue

C Guarantee the seller will pay every cost

D Treat a referral as a completed repair

2. How should the unknown disclosure response be interpreted?

- 01 Nina: The report shows staining on the basement wall. Can we assume it only needs paint, or does the photograph tell you what caused it?
- 02 Omar: The ¹ _____ is staining. The report does not establish the cause, and I should not turn a photograph into a diagnosis or tell you that paint will resolve it.
- 03 Nina: The inspector recommends a moisture specialist. I was hoping the general inspection would answer every question before I had to contact anyone else.
- 04 Omar: We should review the ² _____ and the exact recommendation. An inspection can identify an issue requiring another professional's assessment without supplying that specialist analysis itself.
- 05 Nina: I noticed that the seller marked previous water intrusion as unknown. Is that effectively the same as saying there has never been a problem?
- 06 Omar: No. The ³ _____ leaves that history unresolved. We should preserve the word unknown instead of paraphrasing it as a confident no.
- 07 Nina: What can you help me do next? I need a clear process rather than either a reassuring guess or a technical conclusion I cannot verify.
- 08 Omar: I can help coordinate a ⁴ _____ and track the response. We will ask about the relevant qualifications, availability, and evaluation scope before describing any visit as confirmed.
- 09 Nina: Once the specialist looks at it, I want to understand why the staining occurred, not just receive a general suggestion to cover the mark.
- 10 Omar: That is a question about the ⁵ _____. The qualified evaluator can explain their findings and limits. I can help organize the information, but I cannot supply that technical conclusion in advance.

- 13 Nina: Could we ask the seller to handle the work? I do not want your answer to imply that they have already accepted responsibility.
- 14 Omar: We can discuss a ⁷ _____ after the relevant review. A request is not a repair agreement, and the actual contract and applicable rules determine the available process.
- 15 Nina: Timing worries me. If arranging the specialist takes longer than expected, does that automatically extend the inspection-response deadline?
- 16 Omar: No. We need to track the ⁸ _____ alongside the contract requirements. Any extension or notice needs the proper process, rather than an assumption that the clock stops during evaluation.
- 17 Nina: If the seller eventually agrees to work, how would I know that the agreed scope was actually completed before relying on it?
- 18 Omar: The agreement should address suitable completion evidence and any appropriate ⁹ _____. We should not call the matter resolved solely because someone says a contractor has been contacted.
- 19 Nina: My next step is qualified evaluation, with the contractual response requirements checked at the same time. No diagnosis or seller payment is confirmed yet.
- 20 Omar: Exactly. Any proposed ¹⁰ _____ or work agreement will need its own review and acceptance. I will give you a status update that separates each completed step from what remains open.

Appraisal received does not mean clear to close

A Read the situation

Explain separate closing milestones and route unresolved financial or title questions to the responsible professional.

Buyer Aria sees "appraisal received" on the transaction checklist and asks whether everything is ready to close. The title professional is still investigating a recorded prior lien for which a release has not been verified. Final lender approval is not confirmed. A draft settlement calculation shows $25,000 cash to close, but final figures and payment instructions have not been verified. Transaction coordinator Samir must give an accurate update and assign follow-up without declaring the title clear, guaranteeing funding, or treating the draft as final.

A USEFUL UPDATE IDENTIFIES BOTH PROGRESS AND THE OPEN ITEM

- A The photographer
- B A presumed final lender approval
- C The title professional
- D Aria's moving company

3. What is the status of the $25,000 figure?

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which response combines empathy with accurate ownership?

- A The contractor will certainly finish by 2 p.m.
- B Every rent remedy is automatically approved after two reports.
- C You reported this twice without an update; I own the follow-up and will update you by 2 p.m.
- D The ticket exists, so the service issue is already resolved.

08

2. Which update correctly describes the contractor status?

- A Guaranteed to arrive before any stated time
- B Authorized to enter under every possible circumstance
- C Contacted, with no appointment confirmed yet
- D Scheduled and completed because a request was logged

3. What should happen before treating the request as completed?

- A Replace both earlier reports with a new blank record.
- B Verify the actual work and record the resulting status.
- C Close it after sending a reference number.
- D Assume silence proves a repair occurred.

4. Which statement keeps the rent question within scope?

- A Any leak automatically cancels all rent obligations.
- B A coordinator can promise any credit without authority.
- C Commercial and residential leases have identical remedy rules everywhere.
- D The requested adjustment needs the applicable review and is not approved yet.

- 03 Leo: There is still water under the sink. I have not reported any immediate danger, but I need someone qualified to assess the problem.

01 Briefing and language checks

Agency, Representation, Compensation, and Trust

A Briefing checks / page 4

1. What is not yet established?

C. The representation relationship and agreed fee terms

The case explicitly leaves the relationship and compensation terms unresolved; it does not establish the other arrangements.

2. What is Lena about to share?

C. Her maximum offer

The sensitive information identified in the briefing is Lena's negotiating limit.

3. What should Ren verify before describing the available arrangement?

C. The brokerage's role, local requirements, and applicable documents

Available relationships and their duties depend on actual brokerage circumstances and applicable rules, not those assumptions.

D Language checks / page 9

1. Which response best addresses Lena's immediate concern?

C. Let us confirm the brokerage role before you share your maximum offer.

Clarifying the unresolved relationship first protects the discussion from unsupported assumptions about advocacy and confidentiality.

2. Which fee statement is accurate?

A. No fee terms are agreed yet; we need to review the actual proposal.

The case supplies no agreed fee or payer commitment, so only the proposed terms can be reviewed.

3. Which question separates two issues correctly?

A. Whom do you represent, and what payment obligations would the agreement create?

Representation and compensation are related but distinct questions that require their own facts and terms.

4. Which next step fits Ren's role?

B. Obtain the applicable documents and managing-broker guidance.

The briefing authorizes explanation and verification rather than unsupported legal claims or assumed agreement.

01 Conversation answers

Agency, Representation, Compensation, and Trust

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 10-11

1. agency. Turn 2. Agency identifies the representation relationship and its duties; the current conversation has not yet established it.

2. buyer representation. Turn 4. Buyer representation requires clarity about the actual relationship; providing information alone does not answer whom the professional represents.

3. dual agency. Turn 6. Dual agency concerns both-side representation, with availability and conditions depending on applicable law rather than convenience.

4. managing broker. Turn 8. The managing broker provides relevant supervisory guidance about the brokerage's role and applicable process.

5. service scope. Turn 10. Service scope defines the included work or properties; it must be read from the actual proposed terms.

6. exclusivity. Turn 12. Exclusivity concerns contractual restrictions on using other representatives; none should be assumed accepted in this unresolved discussion.

7. compensation. Turn 14. Compensation is payment for services under agreed terms; the conversation supplies no legally fixed rate or accepted fee.

8. fee obligation. Turn 16. The fee obligation depends on the actual agreement and payment conditions, not an assumed contribution by another party.

9. termination provision. Turn 18. The termination provision addresses ending the agreement; it differs from simply assuming a conversation can cancel all terms.

10. informed consent. Turn 20. Informed consent depends on relevant information and understanding; silence or an introductory discussion should not be treated as complete agreement.

F Transfer conversation

Page 12

1. term

Seller: "I am requesting a shorter agreement term."

The seller's request concerns duration rather than a completed change to the service package.

2. change

Broker: "That is a proposed change, not an accepted one."

The briefing says the brokerage has not accepted the requested alteration.

3. unsigned

Seller: "The document remains unsigned."

The supplied facts state that no signature has been added to the proposal.

4. agreement

Broker: "We should confirm the final terms before recording an agreement."

Discussion and a requested revision do not establish acceptance of the final contractual terms.

02 Briefing and language checks

Client Intake, Needs Analysis, and Property Search

A Briefing checks / page 13

1. What commute basis did Cam specify?

D. Public transport, door to door, arriving for 9 a.m. on weekdays

The briefing supplies transport mode, full-journey scope, destination, and weekday arrival time.

2. What does $450,000 represent here?

B. A proposed asking-price search cap

The amount is a client-defined search filter, while financing qualification and total costs remain unverified.

3. Which property requirements are stated?

D. Two bedrooms and a step-free entrance

The supplied needs are two bedrooms and step-free entry; the other features have not been requested.

D Language checks / page 18

1. Which question best clarifies neighborhood fit?

B. Which property features and travel needs should guide the search?

The question seeks the client's practical criteria rather than substituting demographic assumptions or an undefined judgment.

2. Which journey estimate is comparable with Cam's target?

A. Door-to-door public transport for the stated weekday arrival time

Only the first option matches all the specified journey conditions.

3. How should an unverified access claim be described?

B. The listing says step-free entry; we need to verify the actual route.

Attribution and verification preserve the distinction between a listing statement and a confirmed property feature.

4. Which budget statement is accurate?

C. $450,000 is a search cap; financing and ownership costs remain open.

The briefing defines a search filter and explicitly leaves financing and total costs unverified.

02 Conversation answers

Client Intake, Needs Analysis, and Property Search

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 19-20

1. search criteria. Turn 2. Search criteria specify the client's practical requirements rather than relying on a universal meaning of good neighborhood.

2. door-to-door journey. Turn 4. The full journey includes travel between actual endpoints, not merely the time spent on a train or bus.

3. peak-hour travel. Turn 6. The relevant travel conditions are weekday morning arrival conditions, not an unrelated quiet-period estimate.

4. must-haves. Turn 8. Must-haves are the client's essential requirements; they should not be silently traded away for other attractive features.

5. step-free access. Turn 10. Step-free access must refer to the relevant real route; a general listing label does not establish that route's details.

6. asking-price cap. Turn 12. The asking-price cap filters advertised properties; it is not confirmed financing capacity or a complete affordability assessment.

7. ownership costs. Turn 14. Ownership costs extend beyond the purchase price and may affect the client's practical budget.

8. special assessment. Turn 16. A special assessment can be an additional charge for a particular purpose; regular dues alone may not describe every obligation.

9. trade-off. Turn 18. A trade-off makes competing priorities explicit while leaving the client to decide which compromise, if any, is acceptable.

10. shortlist. Turn 20. The shortlist is a group for closer review, not a guarantee that all property, travel, and financial conditions are already verified.

F Transfer conversation

1. entrance

Agent: "The quoted time starts at the building entrance."

The supplied estimate excludes the route from the upstairs apartment to the building entrance.

2. route

Buyer: "My requirement covers the complete route."

The buyer specified the full route from apartment to platform, not just the outdoor segment.

3. match

Agent: "The stairs mean this is not a verified step-free match."

The upstairs apartment without a lift conflicts with the stated step-free requirement.

4. criteria

Buyer: "Keep that requirement in the search criteria."

Retaining the requirement prevents an attractive partial travel estimate from replacing the buyer's actual need.

03 Briefing and language checks

Listings, Property Descriptions, Pricing, and Market Data

A Briefing checks / page 22

1. Which sale matches the stated size and condition most closely?

C. A

A is 1,800 square feet in similar stated condition; B is larger and C required major repairs.

2. What is the simple average of the three prices?

C. $480,000

The prices total $1,440,000; dividing by three gives $480,000 before any comparability analysis.

3. What remains unverified?

D. Concessions, measurement sources, and other material differences

The briefing explicitly leaves concessions, measurement sources, and other differences unchecked.

D Language checks / page 27

1. Which statement uses the average appropriately?

A. The unadjusted average is $480,000, but the properties differ materially.

The calculation is correct while its usefulness remains limited by the known and unchecked differences.

2. What should happen before assigning an adjustment for B's extra area?

D. Verify comparable measurements and supporting market evidence.

An adjustment needs a defensible basis rather than an arbitrary figure or an assumption of perfect comparability.

3. Which wording distinguishes asking from sold prices?

C. The seller may choose a list price, but the supplied records are closed sale prices.

Asking amounts, pending terms, and completed transactions describe different states and evidence.

4. Which summary preserves the condition issue?

A. C's major repairs may affect comparability and require investigation.

The known condition difference matters, but the case supplies no isolated repair-cost estimate or causal price adjustment.

03 Conversation answers

Listings, Property Descriptions, Pricing, and Market Data

03

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 28-29

1. comparative market analysis. Turn 2. A comparative market analysis evaluates relevant differences and terms rather than treating the simple mean as a proven value.

2. comparable sale. Turn 4. A comparable sale needs relevant similarity and verified context; being nearby and recent does not make every property equivalent.

3. subject property. Turn 6. The subject property is Rosa's home; the comparison should be made against its verified characteristics.

4. adjustment. Turn 8. An adjustment should account for a difference using evidence; the case supplies no justified dollar amount for area or repairs.

5. concession. Turn 10. A concession can change transaction economics, so the headline sale price may not describe every material term.

6. measurement source. Turn 12. Measurement source identifies the origin and basis of area figures, which must be checked for a meaningful comparison.

7. price per square foot. Turn 14. Price per square foot is a ratio, not a complete valuation method that removes property and measurement differences.

8. list price. Turn 16. The list price is an asking amount chosen for marketing; it is not established by the mean or guaranteed as a sale outcome.

9. pricing range. Turn 18. A pricing range supports a marketing discussion; it is not a guarantee of an appraiser's conclusion or buyer's offer.

10. listing status. Turn 20. Listing status distinguishes completed evidence from active or pending listings, preventing different stages from being mixed without explanation.

F Transfer conversation

1. list

Agent: "The $520,000 figure is the list price."

The supplied number is the advertised amount, not a reported completed-sale amount.

2. pending

Seller: "The transaction is currently pending."

Pending is the stated status, so completion has not been established.

3. unreported

Agent: "The final sale price remains unreported."

The case explicitly says the final sale price has not been reported.

4. label

Seller: "We need to correct that comparison label."

The presentation incorrectly labels an asking price as a confirmed closed-sale price.

04 Briefing and language checks

Showings, Open Houses, Fair Housing, and Advertising

04

A Briefing checks / page 31

1. Which draft wording creates the central concern?

C. Perfect for couples without children

The household preference describes favored occupants rather than the supplied property features and requires correction.

2. Which facts are verified in the case?

A. Two bedrooms, a fenced patio, and the park distance

Only the room count, patio feature, and park distance are supplied as verified property facts.

3. What is the required viewing approach?

B. Consistent property information and booking process, with appropriate handling of access requests

The briefing requires consistent service and routing access-related requests, not invented restrictions or intrusive assumptions.

D Language checks / page 36

1. Which revision best uses the supplied facts?

B. Two bedrooms, a fenced patio, and a park 0.4 miles away.

The first option replaces the household preference with verified property facts and avoids an unverified access claim.

2. Which reply handles an access question appropriately?

A. Tell me which route or arrangement to check, and I will route the request.

The reply seeks practical details and appropriate handling without making unsupported assumptions or demanding irrelevant information.

3. What should the team do with room-size claims?

C. Mark the measurements unverified and obtain the actual figures.

The briefing leaves measurements unchecked, so room count alone cannot establish dimensions or suitability.

4. Which conduct violates the supplied service approach?

B. Claiming different availability because of a visitor's perceived household type

The briefing requires consistent availability information and booking processes rather than demographic assumptions.

04 Conversation answers

Showings, Open Houses, Fair Housing, and Advertising

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 37-38

1. discriminatory preference. Turn 2. The wording favors a household without children rather than describing the property, creating a familial-status concern.

2. objective feature. Turn 4. An objective feature describes something about the property that can be checked, rather than a favored type of occupant.

3. advertising copy. Turn 6. Advertising copy communicates to potential buyers; the message it conveys matters even if the writer describes a different intention.

4. steering. Turn 8. Steering directs housing choices on an improper discriminatory basis; visitors should assess objective facts against their own needs.

5. disclosure packet. Turn 10. The shared property-information packet should preserve what is known and what still needs verification, rather than create unsupported assurances.

6. access request. Turn 12. An access request needs practical route or arrangement information; the case does not establish that the route is already suitable.

7. reasonable accommodation. Turn 14. A reasonable-accommodation request concerns a disability-related change to a rule or service and should receive appropriate handling under applicable requirements.

8. booking process. Turn 16. The booking process should be applied consistently rather than altered because of assumptions about a visitor's household.

9. showing feedback. Turn 18. Showing feedback should capture property-related observations and questions, not invented judgments about a visitor's personal suitability.

10. complaint route. Turn 20. The complaint route gives visitors and staff a defined way to raise concerns about service or treatment.

F Transfer conversation

Page 39

1. verified

Host: "The doorway width is not yet verified."

A photograph does not supply the accurate measurement requested in the case.

2. measurement

Visitor: "Please obtain the actual measurement."

The visitor needs a dimension rather than a general impression from an image.

3. contact

Host: "I will ask the property contact to check it."

The briefing identifies the property contact as the route for obtaining the dimension.

4. needs

Visitor: "Then I can assess it against my access needs."

The verified information lets the visitor evaluate practical fit without the host guessing suitability.

05 Briefing and language checks

Offers, Counteroffers, Negotiation, and Contingencies

A Briefing checks / page 40

1. What timing mismatch is stated?

B. A 30-day proposed close versus a provisional 35-45-day lender estimate

The buyer's proposed date is earlier than the lender's provisional range, and neither establishes final financing approval.

2. What is the current offer status?

C. Not submitted or accepted

The briefing explicitly says no offer has been submitted or accepted.

3. What has Tomas not authorized?

D. Removing any protection

The case permits discussion but contains no instruction to remove protections.

D Language checks / page 45

1. Which sentence handles the timing accurately?

C. We need to resolve the gap between the proposed 30 days and the lender's provisional 35-45 days.

The sentence retains both actual timeframes and their status without inventing approval or agreement.

2. Which statement about the deposit is appropriate?

D. We need the exact contract terms before explaining when the deposit could be returned.

The deposit's treatment depends on the agreement, applicable rules, and facts rather than its label or amount alone.

3. What should Elise do before removing a protection?

A. Obtain informed client instruction and the necessary review of consequences.

The case contains no authorization to remove protections; urgency is not a substitute for an informed decision.

4. Which update correctly describes an extension?

B. We have requested an extension; agreement is not yet confirmed.

A proposed change does not become an agreed amendment merely because one party requests it.

05 Conversation answers

Offers, Counteroffers, Negotiation, and Contingencies

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 46-47

1. closing date. Turn 2. The proposed closing date is earlier than the lender's provisional processing range and is not yet an agreed or assured date.

2. financing contingency. Turn 4. The financing contingency has specific contractual conditions and actions; it cannot turn an unconfirmed timeline into guaranteed financing.

3. waiver. Turn 6. A waiver gives up a right or condition; discussing competitiveness does not authorize the agent to remove protections.

4. earnest money. Turn 8. Earnest money is governed by the agreement and applicable requirements; the label does not guarantee automatic return.

5. contingency deadline. Turn 10. A contingency deadline governs timely exercise or satisfaction of a condition; its consequences depend on the actual contract.

6. extension request. Turn 12. An extension request proposes a new deadline; it does not change the existing agreement without the required acceptance.

7. counteroffer. Turn 14. A counteroffer proposes different terms and requires review; it should not be reported as acceptance of the unchanged original offer.

8. deposit holder. Turn 16. The deposit holder is the person or entity authorized to hold the funds; the case has not yet established that arrangement.

9. possession date. Turn 18. Possession is governed by the agreement and need not be identical to closing or to an unaccepted proposed date.

10. authorized instruction. Turn 20. An authorized instruction identifies the buyer's actual decision; it is distinct from this preliminary exploration of options.

F Transfer conversation

Page 48

1. Monday

Agent: "The proposed new deadline is Monday."

Monday is the requested date, not an already accepted contractual change.

2. Friday

Buyer: "The existing stated deadline remains Friday at 5 p.m."

No accepted change is supplied, so the original stated deadline must not be treated as replaced.

3. agreement

Agent: "We need confirmation of the required agreement."

The request alone does not establish that the other party has accepted the alteration.

4. approved

Buyer: "Do not describe the extension as approved."

The case supplies no approval, so that label would invent a completed decision.

06 Briefing and language checks

Inspections, Repairs, Disclosures, and Due Diligence

A Briefing checks / page 49

1. What does the report establish in this case?

B. Staining was observed and specialist evaluation was recommended

The report states an observation and recommendation, not a cause, repair specification, or contractual agreement.

2. How does the seller's disclosure describe prior water intrusion?

A. Unknown

Unknown records an unresolved fact; it is not proof of absence, repair, or an agreed concession.

3. Which next step is supported?

A. Arrange qualified evaluation and review the contractual response requirements

The case needs technical evaluation and contract review before a diagnosis, cost, or obligation can be asserted.

D Language checks / page 54

1. Which explanation preserves the report's scope?

A. It records staining and recommends specialist evaluation without identifying the cause.

The accurate explanation keeps the observed condition and recommended next step distinct from unsupported conclusions.

2. How should the unknown disclosure response be interpreted?

B. The relevant history is not established by that answer.

Unknown does not establish either absence, completed repair, compliance, or a contractual concession.

3. Which statement about seller payment is appropriate?

A. We need the actual contract and any negotiated agreement before asserting an obligation.

The case supplies no agreement or established obligation, so the contractual question requires review.

4. Which update correctly distinguishes progress?

A. The referral is underway; the appointment and repair scope remain unconfirmed.

The update reports only the actual referral step and leaves unfinished arrangements and terms open.

- 1. visual observation. Turn 2. The observation identifies visible staining; it does not establish the underlying cause or the work needed to address it.
- 2. inspection scope. Turn 4. Inspection scope identifies what the inspection covers and its limits; a general report need not resolve every specialist question.
- 3. seller disclosure. Turn 6. The seller disclosure records an unknown history here, not a verified statement that water intrusion never occurred.
- 4. specialist referral. Turn 8. A specialist referral connects the buyer with appropriate expertise; it does not itself establish a diagnosis or confirmed appointment.
- 5. root cause. Turn 10. The root cause is the underlying source of the problem, which the present inspection has not identified.
- 6. repair scope. Turn 12. Repair scope defines the actual work being priced; without it, a cost figure may refer to a different or incomplete service.
- 7. repair request. Turn 14. A repair request proposes work for negotiation; the seller has not yet accepted any repair obligation in the case.
- 8. due diligence. Turn 16. Due diligence includes the investigation and contractual review; continuing an evaluation does not itself alter a contractual deadline.
- 9. reinspection. Turn 18. A reinspection can assess specified completed work or conditions; it is distinct from merely receiving a contractor's promise.
- 10. repair credit. Turn 20. A repair credit is a negotiated allowance; the current report does not establish its amount or the seller's acceptance.

1. assessment

Buyer: "The $250 is for the assessment."

The supplied quotation prices an evaluation visit rather than repair work.

2. repairs

Agent: "It excludes repairs."

The quotation expressly excludes repairs, so they must not be described as included.

3. confirmation

Buyer: "The appointment still needs confirmation."

The visit has not been booked, so the quotation is not evidence of a confirmed appointment.

4. scope

Agent: "A repair price will need a defined scope."

A meaningful repair price requires specified work, which has not yet been supplied.

07 Briefing and language checks

Financing, Appraisal, Title, Escrow, and Closing

A Briefing checks / page 58

1. What does the checklist confirm?

D. The appraisal has been received

The checklist records receipt of the appraisal only; the other milestones remain unresolved.

2. Who is investigating the recorded prior lien?

C. The title professional

The briefing identifies the title professional as the owner of that specific investigation.

3. What is the status of the $25,000 figure?

C. A draft cash-to-close calculation

The amount is explicitly a draft settlement calculation, not a confirmed instruction or other transaction value.

D Language checks / page 63

1. Which closing update is accurate?

D. The appraisal is received, while title and final lender approval remain open.

The statement reports the completed receipt milestone and preserves the two separate unresolved approval issues.

2. Who should explain the unresolved lien record?

B. The title professional handling the investigation

The briefing assigns the record investigation to the title professional; the coordinator should relay verified information.

3. Which statement properly limits the $25,000 amount?

B. It is a draft calculation; final figures and payment instructions need verification.

The draft status prevents treating the figure as final or drawing unsupported conclusions about other amounts.

4. Which question distinguishes escrow uses?

D. Are we discussing transaction funds held pending conditions or the mortgage account for ongoing costs?

Escrow can name different arrangements, so the context must be identified before explaining its function.

Financing, Appraisal, Title, Escrow, and Closing

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 64-65

- 1. appraisal. Turn 2. The appraisal is a value-related document; receiving it does not establish that all title and lending conditions are complete.
- 2. lien. Turn 4. The recorded lien is the identified title matter; its presence requires review rather than an unsupported assumption that it is cleared.
- 3. lien release. Turn 6. A lien release addresses the recorded claim; an assumption about past payment is not confirmation that the required release is established.
- 4. underwriting. Turn 8. Underwriting is the lender's assessment process; submitted documents do not themselves prove that its conditions are satisfied.
- 5. clear to close. Turn 10. Clear to close is a lender status within its process; it should not be used as a universal substitute for every transaction confirmation.
- 6. cash to close. Turn 12. Cash to close is the amount due under a settlement calculation; a draft amount is not yet a verified instruction to pay.
- 7. settlement statement. Turn 14. The settlement statement itemizes funds and charges, helping distinguish cash due from one component such as the down payment.
- 8. escrow. Turn 16. Escrow can refer to transaction holding or a mortgage account for certain ongoing costs; the surrounding document determines the meaning.
- 9. disbursement. Turn 18. Disbursement is the release of funds, a distinct status that should be confirmed rather than inferred from signatures alone.
- 10. recording. Turn 20. Recording is entry into the public records, with status and timing requiring the appropriate professional's confirmation.

Page 66

1. unverified

Buyer: "The account change is currently unverified."

The unexpected message has not been confirmed through the established closing contact.

2. transfer

Coordinator: "Pause the transfer while it is checked."

No payment should be treated as ready solely on the basis of the unconfirmed account change.

3. number

Buyer: "I will use the previously verified contact number."

The supplied trusted number avoids relying on new contact details inside the suspicious message.

4. professional

Coordinator: "Obtain confirmation from the responsible closing professional."

The closing professional is the appropriate source for verifying the instruction, not the unconfirmed email alone.

08 Briefing and language checks

Leasing, Property Management, Commercial Basics, Ethics, and Crisis Scenarios

A Briefing checks / page 67

1. What has actually been completed?

D. Both reports have been logged

The briefing confirms logging only; appointment, repair, and financial remedy remain unconfirmed.

2. What can Asha commit to by 2 p.m.?

C. A status update

The authorized commitment is communication of status, not those unresolved operational or financial outcomes.

3. What needs checking now?

B. Current conditions and the appropriate response urgency

The case says current conditions need checking, which informs urgency without authorizing diagnosis or bypassing entry rules.

D Language checks / page 72

1. Which response combines empathy with accurate ownership?

C. You reported this twice without an update; I own the follow-up and will update you by 2 p.m.

The response acknowledges the specific failure and makes the authorized communication commitment without inventing an outcome.

2. Which update correctly describes the contractor status?

C. Contacted, with no appointment confirmed yet

The case says the contractor has not replied, so no visit or access outcome can be asserted.

3. What should happen before treating the request as completed?

B. Verify the actual work and record the resulting status.

Completion requires evidence of the relevant work, not merely a communication or an absence of further messages.

4. Which statement keeps the rent question within scope?

D. The requested adjustment needs the applicable review and is not approved yet.

The supplied facts establish no authorized adjustment, and actual rights require the relevant lease and law.

Leasing, Property Management, Commercial Basics, Ethics, and Crisis Scenarios

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 73-74

1. service requests. Turn 2. Service requests record the tenant's reports; their existence does not mean attendance or repair has been arranged.

2. active leak. Turn 4. An active leak describes the current continuing condition; it affects urgency without establishing the technical cause.

3. attendance window. Turn 6. An attendance window is a confirmed expected arrival period; none has been supplied by the contractor yet.

4. work order. Turn 8. The work order should preserve the linked reports, current condition, and responsible owner rather than treat the second report as unrelated.

5. service recovery. Turn 10. Service recovery addresses the missed communication with an owned next step; it does not create a guaranteed repair result.

6. access arrangement. Turn 12. Access arrangements must follow the applicable requirements and practical agreement; the report does not authorize unrestricted entry.

7. repair authorization. Turn 14. Repair authorization defines approval for specified work; contacting a contractor does not automatically approve every possible additional task.

8. completion record. Turn 16. A completion record supports the actual work status; a phone call or reference number alone is not proof of repair.

9. rent adjustment. Turn 18. A rent adjustment requires the applicable authority, agreement, or legal basis; no approval exists in this case.

10. triage. Turn 20. Triage assesses urgency and response as conditions develop; it should continue alongside scheduling and communication.

1. rent

Tenant: "The $2,000 is the monthly base rent."

The proposal identifies that amount as base rent, not the entire occupancy cost.

2. charge

Agent: "Common-area maintenance is an additional charge."

The proposal adds a defined share of maintenance rather than including it in the base amount.

3. details

Tenant: "We still need the allocation details."

The method for determining the tenant's share is explicitly missing from the supplied information.

4. total

Agent: "Do not present $2,000 as the complete monthly total."

An additional, unquantified charge prevents the base rent from being described as the full monthly amount.
