Eight lessons. Eleven extended conversations.

INSIDE THE BOOK

192 vocabulary entries / 128 reusable phrases

220 extended-dialogue turns / 11 transfer exchanges

Word banks and explained answer keys

Upper-intermediate to advanced (B2-C1). For home care workers, personal care assistants, support workers, and caregiving teams.

2026 edition

Eight scenarios. Eight skills.

Eight lessons connect the care plan with everyday communication. Three additional conversations cover shopping money, accessible communication, and a visit with no answer at the door.

01 Confirming the visit and the care plan

4

The appointment is real; the transport is unconfirmed | Clarify scheduled support, acknowledge an unmet expectation, and request authorization without promising an unassigned service.

02 Consent, choice, and respectful assistance

13

Ten quiet minutes before choosing clothes | Offer support without pressure, respect a changed preference, and record the agreed timing without judgment.

03 Reporting a change without diagnosing

22

A precise report without an invented cause | Attribute the client's words, describe a change from usual behavior, and seek the appropriate response without diagnosing.

04 Boundaries around medicines and clinical questions

31

A missed dose needs qualified advice | Explain a reminder-only role, acknowledge a medication question, and help obtain qualified advice without recommending a dose.

05 Meals, preferences, and unresolved restrictions

40

Offer a choice without guessing about restrictions | Acknowledge a food preference, explain an unresolved restriction, and offer an approved alternative without pressure.

06 Privacy and family communication

49

A family claim is not verified permission | Respond courteously to an unfamiliar caller, protect visit information, and route the request for appropriate verification.

07 A handoff the next person can use

58

Completed support and one unresolved arrangement | Separate completed tasks from pending work, name the responsible person, and check that the next worker understands the handoff.

08 Delays, complaints, and reliable follow-up

67

A late visit needs a clear update and an active response | Acknowledge the effect of a delayed visit, qualify the arrival estimate, and confirm the next update without promising unverified cover.

The person comes before the task.

Caregiving English needs warmth and precision together. Speak directly to the person, explain what you can do, and distinguish an observation from an interpretation. Clear limits should come with a useful next step, not an abrupt dismissal.

Ask before helping

Explain the proposed support in ordinary language and listen to the response. A task on the plan does not make the person invisible or remove the need to follow the actual consent process.

"Would you like help now, or would you prefer a few quiet minutes first?"

Describe rather than diagnose

Keep the person's words separate from what you observed. Report changes through the appropriate route without inventing a cause or treating an incomplete description as proof that nothing is wrong.

"She said she felt more tired; I noticed two pauses during our conversation."

Name your role accurately

Assignments, training, and local rules determine what a worker can do. The fictional reminder-only assignment in this book does not authorize medication administration or dose advice.

"I can help you contact the nurse, but I cannot decide a replacement dose."

Close the communication loop

A sent message is not always an accepted handoff. Identify the unresolved issue, responsible person, next contact, and any urgent route. Record what actually happened, including uncertainty.

"The coordinator has the transport query; no booking has been confirmed."

PROFESSIONAL BOUNDARIES

People, schedules, care plans, and incidents are fictional. This book teaches workplace English, not clinical care, medication instructions, capacity assessment, or professional certification. Follow the actual care plan, consent and privacy requirements, training, employer procedures, and qualified clinical advice. For urgent or emergency concerns use the appropriate local service and procedure without waiting for a routine callback. The cited England/UK sources do not establish universal rules.

The appointment is real; the transport is unconfirmed

A Read the situation

Clarify scheduled support, acknowledge an unmet expectation, and request authorization without promising an unassigned service.

Caregiver Maya arrives at 9:00 for a two-hour visit with Mr. Ellis. Her assignment lists breakfast support and light household tasks. He expects her to drive him to a 10:00 appointment, but transport is not listed and she has no authorization to provide it. The coordinator is available by phone. Maya must establish the discrepancy, contact the coordinator with the client involved as appropriate, and continue agreed support within her role. Neither a phone message nor a request for help confirms a transport booking.

PEOPLE / Mr. Ellis: Client | Maya: Caregiver

A BOUNDARY NEEDS A USEFUL NEXT STEP

An unexpected limit can sound like abandonment. Acknowledge the practical consequence, explain the assignment plainly, and identify who can clarify the arrangement. Avoid blaming the client for expecting something that may have been discussed elsewhere.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. When is the scheduled visit due to end?

A 9:30

B 11:00

C 10:00

D 12:00

2. What is not authorized in the supplied assignment?

A Breakfast support

B Light household tasks

C Contacting the available coordinator

D Transport to the appointment

3. What should Maya clarify with the coordinator?

A The transport expectation and an authorized arrangement

B Which personal car she must use without approval

C Whether to mark a booking complete immediately

D How to conceal the unmet expectation

Phrases you can actually use

C Notice the language / 1 of 2

INTRODUCE THE VISIT

"Good morning, Mr. Ellis. I am here for your nine-to-eleven visit."

INVITE CLARIFICATION

"What were you expecting for your appointment this morning?"

NAME THE DISCREPANCY

"Transport is not listed in the assignment I have."

OFFER A NEXT STEP

"I can contact the coordinator now to check the arrangement."

CONFIRM THE PLAN

"My assignment lists breakfast support and light household tasks."

ACKNOWLEDGE THE IMPACT

"I understand that getting there at ten matters to you."

EXPLAIN THE BOUNDARY

"I do not have authorization to drive you."

ASK TO INCLUDE THE CLIENT

"Would you like to be part of that conversation?"

My assignment lists

Refers to the available record without accusing another person of being wrong.

I understand that

Recognizes the practical impact before explaining a limit.

Do not have authorization

Describes a specific boundary, not a personal unwillingness to help.

Phrases you can actually use

C Notice the language / 2 of 2

REPORT WITHOUT BLAME

"There is a difference between the expected support and my recorded assignment."

CLARIFY RESPONSIBILITY

"Who is confirming the transport arrangement?"

AVOID A FALSE PROMISE

"I cannot confirm a driver until the coordinator verifies the booking."

REPEAT KEY DETAILS

"Let me check: the appointment is at ten, and transport is still unconfirmed."

CHECK THE STATUS

"Has transport actually been booked, or only requested?"

CHECK ACCESS NEEDS

"Please confirm any access requirements through the agreed process."

CONTINUE AGREED SUPPORT

"While we clarify that, would you like help with breakfast?"

RECORD THE OUTCOME

"I will record the request, who was contacted, and the confirmed response."

Has actually been booked

Separates a completed arrangement from an earlier request.

While we clarify that

Connects ongoing agreed support with the unresolved issue.

Still unconfirmed

Preserves uncertainty rather than implying that transport cannot be arranged.

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which statement is both helpful and accurate?

- A My arrival proves transport is included.
- B Your appointment must be wrong.
- C I will drive you before asking anyone.
- D Transport is not in my assignment; I can call the coordinator to check it now.

2. Which record would overstate progress?

- A Transport confirmed, when only a message has been sent
- B Transport requested; coordinator contacted
- C Appointment reported for 10:00
- D No transport authorization available to Maya

3. What does a read-back help establish?

- A Shared understanding of the appointment and transport status
- B Automatic permission to drive
- C A guarantee of arrival time
- D Clinical suitability for all transport types

4. Which question is most useful?

- A Who will confirm the arrangement and contact Mr. Ellis?
- B Can we assume any relative will drive?
- C Can the transport request be omitted from the record?
- D Does breakfast support include every possible errand?

- 01 Mr. Ellis: Good morning, Maya. My appointment is at ten, so I thought we would have breakfast quickly and then leave in your car.
- 02 Maya: Good morning. My ¹ _____ is for breakfast support and light household tasks from nine until eleven. I do not have transport listed, but I can check that with the coordinator now.
- 03 Mr. Ellis: I mentioned the appointment when someone called last week. I understood that the visit would include getting me there, not just making breakfast.
- 04 Maya: I understand the ² _____. We should clarify what was discussed without assuming you misunderstood. Getting to the appointment matters, and I want the coordinator to check the arrangement directly.
- 05 Mr. Ellis: Could you take me this once? It is only a short drive, and I do not want to lose the appointment.
- 06 Maya: I do not have ³ _____. I can help contact the person who can resolve the request, but I cannot make a private driving arrangement outside my assigned role.
- 07 Mr. Ellis: All right. Please explain that the appointment is at ten. I would rather speak to the coordinator with you than repeat everything later.
- 08 Maya: Of course. We can give a clear ⁴ _____ of the details together: appointment at ten, visit from nine to eleven, and no confirmed transport information in my assignment.
- 09 Mr. Ellis: Does that mean nobody has booked a car? There might be something in the office records that neither of us can see.
- 10 Maya: Exactly. The ⁵ _____ may be elsewhere. I will ask what is actually arranged rather than tell you that nothing exists when I have not checked.

E Conversations / turns 11-20

Continue with the word bank on page 10.

- 11 Mr. Ellis: Ten is when I need to be at the appointment, not when a car should collect me. Please make that clear when we call.
- 12 Maya: I will explain that distinction to the ⁶ _____. The appointment time and pickup time are separate, and any access arrangements need to be confirmed through the proper process.
- 13 Mr. Ellis: What happens to breakfast while we are sorting this out? I have not eaten yet, and I still want the agreed help.
- 14 Maya: Breakfast remains part of my ⁷ _____. We can continue that support with your agreement while the office checks the transport, without marking the additional request as settled.
- 15 Mr. Ellis: Please keep me on the call. Last time, I heard someone was dealing with it but never got a pickup time or a driver's name.
- 16 Maya: We will ask for the responsible person and the ⁸ _____ for the response. If an arrangement changes, we need the actual details, not just an assurance that the request was passed on.
- 17 Mr. Ellis: Thank you. I can explain what I was told last week, and you can explain what is on your assignment this morning.
- 18 Maya: That will help us report the ⁹ _____ fairly. I will keep your account separate from what the current record says, so the coordinator can reconcile them.
- 19 Mr. Ellis: Please put the outcome in the notes as well. The next person should not have to start the same conversation from the beginning.
- 20 Maya: I will update the ¹⁰ _____ with the request, contact, and confirmed response. Until we have that response, I will describe transport as unconfirmed rather than booked.

Clarify a different unassigned errand

F Say it

A 14:00-15:00 visit includes household support. The client expects a parcel pickup, which is not assigned. The coordinator can clarify it; no pickup has been booked.

Complete the four gaps. Use each bank entry once.

WORD + PHRASE BANK

parcel pickup / coordinator / unconfirmed / 15:00

Caregiver: "This visit ends at ¹ _____."

Client: "The extra request is a ² _____."

Caregiver: "I will clarify the request with the ³ _____."

Caregiver: "The pickup is currently ⁴ _____."

ANSWERS / EXPLANATIONS: PAGE 86

1. 15:00 | 2. parcel pickup | 3. coordinator | 4. unconfirmed

Rehearse with a fixed script

1. Read Mr. Ellis and Maya aloud, then swap roles. Acknowledge the appointment before explaining the transport limit.
2. Correct the ten gaps. Read back nine-to-eleven visit, ten-o'clock appointment, and unconfirmed transport as separate facts.
3. Repeat the coordinator call and breakfast offer without blaming the client or promising a private lift.

WORKING ALONE

Read both roles, pausing for two seconds when the speaker changes. Repeat with the bank covered, then check any missed expressions.

Ten quiet minutes before choosing clothes

A Read the situation

Offer support without pressure, respect a changed preference, and record the agreed timing without judgment.

Caregiver Imani has thirty minutes left in her visit with Ms. Hale. Support with choosing and arranging clothes is included in the plan, but Ms. Hale declines help now and asks for ten quiet minutes before a visitor arrives. There is no immediate safety concern in this scenario. Imani should acknowledge the choice, explain the remaining time, and agree whether to ask again later. A listed task is not permission to override the person. The record should describe what was offered, chosen, and actually provided rather than label the client difficult.

PEOPLE / Ms. Hale: Client | Imani: Caregiver

RESPECT DOES NOT DEPEND ON AGREEMENT

A worker may feel pressure to complete every listed task. Use an adult-to-adult tone and separate the service schedule from the person's choice. A preference that differs from yours is not evidence that the person cannot decide.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What does Ms. Hale request?

- | | |
|---|---|
| A Ten quiet minutes before help is discussed again | B Immediate help despite her refusal |
| C Cancellation of all future care | D A change to her visitor's identity |

2. How much scheduled visit time remains after ten minutes?

|-------------------------|----------------------|
| A Twenty minutes | B Ten minutes |
| C Forty minutes | D No time |

3. Which fact is explicitly supplied?

- | | |

IN USE use neutral wording

agreed pause

A mutually understood break before an activity is discussed or resumed.

IN USE respect an agreed pause

Precision check

Do not infer lack of decision-making capacity from disagreement, age, accent, or a choice you dislike. Any genuine concern belongs in the applicable assessment and escalation process, not an improvised judgment used to make the task easier.

Phrases you can actually use

C Notice the language / 1 of 2

OFFER HELP

"Would you like help choosing your clothes?"

CHECK THE PREFERENCE

"Would you prefer a few quiet minutes first?"

MAKE TIMING CLEAR

"If we pause for ten minutes, twenty minutes will remain."

"There are thirty minutes left in this visit."

ASK ABOUT A LATER OFFER

"Would you like me to ask again after that?"

CLARIFY A SMALLER TASK

"Would help laying out one item be useful, or would you prefer no help?"

Would you like

Makes the offer a genuine choice rather than a disguised instruction.

I will not start

Confirms that the worker heard and will respect the current response.

If we pause

Explains the time consequence without using it as a threat.

Phrases you can actually use

C Notice the language / 2 of 2

RESPECT PRIVACY

"Where would you like me to wait during the pause?"

ADDRESS THE PERSON DIRECTLY

"I would like to hear your preference first."

DISTINGUISH THE SCOPE

"You are declining this help now, not necessarily every later offer."

KEEP A BOUNDARY HONEST

"I cannot promise extra visit time without an authorized change."

CHECK A CHANGED CHOICE

AVOID A LABEL

"I will record the help offered and your response."

ACKNOWLEDGE INDEPENDENCE

"You can choose what you want to wear."

CONFIRM THE AGREEMENT

"We will pause for ten minutes, and I will ask again as agreed."

Ask again

Requests permission to reoffer rather than announcing repeated pressure.

Your preference first

Keeps the person central even when a visitor or relative is present.

Help offered and your response

Supports factual recording instead of a judgment about personality.

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which record is most accurate?

- A Clothes support offered; Ms. Hale requested a ten-minute pause and agreed to a later offer.
- B Client was difficult and wasted ten minutes.
- C All future clothes support permanently refused.
- D Consent assumed because the task was listed.

2. Which reply avoids pressure?

- A I will begin after ten minutes because you have agreed to the pause.
- B I will prepare the clothes during your quiet time so we can catch up.
- C I will ask your niece to persuade you before my visit ends.
- D I will pause; would you like me to ask again in ten minutes?

3. What does refusal alone establish here?

- A A clinical diagnosis
- B Permission to use force
- C The offered help is not wanted at this moment.
- D An inability to make any decision

4. Which timing statement is correct?

- A The pause automatically adds ten minutes to the visit.
- B No support may be offered again.
- C Thirty minutes remain after the pause.
- D Twenty scheduled minutes remain after the agreed ten-minute pause.

- 01 Ms. Hale: Please leave the clothes for now, Imani. My visitor is coming later, but I would like ten quiet minutes before we do anything else.
- 02 Imani: Of course. I will respect that ¹ _____ and will not start arranging them. Would you like me to ask again after ten minutes, or would you prefer not to discuss clothes today?
- 03 Ms. Hale: Ask me again after the pause. I might just need help finding the blue cardigan, but I want to sit quietly first.
- 04 Imani: We can agree on that ² _____. There are thirty minutes left in my visit, so twenty will remain afterward. I want you to know the timing without feeling rushed.
- 05 Ms. Hale: I know you have a list. But when I say not now, will the notes say I was being difficult? That worries me.
- 06 Imani: I can use ³ _____ in the record. I will describe what I offered and what you requested, rather than give you a negative label for making a choice.
- 07 Ms. Hale: That would help. I still want to choose my own clothes. Having someone here should not mean everything gets decided for me.

- 13 Ms. Hale: And if I agree later but then want you to stop, can I say so? Some days I change my mind halfway through.
- 14 Imani: Yes. You can ⁷ _____. Tell me if you no longer want the help, and I will respond to that rather than assume an earlier yes lasts regardless of what you say.
- 15 Ms. Hale: Thank you. A quiet ten minutes is all I am asking for. I do not want to spend it explaining why I need it.
- 16 Imani: I will allow that ⁸ _____. A quiet pause can be part of respectful communication. There is no need to repeat the same question every minute while you are deciding.
- 17 Ms. Hale: After the ten minutes, I think finding the cardigan will be enough. I can decide about the rest when you ask me.
- 18 Imani: That would be ⁹ _____. We can confirm it then, and I will be honest about the remaining visit time rather than promise an extension that has not been authorized.

1. five | 2. coat | 3. twenty | 4. neutral wording

Rehearse with a fixed script

1. Read Ms. Hale and Imani aloud, then swap roles. Make the quiet pause sound like an accepted choice, not a negotiation to overcome.
2. Correct the ten gaps. State thirty minutes left, ten minutes requested, and twenty remaining without implying an automatic extension.
3. Repeat the later offer of cardigan support, asking again before touching the clothes and keeping the record neutral.

A precise report without an invented cause

A Read the situation

Attribute the client's words, describe a change from usual behavior, and seek the appropriate response without diagnosing.

During a routine visit, caregiver Luis hears Ms. Chen say, "I feel more tired than yesterday." At 9:20, he notices that she stops twice while describing breakfast, which is unusual during his visits. He contacts nurse Jo through the local reporting procedure. He has no clinical diagnosis and has not measured vital signs. No emergency signs are specified in this fictional brief; that is not proof that the person is safe. Any urgent or emergency concern must follow the local urgent route without waiting for routine reporting.

PEOPLE / Luis: Caregiver | Jo: Nurse receiving the report

SPECIFIC OBSERVATIONS TRAVEL BETTER THAN LABELS

Words such as fine, poorly, confused, or not herself may hide the information the next person needs. Give the person's own words, the observable event, the time, and the comparison you can genuinely support. Let qualified staff assess the cause.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. Which statement comes directly from the client?

- A I feel more tired than yesterday.
- C Her vital signs are normal.

- B She has a diagnosed infection.
- D She is safe to wait indefinitely.

2. What did Luis observe?

- A A measured temperature change
- C A confirmed cause of tiredness

- B Two pauses while Ms. Chen described breakfast at 9:20
- D A complete clinical examination

3. What must happen if an urgent concern arises?

- A Treat the fictional absence of emergency details as proof of safety.
- C Wait until the end of the shift regardless.

- B Use the appropriate local urgent or emergency route without waiting for routine reporting.
- D Diagnose the cause first.

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which report is most precise?

- A At 9:20 she paused twice while describing breakfast and said she felt more tired than yesterday.
- B She definitely has an infection.
- C She is fine because no numbers were recorded.
- D Her mood is bad, so no report is needed.

2. How should missing vital signs be described?

- A Not measured by Luis
- B Normal
- C Negative
- D Clinically cleared

3. Which time is established?

- A When Luis noticed the pauses
- B The exact onset of tiredness
- C The start of a diagnosed disease
- D The time of a completed clinical assessment

4. What does receipt of the report establish?

- A The cause is diagnosed.
- B No follow-up can be needed.
- C A routine callback overrides every urgent pathway.
- D The concern reached the receiving person, not that assessment is complete.

- 01 Luis: Jo, I am calling through the reporting line about Ms. Chen. I noticed a change during this morning's visit and want to pass on the exact information.
- 02 Jo: Start with the ¹ _____ in her own words, then tell me what you directly observed. Keeping those two sources separate will make the report easier to assess.
- 03 Luis: She said, I feel more tired than yesterday. While she was describing breakfast, she stopped twice. That was at nine twenty this morning.
- 04 Jo: Thank you. That gives an ² _____ of the pauses and an attributed account of how she feels. Do you know when the tiredness actually began?
- 05 Luis: No. I know when we had the conversation, but I cannot say when she first started feeling tired or whether it changed overnight.
- 06 Jo: Then the ³ _____ is not established. Keep nine twenty as the observation time, rather than enter it as the start of the symptom.
- 07 Luis: She does not usually pause like that when we talk during my visits. I have not watched her continuously outside those visits, though.
- 08 Jo: That is a useful, bounded ⁴ _____. Describe what is unusual in your experience without implying that you know her behavior throughout the whole day or night.
- 09 Luis: I nearly wrote coming down with something. Let me correct that: she reported tiredness and I noticed the pauses. I do not know the cause.
- 10 Jo: Please do not substitute a ⁵ _____ for the observations. The report should preserve the tiredness, pauses, timing, and uncertainty so the appropriate professional can assess the concern.

- 11 Luis: I also have no temperature, pulse, or other measurements to report. Taking those measurements is not part of what I have done this morning.
- 12 Jo: Record those as ⁶ _____, not normal. A blank measurement field cannot support reassurance, and you should not invent a reading to make the record look complete.
- 13 Luis: I understand. If the situation becomes urgent while I am trying to reach someone, I should not wait just because a routine message is already in the system.
- 14 Jo: Correct. Use the local ⁷ _____ when required, including emergency services where appropriate. Routine reporting and urgent response serve different needs; an earlier message does not remove that distinction.
- 15 Luis: Can you confirm that you have received this report? I also need the next instructions through our care procedure so I know what to record.
- 16 Jo: I have received it. We must distinguish that from a completed ⁸ _____. I will address the next steps through our clinical process; do not describe this call as an assessment outcome.
- 17 Luis: Please give me the next steps one at a time. I will repeat them back; if I miss a word, I want to check it now.
- 18 Jo: That ⁹ _____ is helpful. Ask immediately if a direction, responsibility, or timing is unclear, and keep any action within the responsibilities you are authorized to perform.
- 19 Luis: My record will include her words, the two pauses, nine twenty, what I do not know, and this contact. It will not say that a cause has been confirmed.
- 20 Jo: Good. Make a ¹⁰ _____ and record the actual instructions and response, not an expected outcome. Continue to use the appropriate local route if the concern changes.

A missed dose needs qualified advice

A Read the situation

04

Explain a reminder-only role, acknowledge a medication question, and help obtain qualified advice without recommending a dose.

Mr. Ahmed tells caregiver Rosa that he missed a medicine dose and asks whether to take twice as much now. Rosa does not know the medicine, strength, prescribed schedule, or when the missed dose was due. Her fictional assignment permits reminders only, not administering medicines or recommending doses. The care plan names a nurse contact for medication questions. Rosa should explain her role and help seek timely qualified advice through the plan. She must not guess a dose, turn a missed dose into a refusal, or delay an urgent response for routine contact.

PEOPLE / Mr. Ahmed: Client | Rosa: Caregiver

A HELPFUL LIMIT IS MORE THAN A REFUSAL

People may ask a trusted worker for an immediate answer. Acknowledge the concern, make the professional boundary understandable, and offer the approved route to advice. Avoid either guessing to seem helpful or leaving the person with only a curt disclaimer.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What does Rosa's assignment permit?

- A Recommending replacement doses
- C Changing the prescription

- B Administering any requested medicine
- D Reminders only

2. What information is missing?

- A The existence of a nurse contact
- C Rosa's reminder-only role

- B The fact that a question was asked
- D Medicine details and the relevant dose timing

3. What is the appropriate communication response?

- A Explain the limit and help contact the qualified advice route in the plan.
- C Tell him to skip every missed dose.

- B Tell him to double every missed dose.
- D Describe the medicine as harmless without knowing it.

- A They have been checked against all restrictions.
- C A family comment replaces the plan check.

- B Their filling alone determines suitability.
- D They are requested but their suitability is unconfirmed.

3. What must Daniel avoid?

- 11 Ms. Park: My relative said the label looked fine. Does that count as confirmation, or do we need someone to check it against my actual plan?
- 12 Daniel: The relevant ⁶ _____ needs to match the actual requirements. A general comment that a label looks fine does not tell us which restrictions were checked or by whom.
- 13 Ms. Park: Does preparation matter too? A package might not answer every question about the finished meal.
- 14 Daniel: Yes, the ⁷ _____ may be relevant. I will make sure the request describes the food accurately rather than ask for approval of one ingredient while leaving the finished meal unclear.
- 15 Ms. Park: Please do not write that I have no appetite. I am hungry; I just do not want the first option you offered.
- 16 Daniel: I will keep ⁸ _____ separate from a preference about a particular food. Your words are clear: you are hungry and are asking about an alternative, not reporting that you do not want any food.
- 17 Ms. Park: If I choose the yogurt later, please record what I actually eat. An offered meal is not a finished meal.

A family claim is not verified permission

A Read the situation

Respond courteously to an unfamiliar caller, protect visit information, and route the request for appropriate verification.

Caregiver Nadia receives a call from an unfamiliar woman who introduces herself as June, the niece of a person she names as a client. June asks what happened during the visit. Nadia cannot access the contact record at that moment and cannot verify identity or permission to receive information. The coordinator can handle the request through the approved process. Nadia should not disclose visit details or confirm a care relationship merely because the caller knows a name. She can explain the process and offer the appropriate route without accusing June of dishonesty.

PEOPLE / June: Unverified caller claiming to be a niece | Nadia: Caregiver

06

WARMTH AND PRIVACY CAN COEXIST

A genuine relative may feel excluded by a verification step. Explain that it protects personal information and applies without an accusation. Being polite does not require disclosing a small detail to prove goodwill, and being careful need not sound hostile.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What is unverified?

A The caller's identity and permission to receive information

C The existence of a coordinator route

B That Nadia received a call

D The fact that the caller asked a question

2. What is unavailable to Nadia?

A The relevant contact record

C The caller's stated name

B Any ability to speak politely

D The fact that a visit question was asked

3. What is the appropriate next step?

A Declare all relatives permanently barred from information.

C Provide one harmless-sounding care detail first.

B Route the request through the coordinator's approved process without disclosing visit details.

D Treat knowledge of a name as verification.

Completed support and one unresolved arrangement

A Read the situation

Separate completed tasks from pending work, name the responsible person, and check that the next worker understands the handoff.

At 11:00, caregiver Erin finishes a visit. Breakfast support and laundry are complete. A transport query for tomorrow at 10:00 remains pending with coordinator Dev, who is responsible for arranging transport. Incoming caregiver Mateo starts at 15:00. Erin prepares a factual handoff through the approved record and communication route. She must not mark transport complete or transfer booking responsibility to Mateo merely because he is next on the schedule. The handoff should identify the relevant time, current status, responsible person, and route for any further update.

Precision check

An update by 9:10 is not a promise of arrival by 9:10. A 9:30-9:45 estimate is not a guaranteed 9:30 arrival. State the communication commitment, arrival forecast, and backup status as separate facts.

EXPLAIN EARLY

"I am calling at eight fifty because the nine o'clock visit will be delayed."

GIVE THE RANGE

"Dispatch currently estimates arrival between nine thirty and nine forty-five."

NAME THE IMPACT

"I understand that you planned breakfast around the nine o'clock visit."

KEEP STATUS HONEST

"The backup has not yet been confirmed."

APOLOGIZE SPECIFICALLY

"I am sorry that your planned breakfast support will not start at nine."

QUALIFY THE ESTIMATE

"That is an estimate, not a guaranteed arrival time."

EXPLAIN THE ACTION

"Dispatch is checking an approved backup arrangement."

NAME THE OWNER

"Owen in dispatch is coordinating the response."

08

Calling at eight fifty

Shows when the information was communicated relative to the scheduled visit.

Currently estimates

Signals that the forecast may change and has a specific source.

Has not yet been confirmed

Avoids implying that an availability check is an accepted arrangement.

CLOSE WITH THE FACTS

"The visit is delayed, cover is unconfirmed, and the next update is due by nine ten."

08

By nine ten

Sets the latest promised update time, not an arrival guarantee.

Pass on the effect

Focuses on practical support needs rather than defending the schedule.

Appropriate route

Keeps urgent response separate from routine complaint and update processes.

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which update is accurate at 8:50?

- A Arrival is estimated at 9:30-9:45; backup is being checked; dispatch will update by 9:10.
- B Arrival is guaranteed at 9:10.
- C A backup is confirmed because someone is checking.
- D No support was expected before 9:45.

2. What is wrong with saying a relative will cover?

- A Relatives can never help under any care plan.
- B The client has already agreed to it.
- C Dispatch has confirmed it in the brief.
- D No relative's availability, suitability, or authorization is established.

3. What should a failed call be recorded as?

- A A contact attempt, not a completed client update
- B Client fully informed
- C Complaint resolved
- D Visit completed

4. What if an urgent welfare concern becomes apparent?

- A Wait because an update is already promised.
- B Treat the ETA as proof that no harm is possible.
- C Ask the client to diagnose the problem first.
- D Use the appropriate urgent response without waiting for the routine 9:10 update.

- 01 Mr. Reed: Hana, I was expecting breakfast support at nine. It is eight fifty now. Are you calling because the visit time is changing again?
- 02 Hana: Yes, and I am sorry. Dispatch has reported a ¹ _____. The current arrival estimate is between nine thirty and nine forty-five, rather than the scheduled nine o'clock start.
- 03 Mr. Reed: Does that mean you will definitely be here at nine thirty? I need to know whether I can rely on the earliest time in that range.
- 04 Hana: No. The ² _____ is an estimate, not a promise of the earliest time. I do not want to give you certainty that dispatch has not confirmed.
- 05 Mr. Reed: I planned my morning around help at nine. A later time is not just a small change to the calendar for me.
- 06 Hana: I understand the ³ _____ on your breakfast support. I will pass that on now so dispatch responds to the actual need rather than treats this only as a travel update.
- 07 Mr. Reed: Is someone else coming instead? The last message I received said the office was looking into alternatives, but I never knew what that meant.
- 08 Hana: Owen in ⁴ _____ is checking an approved backup arrangement. It is not confirmed yet. Looking for cover and having someone assigned are different stages, and I will not blur them.
- 09 Mr. Reed: Please do not tell me to call my daughter as if she is automatically available. She has work, and nobody has asked her about today.

- 11 Mr. Reed: I can cope with an honest still checking. What I cannot cope with is no news. When will someone actually call me?
- 12 Hana: Dispatch has made an ⁶ _____ for nine ten. That is the next communication time, not a promise that the visit or a backup will arrive by nine ten.
- 13 Mr. Reed: So I should receive an update by then even if they do not yet have a confirmed replacement. That distinction was not clear to me before.
- 14 Hana: Correct. A ⁷ _____ or an honest pending status is more useful than silence. The update should explain what is known, what remains open, and what action is continuing.
- 15 Mr. Reed: Please record my complaint as well. This keeps upsetting my breakfast arrangements. It is the uncertainty about support, not just one late journey.
- 16 Hana: I will pass that ⁸ _____ through the service process, including the effect you have described. Recording dissatisfaction does not replace the immediate work to address today's delayed support.
- 17 Mr. Reed: And if a more urgent problem comes up before nine ten? I do not want the scheduled callback to become a reason nobody responds.
- 18 Hana: An urgent ⁹ _____ needs the appropriate local response without waiting for that callback. The communication timetable must not override the service's urgent or emergency procedure.
- 19 Mr. Reed: Please record the original nine o'clock expectation, arrival estimate, unconfirmed backup, and next contact.
- 20 Hana: I will record those facts and support the agreed ¹⁰ _____. The visit is delayed, cover is unconfirmed, Owen is coordinating the response, and dispatch will update you by nine ten.

- 04 Mrs. Silva: Let me see the ² _____. I want to check each purchase, not just the amount left over.
- 05 Niko: Of course. Fifty minus thirty-four seventy means fifteen thirty should remain. I have counted thirteen thirty so far, which is two dollars less than expected.
- 06 Mrs. Silva: The expected ³ _____ is fifteen thirty. Please do not ask me to sign for that amount before it is checked and returned.
- 07 Niko: I will not. I will recount the separate shopping pouch here with you. A difference needs checking and, if unresolved, reporting through our money-handling procedure.

- 13 Niko: Please check the items against our list too. Correct change would not make an unapproved purchase acceptable.
- 14 Mrs. Silva: The items match. You can put the change in my usual envelope now. I know you cannot keep a little of it as a tip under this arrangement.
- 15 Niko: Thank you. I will return all of it. Your shopping money is not available for my travel expenses or a personal purchase unless a different, properly authorized arrangement explicitly covers that.

- 18 Mrs. Silva: And if we had not found the coin, we would record the amount present and notify the office, rather than quietly call the missing money a fee.
- 19 Niko: Exactly. We would follow the discrepancy procedure promptly and keep the facts clear. I would not conceal it or make a private repayment arrangement to bypass that process.

Confirming the visit and the care plan

A Briefing checks / page 4

1. When is the scheduled visit due to end?

B. 11:00

Two hours from the stated 9:00 arrival ends at 11:00.

2. What is not authorized in the supplied assignment?

D. Transport to the appointment

Transport is absent from the assignment and Maya has no transport authorization.

3. What should Maya clarify with the coordinator?

A. The transport expectation and an authorized arrangement

The coordinator can check the discrepancy and appropriate arrangement without Maya inventing authorization.

D Language checks / page 9

1. Which statement is both helpful and accurate?

D. Transport is not in my assignment; I can call the coordinator to check it now.

The correct response identifies the boundary and supplies an appropriate immediate clarification route.

2. Which record would overstate progress?

A. Transport confirmed, when only a message has been sent

Sending a request does not establish that a provider accepted or confirmed transport.

3. What does a read-back help establish?

A. Shared understanding of the appointment and transport status

Repeating key details checks communication but does not supply missing service authorization.

4. Which question is most useful?

A. Who will confirm the arrangement and contact Mr. Ellis?

Identifying the responsible contact makes the unresolved arrangement actionable without inventing a provider.

Page 12

1. 15:00

Caregiver: "This visit ends at 15:00."

The stated one-hour visit runs from 14:00 to 15:00.

2. parcel pickup

Client: "The extra request is a parcel pickup."

The new expectation concerns a parcel, not an appointment journey.

3. coordinator

Caregiver: "I will clarify the request with the coordinator."

The coordinator is identified as the appropriate person to clarify the unassigned request.

4. unconfirmed

Caregiver: "The pickup is currently unconfirmed."

No pickup has been booked, so completion or confirmation would overstate the facts.

02 Briefing and language checks

Consent, choice, and respectful assistance

A Briefing checks / page 13

1. What does Ms. Hale request?

A. Ten quiet minutes before help is discussed again

Her stated preference concerns the timing of this task, not the entire care arrangement.

2. How much scheduled visit time remains after ten minutes?

A. Twenty minutes

Thirty minutes remaining minus ten quiet minutes leaves twenty scheduled minutes.

3. Which fact is explicitly supplied?

C. There is no immediate safety concern in this scenario.

The brief excludes an immediate safety concern but does not establish incapacity or substitute consent.

D Language checks / page 18

1. Which record is most accurate?

A. Clothes support offered; Ms. Hale requested a ten-minute pause and agreed to a later offer.

The factual record preserves the specific offer, response, and timing without a judgmental or exaggerated conclusion.

2. Which reply avoids pressure?

D. I will pause; would you like me to ask again in ten minutes?

Permission to ask again is not permission to begin later, continue during the pause, or use a relative to pressure the person.

3. What does refusal alone establish here?

C. The offered help is not wanted at this moment.

The refusal concerns this offer and time, not a diagnosis or global decision-making ability.

4. Which timing statement is correct?

D. Twenty scheduled minutes remain after the agreed ten-minute pause.

The pause uses ten of the thirty remaining minutes and does not automatically extend the visit.

02 Conversation answers

Consent, choice, and respectful assistance

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 19-20

1. preference. Turn 2. The preference concerns a quiet pause before clothing support, not a refusal of every service.

2. reoffer. Turn 4. A reoffer is a later invitation to accept help, not an assumption that the person will agree.

3. neutral wording. Turn 6. Neutral wording reports the offer and response without turning a personal choice into criticism.

4. independence. Turn 8. Independence includes directing the support and choosing clothes, not necessarily completing every movement without help.

5. privacy preference. Turn 10. The privacy preference specifies where the worker should wait and excludes continuing the task during the pause.

6. verbal agreement. Turn 12. Verbal agreement expresses the person's response to the specific offer; a relative's general opinion is not a substitute.

7. withdraw consent. Turn 14. Withdrawing consent changes the earlier agreement; the worker must follow the actual consent process rather than rely on an old yes.

8. processing time. Turn 16. Processing time allows the person space to respond and choose without repeated prompts or pressure.

9. partial support. Turn 18. Partial support covers only the agreed part of the task, such as finding one garment.

10. agreed pause. Turn 20. The agreed pause is ten minutes with permission to ask again afterward, not permission to begin the task automatically.

Page 21

1. five

Caregiver: "We will pause for five minutes."

The client requested a five-minute pause before another offer.

2. coat

Client: "Please ask again about help with my coat."

The specified later offer concerns a coat, not all clothing tasks.

3. twenty

Caregiver: "That leaves twenty scheduled minutes."

Twenty-five minutes remaining minus a five-minute pause leaves twenty.

4. neutral wording

Caregiver: "I will record the offer and response using neutral wording."

Factual language records the specific choice without criticizing the person.

03 Briefing and language checks

Reporting a change without diagnosing

1. Which statement comes directly from the client?

A. I feel more tired than yesterday.

The brief supplies a direct report of tiredness, not a diagnosis or measured assessment.

2. What did Luis observe?

B. Two pauses while Ms. Chen described breakfast at 9:20

The observed event is the two pauses, with a stated time and context.

3. What must happen if an urgent concern arises?

B. Use the appropriate local urgent or emergency route without waiting for routine reporting.

The routine reporting exercise does not replace timely local action for urgent or emergency concerns.

D Language checks / page 27

1. Which report is most precise?

A. At 9:20 she paused twice while describing breakfast and said she felt more tired than yesterday.

The precise account combines time, observable behavior, and attributed words without inventing a cause.

2. How should missing vital signs be described?

A. Not measured by Luis

The absence of measurements cannot be converted into normal findings or clinical clearance.

3. Which time is established?

A. When Luis noticed the pauses

The brief gives an observation time, while the onset and assessment remain unspecified.

4. What does receipt of the report establish?

D. The concern reached the receiving person, not that assessment is complete.

Communication receipt and clinical evaluation are separate stages with different meanings.

03 Conversation answers

Reporting a change without diagnosing

03

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 28-29

- 1. reported symptom. Turn 2. The reported symptom is Ms. Chen's description of tiredness, which should remain attributed to her.
- 2. objective description. Turn 4. The objective description states the two pauses, their context, and the observation time without assigning a cause.
- 3. onset. Turn 6. Onset means when the change began; the time the worker noticed it does not automatically establish that.
- 4. baseline. Turn 8. The baseline is Luis's usual observation during visits, not a claim about every moment outside them.
- 5. diagnosis. Turn 10. A diagnosis is a clinical conclusion; Luis's observations do not establish a specific cause of the change.
- 6. unmeasured. Turn 12. Unmeasured describes missing measurements and must not be translated into normal or reassuring results.
- 7. urgent pathway. Turn 14. The urgent pathway addresses concerns requiring prompt action and is not replaced by a pending routine message.
- 8. clinical assessment. Turn 16. Clinical assessment is the relevant professional evaluation, not merely acknowledgment that the report arrived.
- 9. read-back confirmation. Turn 18. Read-back confirmation checks whether the instructions were understood accurately before they are recorded or acted upon.
- 10. contemporaneous note. Turn 20. A contemporaneous note preserves the actual observation and communication near the event, including limits and instructions received.

F Transfer conversation

Page 30

1. 14:10

Caregiver: "The observation time is 14:10."

The supplied time concerns when the caregiver noticed the event.

2. tighter today

Receiver: "The client reported that the shoes felt tighter today."

These words preserve the person's stated experience rather than invent a clinical finding.

3. two

Caregiver: "I observed two attempts to fasten them."

Two fastening attempts are the specified direct observation.

4. unconfirmed

Receiver: "The cause remains unconfirmed."

The scenario supplies no assessment establishing the cause of the reported change.

04 Briefing and language checks

Boundaries around medicines and clinical questions

A Briefing checks / page 31

1. What does Rosa's assignment permit?

D. Reminders only

The fictional assignment expressly limits Rosa to reminders and excludes administration and dose recommendations.

2. What information is missing?

D. Medicine details and the relevant dose timing

The medicine, strength, schedule, and missed-dose timing are unknown in the brief.

3. What is the appropriate communication response?

A. Explain the limit and help contact the qualified advice route in the plan.

Qualified, medicine-specific advice is needed; neither a doubling nor a skipping rule can be invented.

1. Which response stays within the supplied role?

A. I cannot recommend a dose; I can help contact the nurse in your plan.

The response gives a useful qualified route without exceeding the reminder-only assignment.

2. Which record is inaccurate?

C. Dose administered by Rosa, when she only helped place a call

Helping obtain advice is not administration and must not be recorded as such.

3. What would justify a universal missed-dose rule here?

A. Nothing in the supplied facts

The medicine and circumstances are unknown, and clinical advice is outside the assigned role.

4. What if the usual nurse contact is unavailable?

C. Use the approved alternative or urgent route appropriate to the concern.

The appropriate backup pathway preserves timely access to advice without inventing medicine-specific instructions.

04 Conversation answers

Boundaries around medicines and clinical questions

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 37-38

1. clinical question. Turn 2. The dose decision needs qualified, medicine-specific advice rather than a caregiver's guess.

2. medication reminder. Turn 4. A medication reminder supports the agreed routine but does not authorize dose changes or administration.

3. strength. Turn 6. Strength identifies the amount of active ingredient per unit and is one relevant detail for qualified advice.

4. missed dose. Turn 8. A missed dose requires advice appropriate to the actual medicine and circumstances, which are not established here.

5. prescriber. Turn 10. The prescriber is an authorized clinical source; the actual advice route in this plan begins with the named nurse contact.

6. medication discrepancy. Turn 12. The medication discrepancy concerns the reported missed dose and relevant records, not an assumed deliberate refusal.

7. dosing interval. Turn 14. The dosing interval is the time between doses; unclear professional directions should be clarified rather than guessed.

8. out-of-hours contact. Turn 16. The out-of-hours contact is one possible designated alternative; the actual plan determines which backup route applies.

9. Administration. Turn 18. Administration is the actual giving or application of medicine under the appropriate role, not discussion or a telephone attempt.

10. follow-up instruction. Turn 20. A follow-up instruction must come from the appropriate professional and be understood accurately before it is recorded or followed.

F Transfer conversation

Page 39

1. discrepancy

Worker: "You are reporting a possible medication discrepancy."

The reported difference between directions requires clarification, not an assumed corrected dose.

2. pharmacy

Client: "Please help me contact the supplying pharmacy."

The supplied plan specifically names the supplying pharmacy as the advice contact.

3. reminders

Worker: "My assigned support is limited to reminders."

The fictional role allows reminders rather than dose decisions or administration.

4. verified

Worker: "The reported difference is not yet verified."

The worker has not confirmed the reported difference and should preserve that uncertainty.

05 Briefing and language checks

Meals, preferences, and unresolved restrictions

A Briefing checks / page 40

1. Which alternative is approved and available in this plan?

A. Yogurt with berries

The supplied plan approves the specified yogurt meal, which is available; that is not a general dietary recommendation.

2. What is known about the dumplings?

D. They are requested but their suitability is unconfirmed.

The actual product and preparation still need checking against the documented requirements.

3. What must Daniel avoid?

B. Guessing suitability or pressuring the client to eat

Respecting choice does not require an invented dietary decision or pressure to accept an alternative.

D Language checks / page 45

1. Which offer is appropriate?

A. Your approved yogurt meal is available; would you like it while we check the dumplings?

The appropriate offer respects today's preference, gives an approved alternative, and leaves the unverified food for the proper check.

2. Which record would be inaccurate?

A. Ate the yogurt meal, when it was only offered

An offer does not establish consumption and must not be recorded as intake.

3. Which statement correctly describes these dumplings?

A. Unlisted and not yet confirmed suitable

Neither a familiar brand, a request, nor an improvised alteration supplies the missing product and preparation assessment.

4. Which distinction matters?

B. Preference, allergy, intolerance, and clinical restriction have different meanings.

Accurate terminology prevents a preference or unsupported assumption from replacing the actual documented requirements.

05 Conversation answers

Meals, preferences, and unresolved restrictions

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 46-47

- 1. food preference. Turn 2. The food preference is Ms. Park's stated choice, not evidence of an allergy or a clinical restriction.
- 2. suitability. Turn 4. Suitability remains unconfirmed; absence from the plan does not establish a permanent prohibition.
- 3. substitution. Turn 6. A substitution changes the food or ingredient but does not automatically satisfy an unknown restriction.
- 4. meal plan. Turn 8. The supplied plan approves specified oatmeal and yogurt with berries; it does not remove the person's right to express another preference.
- 5. approved option. Turn 10. An approved option may be offered, but its status does not compel the client to accept or consume it.
- 6. label verification. Turn 12. Label verification must address the actual requirements through the proper process; a general reassurance is not equivalent.
- 7. preparation method. Turn 14. The preparation method can affect whether the final food meets requirements; package information alone may be incomplete.
- 8. appetite. Turn 16. Appetite concerns desire to eat; rejecting one option does not by itself establish loss of appetite.
- 9. intake record. Turn 18. The intake record concerns actual consumption under the plan, not a meal that was merely offered or prepared.
- 10. dietary restriction. Turn 20. The dietary restriction must be understood and applied through the appropriate process rather than guessed from the request.

F Transfer conversation

Page 48

1. pasta

Worker: "The available approved alternative is pasta."

This fictional plan identifies the specified pasta dish as approved and available, not every pasta product.

2. curry

Client: "My requested unlisted dish is curry."

The person requests curry, while the two stated approved dishes are soup and pasta.

3. unconfirmed

Worker: "Its suitability is currently unconfirmed."

The brief supplies no completed check of this curry against the person's actual plan.

4. consumption

Worker: "Offering pasta does not establish consumption."

No eating has been recorded, so an offer cannot be reported as actual food intake.

06 Briefing and language checks

Privacy and family communication

A Briefing checks / page 49

1. What is unverified?

A. The caller's identity and permission to receive information

A claimed family relationship does not establish the caller's identity or disclosure authority.

2. What is unavailable to Nadia?

A. The relevant contact record

The brief specifically says the contact record cannot be accessed at that moment.

3. What is the appropriate next step?

B. Route the request through the coordinator's approved process without disclosing visit details.

The approved process can establish the relevant facts without premature disclosure or an unsupported blanket prohibition.

D Language checks / page 54

1. Which response is most appropriate?

D. I can explain the approved request route, but I cannot discuss personal information on this unverified call.

The response protects the information while preserving a usable route for legitimate communication.

2. Which fact would not independently establish disclosure permission?

B. The caller knowing the person's full name

Knowing a name is compatible with many relationships and does not establish permission to receive private information.

3. How should the caller's relationship be recorded now?

D. Claimed niece; identity and permission unverified

The record should preserve the claim and uncertainty without granting authority or inventing dishonesty.

4. What does unavailable permission information mean here?

A. Nadia cannot verify the requested disclosure at this moment.

An unavailable record leaves verification incomplete rather than proving permission absent or supplying it automatically.

06 Conversation answers

Privacy and family communication

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 55-56

1. personal information. Turn 2. Personal information includes visit details and may include the fact of a care relationship, so verification must precede disclosure.

2. claimed relationship. Turn 4. A claimed relationship is the caller's account; knowing personal details does not independently verify identity or permission.

3. Confidentiality. Turn 6. Confidentiality protects personal information even when the request sounds ordinary or comes from a possible relative.

4. disclosure. Turn 8. A disclosure includes a small visit detail; its limited size does not remove the need for an appropriate basis.

5. contact record. Turn 10. The contact record is unavailable, so Nadia cannot confirm either existing permission or an error in the record.

6. verification status. Turn 12. Verification status remains incomplete; recording that fact does not deny the claimed family relationship.

7. permission to receive information. Turn 14. Permission to receive information is separate from identity and must cover the particular disclosure being requested.

8. Data minimization. Turn 16. Data minimization avoids collecting unnecessary personal material and leaves the required evidence to the approved verification process.

9. secure channel. Turn 18. A secure channel is the approved route for the relevant information, not any channel suggested during an unverified call.

10. referral route. Turn 20. The referral route gives the request an appropriate next step while preserving confidentiality until verification is complete.

F Transfer conversation

Page 57

1. son

Worker: "The caller describes himself as the client's son."

Son is the claimed relationship, not a verified authorization finding.

2. unverified

Coordinator: "Identity and permission remain unverified."

The necessary record is unavailable and the relevant checks are not complete.

3. visit notes

Worker: "The requested information is the visit notes."

The supplied request concerns visit notes, which should not be disclosed prematurely.

4. office route

Coordinator: "Please use the approved office route."

The brief identifies an approved office process for handling and verifying the request.

07 Briefing and language checks

A handoff the next person can use

A Briefing checks / page 58

1. What is complete at 11:00?

B. Breakfast support and laundry

The brief explicitly confirms breakfast support and laundry, while transport remains pending.

2. Who is arranging transport?

D. Coordinator Dev

Dev is the identified responsible coordinator, so the incoming worker does not automatically become the booking owner.

3. When does Mateo start?

D. 15:00

The incoming caregiver's start is 15:00, distinct from tomorrow's 10:00 appointment.

D Language checks / page 63

1. Which handoff is accurate?

D. Breakfast and laundry complete; transport pending with Dev for tomorrow at 10:00; Mateo starts at 15:00.

The accurate version preserves task status, action ownership, and the distinct appointment and shift times.

2. What should a later confirmation do to the record?

D. Add a traceable update showing the actual new status and time.

A later update should preserve the original history while adding the newly established information.

3. Which statement confuses awareness with responsibility?

A. Mateo read the query, so he automatically owns the booking.

Receiving information does not itself create an authorized reassignment of the transport action.

4. Which wording avoids time ambiguity in a real record?

B. The actual appointment date and time

An explicit calendar date and time remain interpretable when the record is read on a later day.

07 Conversation answers

A handoff the next person can use

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 64-65

- 1. pending item. Turn 2. The pending item is tomorrow's transport query, separate from the two support tasks already completed.
- 2. action owner. Turn 4. The action owner is Dev because the scenario explicitly assigns the transport arrangement to the coordinator.
- 3. responsibility transfer. Turn 6. Responsibility transfer requires an explicit appropriate reassignment, not an inference from forwarding or reading a message.
- 4. timestamp. Turn 8. The timestamp identifies when the recorded pending status applied and helps distinguish it from later developments.
- 5. appointment date. Turn 10. The appointment date removes the changing reference of tomorrow when the record is read later.
- 6. status update. Turn 12. A status update should report confirmed new information; an empty pickup field must not be filled by copying a different time.
- 7. completion evidence. Turn 14. Completion evidence supports the particular finished tasks and does not establish that every need or unresolved arrangement is resolved.
- 8. source attribution. Turn 16. Source attribution identifies who supplied the new information so another worker can understand and verify the update.
- 9. closed-loop communication. Turn 18. Closed-loop communication checks understanding by repeating the relevant facts and allowing correction instead of assuming a message was understood.
- 10. acceptance of handoff. Turn 20. Acceptance of handoff acknowledges receipt and understanding of the relevant information, not completion of the pending transport arrangement.

1. meal support

Outgoing worker: "The completed task is meal support."

The brief confirms meal support, not the equipment delivery arrangement.

2. Ana

Incoming worker: "The query is pending with Ana."

Ana is the named coordinator responsible for the unresolved query.

3. Friday at 14:00

Outgoing worker: "The delivery query concerns Friday at 14:00."

Friday at 14:00 is the relevant delivery time, distinct from the incoming shift.

4. 16:00

Incoming worker: "My shift starts at 16:00."

The supplied incoming start is 16:00 and does not transfer arrangement responsibility.

08 Briefing and language checks

Delays, complaints, and reliable follow-up

A Briefing checks / page 67

1. What is the estimated arrival window?

D. 9:30-9:45

Dispatch supplies a range and explicitly does not guarantee the arrival.

2. What is due by 9:10?

C. A client update from dispatch

The commitment concerns communication, not a guaranteed arrival or completed backup arrangement.

3. What is the backup status at 8:50?

D. Being checked, not confirmed

The brief says dispatch is checking an approved arrangement and has not confirmed cover.

D Language checks / page 72

1. Which update is accurate at 8:50?

A. Arrival is estimated at 9:30-9:45; backup is being checked; dispatch will update by 9:10.

The accurate version preserves the estimate, pending backup, and separate communication commitment.

2. What is wrong with saying a relative will cover?

D. No relative's availability, suitability, or authorization is established.

The proposed substitute is unsupported; the scenario does not establish who can provide authorized cover.

3. What should a failed call be recorded as?

A. A contact attempt, not a completed client update

An attempted call does not establish that the person received and understood the information.

4. What if an urgent welfare concern becomes apparent?

D. Use the appropriate urgent response without waiting for the routine 9:10 update.

A scheduled communication update does not replace the appropriate timely action for an urgent concern.

08 Conversation answers

Delays, complaints, and reliable follow-up

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 73-74

- 1. service delay. Turn 2. The service delay means the planned nine-o'clock start will not be met and needs a clear early explanation.
- 2. arrival window. Turn 4. The arrival window is an estimated range, not a guarantee that the earliest time will be achieved.
- 3. service impact. Turn 6. The service impact concerns the delayed breakfast support, not merely an internal scheduling inconvenience.
- 4. dispatch. Turn 8. Dispatch is the named team coordinating the delayed visit and checking the appropriate alternative arrangement.
- 5. backup cover. Turn 10. Backup cover needs an appropriate verified arrangement; a relative cannot be treated as available or assigned without confirmation.
- 6. update commitment. Turn 12. The update commitment is to contact the client by nine ten, not to guarantee arrival or confirmed cover by then.
- 7. revised estimate. Turn 14. A revised estimate may report new timing, but it must remain qualified unless an actual commitment is confirmed.
- 8. complaint. Turn 16. The complaint concerns unreliable support and communication, and should be recorded without reducing it to a travel inconvenience.
- 9. welfare concern. Turn 18. A welfare concern requiring urgent action must use the appropriate response route instead of waiting for a routine update.
- 10. follow-through. Turn 20. Follow-through means carrying out the actual promised contact and actions, while preserving their status and avoiding unsupported assurances.

The range is the arrival estimate, not a guaranteed start.

The update commitment is 13:55 and is separate from the later arrival estimate.

Count the change together

E Extended conversation

Pages 76-77

1. cash record. Turn 2. The cash record starts with the fifty dollars actually handed over; it provides a shared basis for checking spending and money returned, rather than relying on memory.

2. itemized receipt. Turn 4. The itemized receipt identifies the purchases and their charges; the total of 34.70 must relate to the agreed shopping rather than an unexplained deduction from the client's cash.

3. change. Turn 6. Expected change is fifty dollars less 34.70 spent, or 15.30; that calculation does not establish that the full amount has already been returned.

4. shortfall. Turn 8. The initial shortfall is two dollars between expected change of 15.30 and the 13.30 counted; it identifies a discrepancy without proving theft or its cause.

5. reconciliation. Turn 10. Reconciliation shows that 34.70 in supported purchases plus 15.30 in returned change equals the original fifty; finding the coin resolves this specific difference.

6. correction. Turn 16. A traceable correction preserves the relevant original entry and identifies the actual change under the recording process, instead of concealing the discrepancy or recording money never returned.

The expected seven dollars sixty exceeds the initial five dollars sixty by two dollars.

3. 7.60

Ask how to communicate

E Extended conversation

Pages 79-80

1. communication preference. Turn 2. The communication preference comes from Mr. Bell himself; hearing loss does not establish that shouting, written-only communication, or speaking to a relative would meet his needs.

2. background noise. Turn 4. Background noise from the television is an identified barrier in this conversation; Mr. Bell agrees to reducing it rather than the worker changing his surroundings without asking.

3. plain language. Turn 6. Plain language expresses the confirmed times in understandable everyday wording; it does not omit the date or blur pickup time with appointment time.

4. read-back. Turn 8. The read-back checks the specific date and times, allowing correction without treating a general yes or nod as proof that every detail was heard accurately.

5. written confirmation. Turn 10. Written confirmation in the requested large-print format supports Mr. Bell's access to the details; providing any written text would not necessarily meet his stated need.

6. consent. Turn 14. Consent to involve another person or share relevant information must follow the actual process; a visiting relative's presence does not automatically establish unlimited permission.

The stated date is the sixth of June; no other date is supplied or authorized by the exercise.

Ms. Grant specifically requests large print, so written information alone does not establish that the format meets her need.

1. no response. Turn 2. No response describes the unsuccessful contact attempts; it does not establish that Ms. Webb is away, has refused care, or has been assessed as safe.

2. observation. Turn 4. The visible light is an observation, not proof of presence or wellbeing; the report should separate what Elena can see from conclusions she cannot support.

3. access arrangements. Turn 6. Access arrangements define the authorized entry process in the actual plan; an unanswered visit does not itself authorize forced entry, a borrowed key, or an improvised method.

4. unverified account. Turn 8. The neighbor's suggestion is attributed but unconfirmed; it should not replace direct contact or the prescribed welfare response, nor justify unnecessary disclosure of care details.

5. welfare response. Turn 10. The welfare response is the active action required by the person's no-answer plan; managing the worker's next visit does not establish that this client's situation is resolved.

6. Visit status. Turn 14. Visit status must distinguish arrival, attempted contact, and support actually delivered; a worker reaching the property does not mean the scheduled care tasks were completed.

F Transfer exchange

A suggestion about visiting family has not been verified and cannot establish the person's whereabouts or welfare.

3. delivered

Worker: The planned care has not been delivered .

No entry or care occurred, so reaching the address cannot be recorded as providing the scheduled support.

4. emergency

Original cases. Clear boundaries.

These are original fictional teaching conversations, not transcripts of real workers. Names, figures, organizations, and incidents are invented. Sources support terminology and communication aims, not the fictional results or an endorsement of this book.

[1] NICE. Home Care: Delivering Personal Care and Practical Support (NG21).

Open the original source

England-focused background on person-centered support and missed visits; indexed recommendations consulted. Cases and wording are original, not universal care procedures. Checked 10 October 2026.

[2] NICE. Managing Medicines for Adults Receiving Social Care in the Community (NG67).

Open the original source

Background on assigned responsibilities, recording medicines support, and qualified advice. The fictional reminder-only role is not a universal caregiver scope. Checked 10 October 2026.

[3] Care Quality Commission. Regulation 11: Need for Consent.

Open the original source

England regulatory context for ongoing consent and understandable communication. Local legal requirements and authorized processes govern actual practice. Checked 10 October 2026.

[4] NHS. When to Call 999.

Open the original source

UK emergency-service context. The book uses local emergency routes rather than applying one country-specific telephone number everywhere. Checked 10 October 2026.

People, schedules, care plans, and incidents are fictional. This book teaches workplace English, not clinical care, medication instructions, capacity assessment, or professional certification. Follow the actual care plan, consent and privacy requirements, training, employer procedures, and qualified clinical advice. For urgent or emergency concerns use the appropriate local service and procedure without waiting for a routine callback. The cited England/UK sources do not establish universal rules.
