Concept #13 ► Allow vs Prohibit

There are many terms that refer to accepting or rejecting, but with slightly different meanings. Below are a few examples of common usage of these terms.

The distance to the girl's house prevented him from walking there.
His new car enabled him to quickly drive to the girl's house.
These terms are used for physical ability or inability.

They were ineligible for marriage since neither was 18 years old.
They were both qualified for marriage one year later.
These terms are used in the context of legal or official qualifications.

She refused | agreed to marry him.
She rejected | accepted his proposal.

The 1st line is about actions (marrying). The 2nd line is about things (proposal).

Her parents forbid | allowed/permitted them to marry.
These terms are use in contexts in which an authority makes a decision.

They were banned from the restaurant due to their loud argument.
This term is used when specific people have been "black-listed".

Suggested Lesson Flow

Warm-up

Display the concept image and ask learners to predict the rule behind Allow vs Prohibit: Understanding Usage in Different Contexts before reading the explanation.

Model

Walk through the Core Idea and the sections on 1. Prevent vs Enable, 2. Ineligible vs Qualified, 3. Refuse vs Agree / Reject vs Accept. Pause after each part so students can restate the pattern in plain English.

Guided practice

Project two or three examples from the concept sheet and ask pairs to explain why each choice works, not just what the answer is.

Independent work

Assign the 24 practice items for quiet work, partner checking, and final feedback.

Closure

Ask students to create one new sentence or mini-example of their own that follows the same pattern.

Likely Learner Errors

- Learners may overgeneralize the first pattern they notice. Keep returning to 1. Prevent vs Enable, 2. Ineligible vs Qualified, 3. Refuse vs Agree / Reject vs Accept and ask students to explain what changes from one example to the next.
- Long explanations can hide the signal word or structure. Have students underline the exact phrase that tells them which form, pattern, or response is needed.
- If students can choose an answer but cannot explain it, ask them to justify their choice using words taken directly from the concept sheet.

Differentiation and Delivery Notes

- Support: teach one section at a time, then send students back to the examples or the practice set so they can apply the same rule immediately.
- Pair work: let students compare answers aloud before you reveal the key. The explanation step is as important as the final answer.
- Extension: ask stronger students to write two fresh examples or a short dialogue that uses the same target language accurately.

Model Language from the Concept Sheet

- The rain prevented us from going for a hike. Example: The strict rules prevented students from cheating on the exam.
- Her encouragement enabled him to pursue his dreams. Example: The new software enabled faster data processing.
- He was ineligible to vote because he was underage. Example: The candidate was ineligible for the position due to a lack of experience.
- She is qualified to teach English as she has a degree in the subject. Example: After passing the exams, they were qualified to drive.
- He refused to eat his vegetables. Example: She refused to participate in the project.
- He agreed to help with the homework. Example: She agreed to meet her friend for lunch.

Answer Key

Use this key for whole-class feedback or fast marking.

Item 01 prevented Feedback: "Enabled" is incorrect because it means to make something possible. The phrase "from cheating" requires a term that stops an action, making "prevented" correct. "Enabled the students from" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 02 enabled Feedback: "Prevented" is incorrect because it means to stop something from happening. The phrase "to pursue his dreams" requires a term that facilitates an action, making "enabled" correct. "Prevented him to" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 03 ineligible Feedback: "Qualified" is incorrect because it means having the necessary skills or credentials. The phrase "missed the registration deadline" indicates a lack of eligibility, making "ineligible" correct. "Qualified for the competition because they missed" would be logically inconsistent.

Item 04 qualified Feedback: "Ineligible" is incorrect because it means not having the right to do something. The phrase "after completing the training" indicates having the necessary credentials, making "qualified" correct. "Ineligible to perform" would be logically inconsistent.

Item 05 refused Feedback: "Agreed" is incorrect because it means to consent to do something. The phrase "had other commitments" indicates an unwillingness to join, making "refused" correct. "Agreed to join because she had other commitments" would be logically inconsistent.

Item 06 agreed Feedback: "Declined" is incorrect because it means to refuse. The phrase "to help his friend" indicates a willingness, making "agreed" correct. "Declined to help his friend" would be logically inconsistent.

Item 07 rejected Feedback: "Accepted" is incorrect because it means to receive or agree to something. The phrase "the proposal for the new policy" indicates a dismissal, making "rejected" correct. "Accepted the proposal for" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 08 accepted Feedback: "Rejected" is incorrect because it means to dismiss or refuse an idea. The phrase "the invitation to the party" indicates a positive response, making "accepted" correct. "Rejected the invitation" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 09 forbids Feedback: "Allows" is incorrect because it means to let someone do something. The structure "forbids [someone] to [do something]" or "forbids [someone] from [doing something]" is commonly used, making "forbids" correct. "Allows students to use mobile phones" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 10 allows Feedback: "Forbids" is incorrect because it means to prohibit. The structure "allows [someone] to [do something]" indicates permission, making "allows" correct. "Forbids employees to work from home" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 11 forbids Feedback: "Permits" is incorrect because it means to allow. The structure "forbids [something] in [some place]" indicates prohibition, making "forbids" correct. "Permits smoking in public places" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 12 permits Feedback: "Bans" is incorrect because it means to officially or legally prohibit something. The structure "permits [someone] to [do something]" indicates permission, making "permits" correct. "Bans street vendors to operate" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 13 prevented Feedback: "Enabled" is incorrect because it means to make something possible. The structure "prevented [someone] from [doing something]" indicates stopping an action, making "prevented" correct. "Enabled us from going" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 14 enabled Feedback: "Prevented" is incorrect because it means to stop something from happening. The structure "enabled [someone] to [do something]" indicates facilitation, making "enabled" correct. "Prevented her to run" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 15 ineligible Feedback: "Qualified" is incorrect because it means having the necessary skills or credentials. The phrase "because of his grades" indicates disqualification, making "ineligible" correct. "Qualified for the scholarship because of his grades" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 16 qualified Feedback: "Ineligible" is incorrect because it means not having the right to do something. The phrase "years of experience" indicates competence, making "qualified" correct. "Ineligible to lead the team" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 17 refused Feedback: "Agreed" is incorrect because it means to consent. The phrase "because he was busy" indicates unwillingness, making "refused" correct. "Agreed to attend because he was busy" would be logically inconsistent.

Item 18 agreed Feedback: "Refused" is incorrect because it means to indicate unwillingness. The phrase "to lend him some money" indicates willingness, making "agreed" correct. "Refused to lend him" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 19 rejected Feedback: "Accepted" is incorrect because it means to receive or agree to something, and is followed by the preposition "for". In contrast, "rejected" is usually used without the preposition "for" such as, "The board rejected the job candidate." "Accepted the candidate for the job" would be grammatically inconsistent given the context.

Item 20 accepted Feedback: "Rejected" is incorrect because it means to dismiss or refuse an idea or proposal. The phrase "with a smile" indicates a positive reception, making "accepted" correct. "Rejected the gift with a smile" would be logically inconsistent.

Item 21 allowed Feedback: "Forbade" is incorrect because it means to prohibit or order someone not to do something. The structure "allowed [someone] to [do something]" indicates permission, making "allowed" correct. "Forbade the students to leave early" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 22 forbade Feedback: "Permitted" is incorrect because it means to allow someone to do something. The structure "forbade [someone] from [doing something]" indicates prohibition, making "forbade" correct. "Permitted her from going" would be grammatically incorrect.

Item 23 banned Feedback: "Permitted" is incorrect because it means to allow someone to do something. The structure "banned [something] on [some place]" indicates prohibition, making "banned" correct. "Permitted the use of plastic bottles on campus" would be logically inconsistent given the context.

Item 24 bans Feedback: "Permits" is incorrect because it means to allow someone to do something. The structure "bans [someone] from [doing something]" indicates prohibition, making "bans" correct. "Permits vendors from selling" would be grammatically incorrect.
