Concept #19 ► Directions & Locations

The vertical terms north, south, top, and bottom come first when referring to compound directions and locations.

He signed his name in the bottom-right corner of the contract.

She noticed an error at the top of the document.

More snow falls in the North.
(Named areas are capitalized.)

We headed northeast in the sailboat.

We returned to the northeastern region.

Strong, southwesterly winds slowed our progress in the sailboat.
(Note the "n" is missing in the adverb form.)

He is from Southeast Asia.

Note how prepositions, hyphens, and capitalization are used in these examples.

Suggested Lesson Flow

Warm-up

Display the concept image and ask learners to predict the rule behind Directions & Locations: A Detailed Explanation for Non-Native English Speakers before reading the explanation.

Model

Walk through the Core Idea and the sections on Key Points, Additional Example Sentences, Conclusion. Pause after each part so students can restate the pattern in plain English.

Guided practice

Project two or three examples from the concept sheet and ask pairs to explain why each choice works, not just what the answer is.

Independent work

Assign the 24 practice items for quiet work, partner checking, and final feedback.

Closure

Ask students to create one new sentence or mini-example of their own that follows the same pattern.

Likely Learner Errors

- Learners may overgeneralize the first pattern they notice. Keep returning to Key Points, Additional Example Sentences, Conclusion and ask students to explain what changes from one example to the next.
- Long explanations can hide the signal word or structure. Have students underline the exact phrase that tells them which form, pattern, or response is needed.
- If students can choose an answer but cannot explain it, ask them to justify their choice using words taken directly from the concept sheet.

Differentiation and Delivery Notes

- Support: teach one section at a time, then send students back to the examples or the practice set so they can apply the same rule immediately.
- Pair work: let students compare answers aloud before you reveal the key. The explanation step is as important as the final answer.
- Extension: ask stronger students to write two fresh examples or a short dialogue that uses the same target language accurately.

Model Language from the Concept Sheet

- East (E)
- South (S)
- West (W)
- Northeast (NE)
- Northwest (NW)

Answer Key

Use this key for whole-class feedback or fast marking.

Item 01 False. The vertical terms (north, south, top, bottom) come first in compound directions. For example, "northeast" is correct, not "eastnorth".

Item 02 True. This sentence correctly uses the compound direction "top-left" with a hyphen.

Item 03 False. General directions are not capitalized. Only when referring to specific named areas (e.g., "the North Pole") should directions be capitalized.

Item 04 True. "Southwesterly" is the correct adjectival form for winds coming from the southwest.

Item 05 False. Single compound directions like "northwest" are written as one word without a hyphen.

Item 06 False. General directions should not be capitalized or hyphenated. The correct form would be "southeast".

Item 07 True. Compound directions like "bottom-right" require a hyphen when used as an adjective before a noun.

Item 08 True. When referring to a general direction, "south" is not capitalized.

Item 09 False. When referring to a specific geographical region like Southeast Asia, the direction is capitalized.

Item 10 False. The correct form is "northeastern region" - compound directions are written as one word without a space.

Item 11 False. General directions should not be capitalized, and compound directions don't use hyphens when used as nouns. The correct form is "northeast".

Item 12 False. When used as a compound adjective before a noun, "bottom-right" should be hyphenated: "Place your signature at the bottom-right of the form".

Item 13 False. "Top" is not capitalized in this context as it's not a proper noun or part of a title.

Item 14 False. The correct form is "strong southwesterly winds" - no capitalization or hyphen is needed for the direction.

Item 15 True. When referring to a specific geographical region like the Northern Hemisphere, the direction is capitalized.

Item 16 False. The correct form is "The ship sailed northeast" - no capitalization or hyphen is needed for the direction.

Item 17 False. The hyphen is necessary in "top-right corner" as it's a compound adjective before a noun.

Item 18 False. When referring to a general direction, "south" should not be capitalized: "The temperature in the south is usually higher".

Item 19 False. Compound directions like "northwestern" are written as one word without a space or hyphen.

Item 20 False. When referring to a general direction within a city, "southern" should not be capitalized: "She lives in the southern part of the city".

Item 21 True. The correct form is "bottom-left drawer" as it's a compound adjective before a noun.

Item 22 False. The correct form is "The wind is blowing from the northeast" - no hyphen is needed for the direction when used as a noun.

Item 23 True. When referring to a specific geographical region like Southeast Asia, the direction is capitalized.

Item 24 False. The correct form is "We're traveling southwest for our vacation" - no hyphen is needed for the direction when used as an adverb.
