Eight scenarios. Eight extended conversations.

INSIDE THE BOOK

192 vocabulary entries / 128 reusable phrases

160 dialogue turns / 80 numbered dialogue gaps

Word banks and explained answer keys

Upper-intermediate to advanced (B2-C1). For restaurant servers, food runners, section leads, and guest-facing food-service teams.

2026 edition

Eight scenarios. Eight skills.

Eight service conversations: clarify an order, compare menu prices, receive an allergy question, explain a delay, correct a dish, split a bill, agree on clearing, and hand over a live section.

01 Confirming seats and order details

4

Who asked for no onions? | Attach each dish and modifier to the correct guest, then read back the order before sending it.

02 Explaining menu choices and prices

13

The steak set or steak alone? | Explain a supplement, calculate comparable menu prices, and leave the purchase choice with the guest.

03 Receiving an allergy question

22

Checking the bun before ordering | Receive a reported allergy, ask the kitchen a precise question, and communicate unresolved ingredient and preparation information.

04 Coordinating courses and delays

31

Eight more minutes? | Explain a kitchen estimate against a guest departure time without converting readiness into a guaranteed meal completion.

05 Correcting a dish without blame

40

Pasta ordered, risotto delivered | Acknowledge an order mismatch, offer a specific remedy, and separate replacement timing from a bill-adjustment decision.

06 Explaining and splitting a bill

49

What does three ways mean? | Clarify equal payments versus item-based checks, state the arithmetic, and confirm the method before processing payment.

07 Agreeing on clearing and shared service

58

An empty plate still in use | Check permission to clear specific items and coordinate shared service without inferring that an empty plate is finished.

08 Handing over a live section

67

Two tables, two unfinished tasks | Give a concise table-by-table handover that separates meal stage, payment status, and an unresolved charge query.

Warm service. Precise details.

Good service depends on listening closely while several things happen at once. Move between friendly guest-facing language and concise kitchen messages. Keep the table, seat, dish, request, timing, and responsible person clear.

Ask one useful question

A short clarification can prevent a long correction. Repeat the exact detail that is unclear and ask the guest to attach it to a person or dish. Do not turn an unidentified modifier into a table-wide instruction.

"Which dish should have no onions?"

Translate kitchen shorthand

Colleagues may say fire, covers, or on the fly. Guests need a clear explanation of their meal. Use internal shorthand only when the listener understands its local meaning.

"The kitchen estimates another eight minutes for your mains."

Show the complete comparison

A set price and an individual dish price are not interchangeable. Name what each includes before describing the difference. A supplement increases the stated base; it is not a replacement price.

"The steak set is $29 with dessert; steak alone is $27 without dessert."

Own the next step

An apology is more useful when followed by a specific action within your authority. Separate a replacement offer from an approved bill adjustment, and transfer live queries to a named colleague.

"I can offer the remake; the shift lead needs to review any bill adjustment."

PROFESSIONAL BOUNDARIES

All restaurants, prices, guests, and service events are fictional. This book teaches workplace English, not food-safety certification, medical advice, or payment compliance. Follow current local law and actual allergy, food-handling, payment, and emergency procedures. Menu descriptions do not establish allergen safety. Do not delay urgent help for a routine service conversation.

Who asked for no onions?

A Read the situation

Attach each dish and modifier to the correct guest, then read back the order before sending it.

At fictional table 12, three guests are ordering. Seat one wants mushroom pasta; seat two wants salad with dressing separately; seat three has not chosen. Someone says "no onions," but server Lena cannot tell which dish the request belongs to. She has not sent the order. Guest Sam at seat two confirms during the conversation that the onion request belongs to the salad. Seat three still needs time. No allergy is reported in this case, and the onion request must not be treated as a confirmed allergy or a rule for every dish.

PEOPLE / Lena: Server | Sam: Guest at seat two

CLARIFICATION IS PART OF ATTENTION

A guest may speak while another person is ordering, or answer on behalf of someone else. A brief, neutral check avoids blame and keeps the exchange moving. Say which detail needs clarification rather than asking the whole table to repeat everything.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. Which seat has not chosen?

A Seat two

C Seat three

B All three seats

D Seat one

2. Which request already belongs to the salad?

A Dressing mixed through the salad

C No mushrooms in the pasta

B Dressing separately

D A completed third main

3. What should Lena clarify before sending?

A Whether every guest dislikes all vegetables

C Whether there are four covers

B Whether the pasta was already served

D Which dish should have no onions

CLARIFY THE DISH

"Which dish should have no onions?"

READ BACK SEAT ONE

"Seat one is the mushroom pasta."

PRESERVE THE PENDING CHOICE

"Seat three is still deciding."

AVOID A TABLE-WIDE CHANGE

"I will not apply that request to the other dishes."

CHECK THE GUEST

"Is that request for your salad?"

READ BACK SEAT TWO

"Seat two is the salad with dressing on the side."

ATTACH THE MODIFIER

"I will put no onions on the salad request."

ASK BRIEFLY

"May I check one detail before I send this?"

Which dish

Targets the missing reference instead of questioning the guest's reason.

Still deciding

Describes an unfinished choice without canceling the meal.

TRANSLATE SEPARATELY

"The dressing will be requested on the side."

KEEP THE RECORD ALIGNED

"The seat reference and modifier need to stay together."

CONFIRM UNDERSTANDING

"Have I matched the dishes and requests correctly?"

KEEP TRANSMISSION ACCURATE

"The order has not been sent yet."

SEPARATE REQUEST AND GUARANTEE

"I will confirm any preparation question through our kitchen process."

AVOID AN INVENTED ALLERGY

"No allergy has been reported in this exchange."

ALLOW TIME

"I will give seat three another moment to choose."

CLOSE WITH THE CORRECTED DETAIL

"Salad for seat two, no onions, dressing on the side."

Put on the request

Refers to recording the instruction, not adding onions to the food.

Yet

Distinguishes an unsent order from one already in preparation.

Matched correctly

Invites correction before an avoidable error moves to the kitchen.

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which clarification is most useful?

- A Which dish should have no onions?
- B Why did everyone speak so badly?
- C Should I remove every vegetable from every plate?
- D Shall I invent something for seat three?

2. What should be sent as the salad modifier after Sam confirms?

- A No mushrooms in every dish
- B Dressing mixed through all dishes
- C Cancel seat three's meal
- D No onions, dressing on the side

3. Which statement preserves the pending choice?

- A Seat three ordered mushroom pasta.
- B Seat three is not eating.
- C All three mains are confirmed.
- D Seat three is still deciding.

4. What does the onion request establish medically?

- A No allergy diagnosis or report by itself
- B A confirmed onion allergy for all diners
- C That no allergy process is ever needed
- D That all foods are safe

- 01 Lena: Before I send your order, may I check one detail? I heard no onions while the other dish was being discussed, but I did not catch which dish that was for.
- 02 Sam: That was for my salad. I am in seat two. Please keep the ¹ _____ with that dish, not with the mushroom pasta.
- 03 Lena: Thank you. I have mushroom pasta for seat one and salad for seat two. You also asked for the dressing separately, is that right?
- 04 Sam: Yes, dressing ² _____. I would like to add it myself. The no-onions request is also mine, so those two details belong together.
- 05 Lena: That is clear now. Seat three has not chosen a main yet, so I have not added a dish for that person.
- 06 Sam: Correct. Please leave that as a ³ _____. We were comparing the options, and I do not want my request to sound like an order for everyone.
- 07 Lena: Of course. I will check with seat three separately. Let me repeat the confirmed details so you can tell me if I have missed anything.
- 08 Sam: A quick ⁴ _____ would help. It was noisy when we were speaking, and I would rather correct the reference now than when the plates arrive.
- 09 Lena: Seat one, mushroom pasta. Seat two, salad with no onions and dressing on the side. Seat three is still deciding. Have I matched those correctly?
- 10 Sam: Yes. That ⁵ _____ is right. The pasta stays as ordered; the salad is the one with the two requests.

- 11 Lena: Good. I will make sure the dish and its instructions stay together in our system. I have not transmitted the order yet.
- 12 Sam: Thank you. I know a short note can look different on an ⁶ _____ if the request is not linked to the right item.
- 13 Lena: Exactly. I am checking the wording before it reaches the kitchen. I will also follow our process if any preparation detail needs further confirmation.
- 14 Sam: That makes sense. We have three ⁷ _____, but only two main-course choices so far. Please do not treat the number of diners as three completed orders.
- 15 Lena: I will keep those separate. I also will not add an allergy note that no one has reported. If you have a dietary requirement, please tell me directly.
- 16 Sam: Understood. The current ⁸ _____ is no onions in my salad. I can see why the exact wording matters when you pass it to the kitchen.
- 17 Lena: I will give seat three another moment, then check the remaining choice. There is no need for you to decide on that person's behalf.
- 18 Sam: Good. Once that person chooses, you can complete the ⁹ _____ with them. I have confirmed only the details that belong to me.
- 19 Lena: Thank you. I now have the salad request attached correctly, and the mushroom pasta remains unchanged. I will check the third choice next.
- 20 Sam: Thank you. Please check that last choice before you ¹⁰ _____. I will leave seat three to tell you what they would like.

Read both roles, pausing for two seconds when the speaker changes. Repeat with the bank covered, then check any missed expressions.

The steak set or steak alone?

A Read the situation

Explain a supplement, calculate comparable menu prices, and leave the purchase choice with the guest.

The fictional lunch set is $24 and includes a main and dessert. Choosing steak adds a $5 supplement to that set price. The a la carte steak is $27 without dessert. Both steak options include potatoes. Guest Jordan initially thinks the steak set must cost $24, then wonders whether potatoes cost extra. Server Priya must compare the $29 steak set with the $27 steak alone, explain the two-dollar difference, and avoid inventing a separate dessert price, drink inclusion, or tax policy. No choice has been made at the start.

PEOPLE / Jordan: Lunch guest | Priya: Server

HELP THE GUEST COMPARE

A recommendation should explain a relevant difference without pressuring the guest or implying a more expensive option is always better. State the total for each option and its inclusions. Let the guest decide whether the added item is worth the difference.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. What is the steak set price?

A $24

B $27

C $32

D $29

2. Which item is included in both steak options?

A A separate starter

B Potatoes

C Dessert

D Coffee

3. What is not supplied?

A The set base price

1. Which calculation is correct?

- A $$27 - $24 = $3$ for dessert
- B $$24 + $5 = $29$ for the steak set
- C $$27 + $5 = $32$ for the steak set
- D $$24 - $5 = $19$ for the steak set

2. Which comparison is complete?

- A $24 versus $27 with identical inclusions
- B $29 without potatoes versus $27 with potatoes
- C $5 versus $27 for the entire meal
- D $29 with dessert versus $27 without dessert; both include potatoes.

3. What cannot be inferred from the two-dollar difference?

- A Both steak options include potatoes.
- B The restaurant's standalone dessert price is $2.
- C The steak set costs $2 more.
- D The set includes dessert.

4. Which recommendation avoids pressure?

- A The set guarantees the largest portion.
- B If you want dessert, the set includes it for two dollars more than steak alone.
- C Everyone must buy the set.

- 01 Jordan: Could you help me with the lunch menu? I saw twenty-four dollars beside the set, but there is another amount beside the steak.
- 02 Priya: Certainly. Twenty-four dollars is the ¹ _____ for a main and dessert. Choosing steak adds five dollars, so that particular set comes to twenty-nine.
- 03 Jordan: So the five dollars is on top of the set price, not the complete price of the steak and not a replacement for twenty-four?
- 04 Priya: Exactly. It is a ² _____ to the set. Twenty-four plus five is twenty-nine for the steak set, including dessert.
- 05 Jordan: I also see steak listed separately at twenty-seven. Is that another way of ordering the same main without taking the lunch set?
- 06 Priya: Yes, that is the ³ _____ option. The steak is twenty-seven without dessert. Both options include potatoes, so you do not need to add them to this comparison.
- 07 Jordan: That answers my next question. I thought perhaps the lower price meant that the steak came on its own and I would pay separately for potatoes.
- 08 Priya: Potatoes are a shared ⁴ _____ here. The difference stated on this menu is the dessert, alongside the two different menu prices.
- 09 Jordan: Then the set is two dollars more than the steak alone. I am not especially hungry, so I am deciding whether I want dessert.
- 10 Priya: That is the correct ⁵ _____. If you want the included dessert, the set is twenty-nine. If not, the steak alone is twenty-seven.

- 11 Jordan: Could I have the steak alone now and assume any dessert will cost two dollars later? That would let me decide after the main.
- 12 Priya: I would need to check the ⁶ _____ before quoting that. The two-dollar comparison does not mean every separately ordered dessert has a two-dollar price.
- 13 Jordan: Fair enough. I do not want to order on the basis of a price that is not actually listed. I just wanted to understand the options.
- 14 Priya: Of course. A useful ⁷ _____ depends on what you want to eat. The more expensive option is not automatically the better choice for you.
- 15 Jordan: Is coffee included with the dessert in that set? I sometimes see that elsewhere, but I cannot find it in this description.
- 16 Priya: Coffee is not part of the stated ⁸ _____ in the details we are comparing. I would check its price and status separately rather than tell you it is part of the set.
- 17 Jordan: Understood. For now, I only need the menu price of the two steak options and what each one includes. You have made that much clearer.
- 18 Priya: Then the ⁹ _____ is twenty-nine for steak, potatoes, and the included dessert, or twenty-seven for steak and potatoes without dessert.
- 19 Jordan: I will take another moment to decide about dessert. Please do not enter the set just because we have spent longer discussing it.
- 20 Priya: Certainly. I will wait for your ¹⁰ _____. When you are ready, tell me set or a la carte, and I will confirm the option before entering it.

Checking the bun before ordering

A Read the situation

03

Receive a reported allergy, ask the kitchen a precise question, and communicate unresolved ingredient and preparation information.

At table 6, guest Eli reports a sesame allergy and asks whether the burger bun is suitable. Server Noor has an old menu description, not current ingredient or cross-contact information. Kitchen lead Cam is available to discuss the question before any order is sent. The conversation does not supply a verified bun ingredient list, a confirmed preparation arrangement, or a safe alternative. Noor must preserve the reported allergen, check the current product and handling information through the real allergy procedure, and avoid replacing an unanswered question with reassurance.

1. Which first response is best?

- A Try a small bite first.
- B Thank you for telling me; I will check the current bun and handling information with Cam.
- C The bun looks plain, so it is safe.
- D Pick off any visible seeds.

2. Which distinction matters?

- A Receiving a question automatically resolves it.
- B Ingredients and cross-contact are separate questions.
- C A plain appearance proves no sesame.
- D An old menu is always current.

3. What does Cam's availability establish?

- A A kitchen lead can discuss the query.
- B The bun has been certified suitable.
- C No allergy flag is needed.
- D A different dish is automatically safe.

4. Which guest update is accurate?

- A Every dish is safe for every allergy.
- B The old description is enough.
- C A reaction has occurred even though none is reported.
- D I cannot confirm suitability yet; the current information is being checked.

- 02 Noor: Thank you for telling me. I will repeat the ¹ _____ when I speak with the kitchen: sesame. Is that correct, and is the bun the item you want me to check?
- 03 Eli: Yes, sesame, and I am asking about the bun first. I know some bread can contain it even without seeds on the surface.
- 04 Noor: I have only an old description here, not verified information for the ² _____. I will check with Cam, our kitchen lead, before sending an order.
- 05 Eli: Please include how it is handled, not just the ingredients. I would rather wait for an accurate answer than have someone tell me it is probably fine.
- 06 Noor: Of course. I will ask about the ingredients and ³ _____. I cannot confirm suitability from this description, and I will not put the order through while that question is unresolved.
- 07 Eli: Have you been able to pass that question to Cam? I would like to know it has reached the person checking the kitchen information.
- 08 Noor: Yes, Cam has received it. We need the current ⁴ _____ for today's bun. That check has not been completed, so the old description is not our answer.
- 09 Eli: And the preparation question is with Cam too? I would not want a confirmed list to be presented as confirmation of everything else.

- 13 Eli: Please do not prepare a different dish while you check, either. I have not chosen an alternative or asked for a substitution.
- 14 Noor: Understood. The ⁷ _____ remains in place. Any alternative would need its own appropriate checks and your agreement before we proceed.
- 15 Eli: When you return, could you make clear which information has actually been checked? I need to distinguish a progress update from a confirmed result.

- 19 Eli: That is fine. I will wait for the verified information before deciding. Please keep the sesame allergy attached to the discussion if someone else takes over.

Eight more minutes?

A Read the situation

Explain a kitchen estimate against a guest departure time without converting readiness into a guaranteed meal completion.

Table 14 has finished its starters. The mains were fired at 7:20. At 7:30, the kitchen estimates another eight minutes because one dish is still being prepared. The guests need to leave at 7:50. Server Tomas must explain the current estimate and offer a discussion about timing, while avoiding a promise that the mains will arrive exactly at 7:38 or that the guests can finish comfortably before departure. No cancellation, faster substitute, priority slot, or price adjustment has been approved in this case.

PEOPLE / Tomas: Server | Riley: Guest at table 14

TELL THE GUEST WHAT THE CLOCK ACTUALLY MEANS

Internal timing can sound like a promise when repeated without context. Translate preparation status into guest-facing language, acknowledge the departure constraint, and check realistic options. Do not hide uncertainty behind kitchen jargon or assume the guest has enough time to eat.

Briefing checks

Circle one answer in each item. Use the briefing.

1. When were the mains fired?

A 7:30

B 7:38 as a completed event

C 7:50

D 7:20

2. What is the current estimate at 7:30?

A Guaranteed departure at 7:38

B Another eight minutes

C Eight minutes total since 7:20

D Guaranteed service at 7:30

3. What is the guests' departure requirement?

A Arrive at 7:50

B Finish paying yesterday

Pasta ordered, risotto delivered

A Read the situation

Acknowledge an order mismatch, offer a specific remedy, and separate replacement timing from a bill-adjustment decision.

05

At table 3, guest Alex ordered vegetable pasta but received mushroom risotto. The ticket confirms vegetable pasta. Server Dana checks the mismatch and learns that the kitchen can remake the pasta with an estimated ten-minute wait. Dana may offer that replacement, but any bill adjustment requires shift lead review. The cause of the wrong delivery is not established. No allergy is reported. Alex has not accepted the remake at the start, and neither compensation nor a guaranteed ten-minute arrival has been approved.

PEOPLE / Alex: Guest at table 3 | Dana: Server

AN APOLOGY CAN BE DIRECT

Name the mismatch without making the guest prove an error already confirmed by the ticket. Take responsibility for the next step without guessing which colleague caused the problem. A sincere apology does not require inventing a free meal or a guaranteed preparation time.

B A pasta remake with an estimated ten-minute wait

D An automatic free meal

What does three ways mean?

A Read the situation

Clarify equal payments versus item-based checks, state the arithmetic, and confirm the method before processing payment.

Three diners have a fictional $72 bill, with all listed charges included. Guest Morgan asks to split it "three ways." The restaurant can arrange equal payments or separate checks by item before payment is processed. Server Jules must ask which method the diners mean. Equal shares would be $24 each; item-based shares cannot be calculated without the item allocation. No additional charge, tip decision, completed payment, or refund is supplied. Morgan later confirms that the group wants three equal payments, and Jules reads back that choice before processing.

PEOPLE / Morgan: Guest speaking for the group | Jules: Server

DO NOT MAKE THE SOCIAL DECISION FOR THE TABLE

Guests may use split loosely, while differing about who should pay for shared dishes. Clarify the method without judging fairness or announcing private assumptions about relationships. Keep the conversation practical and confirm amounts before a payment is submitted.

Briefing checks

1. What is the stated bill total?

A $72 with all listed charges included

B $72 plus an invented charge

C $24 for the entire table

D An unknown total

2. What does three ways need to clarify?

A Equal payments or separate checks by item

B Whether there are three diners at all

C Whether the meal happened yesterday

D Whether every diner ordered identical food

3. What is each equal share?

A $36

B $18

1. Which first question resolves the ambiguity?

- A Three ways always means three unequal checks, right?
- B Do you mean equal payments or separate checks by item?
- C You all ate exactly the same amount, correct?
- D Shall I charge the loudest guest everything?

2. Which arithmetic is correct for equal shares?

- A $72 divided by 3 is $36 each.
- B Three payments of $24 leave $24 unpaid.
- C Three payments of $72 equal the original bill.
- D $72 divided by 3 is $24 each.

3. What is needed to calculate item-based checks?

- A An agreed allocation of items and shared charges
- B Only the number of diners
- C A guessed tip amount
- D An assumption that all dishes cost the same

4. What does confirmation of three equal payments establish?

- A That every card has been charged
- B That a refund was issued
- C That all fees may be added again
- D The intended allocation, not completed payment

- 01 Morgan: Could we split this three ways, please? There are three of us, and we would like to sort it out before everyone starts reaching for a card.
- 02 Jules: Certainly. Do you mean three ¹ _____, or would you like separate checks according to what each person ordered? We can arrange either before payment.
- 03 Morgan: I had not realized the phrase could mean two things. What would the equal option be for the bill we have in front of us?
- 04 Jules: The ² _____ is seventy-two dollars. Divided equally among three people, that is twenty-four dollars each. Those three amounts add back to seventy-two.
- 05 Morgan: And if we pay for our own dishes instead, you would need us to tell you which items belong to which person, is that right?
- 06 Jules: Yes. That requires an ³ _____. We would also need your agreement about shared items rather than assume an equal division of those.
- 07 Morgan: We did share some food, so equal payments may be simpler for us. Let me confirm with the others before you enter anything.
- 08 Jules: Of course. The ⁴ _____ should be your group's choice. I will wait rather than treat our discussion as permission to process a payment.
- 09 Morgan: They have agreed. We want three equal payments, not separate bills based on individual dishes. Twenty-four each sounds right to us.

- 13 Morgan: The bill already shows its listed charges. We are not asking you to add those again when you divide it among the three of us.
- 14 Jules: Correct. The ⁷ _____ amounts are included in the stated total. I will not invent an additional fee or assume a tip choice from this request.
- 15 Morgan: Thank you. Can each person receive a record of the payment they actually make? That would help us keep our own records afterward.
- 16 Jules: We can provide the relevant ⁸ _____ through our payment process. It needs to reflect the payment that is actually completed, not just the split we have agreed.
- 17 Morgan: And while the payments are going through, you will track what has been paid so the last person is not charged the full bill again?
- 18 Jules: Yes. The ⁹ _____ must reflect the actual payments recorded. Three agreed amounts are not a substitute for checking which transactions have completed.
- 19 Morgan: Good. Then the arrangement is settled, but the payment itself is still to happen. We are ready for you to begin with the agreed amounts.
- 20 Jules: Exactly. We will obtain ¹⁰ _____ through the actual process. Three equal payments of twenty-four dollars is the instruction I am working from.

An empty plate still in use

A Read the situation

Check permission to clear specific items and coordinate shared service without inferring that an empty plate is finished.

At table 2, one diner has an empty plate, but the shared vegetable dish still contains food. The diner is using that plate for another portion. Server Mina and food runner Leo need to coordinate clearing. Extra sharing plates can be offered, but active items should remain unless the guest agrees otherwise. No request to end the meal or prepare the table for new guests has been made. The colleagues discuss the words Leo can use, then agree that he will ask what can be cleared rather than silently remove the plate.

1. Why is the empty plate still needed?

- A The table is being reset for new guests.
- B The plate is abandoned as an established fact.
- C The diner is using it for another portion.
- D The meal has definitely ended.

2. What remains in the shared dish?

- A Nothing at all
- B Vegetables
- C Only an empty serving vessel
- D A confirmed discarded meal

3. What may the team offer?

- A A bill adjustment already approved

Two tables, two unfinished tasks

A Read the situation

Give a concise table-by-table handover that separates meal stage, payment status, and an unresolved charge query.

At 8:00, outgoing server Ben hands tables 4 and 5 to Maya. Table 4 has received its mains, but dessert has not been ordered. Table 5 has an open check and a pending query about a possible duplicate coffee charge. The shift lead is reviewing that query; no duplicate has yet been confirmed and no adjustment is approved. Ben needs Maya to accept both follow-ups explicitly. The handover does not establish a dessert order, a settled bill, or a resolved coffee issue. Maya agrees to take responsibility for the next guest-facing steps.

"The shift lead is reviewing the charge query."

08

Has its mains

Describes delivery, not the next course choice.

Has not been ordered

Prevents a future possibility from becoming a recorded order.

Possible duplicate

Preserves the uncertainty under review.

Phrases you can actually use

C Notice the language / 2 of 2

AVOID FALSE COMPENSATION

"No adjustment has been approved yet."

READ BACK TABLE 4

"I will follow up dessert without treating it as already ordered."

KEEP PAYMENT SEPARATE

"The check remains open until the actual payment process is completed."

AVOID A FALSE CLOSURE

"The issue is not resolved just because the section changes hands."

ASK FOR ACCEPTANCE

PRESERVE THE RECORD

"Keep the unresolved query visible in the handover notes."

CLOSE WITH OWNERSHIP

"Maya has accepted both guest-facing follow-ups; the shift lead retains the charge review."

08

Is reviewing

Marks an active process, not a completed decision.

Can you take

Requests explicit ownership rather than assuming it.

Remains open

Keeps the payment state tied to actual events.

Choose the precise message

D Check your understanding

Circle one best answer for each item. Use the stated purpose and case facts, not the option that merely sounds most polite.

1. Which handover for table 4 is correct?

- A Mains still need ordering
- B The table has left and paid
- C Mains served; dessert not ordered; follow up the dessert choice.
- D Dessert already entered for everyone

2. Which coffee description is justified?

- A A completed refund
- B An error already removed from every record
- C A possible duplicate charge under shift-lead review
- D A confirmed fraudulent charge

3. Which ownership arrangement is clear?

- A Ben's departure automatically closes the query.
- B Maya announces approval before receiving a decision.
- C Maya accepts guest follow-up while the shift lead reviews the charge.
- D Everyone assumes someone else will handle it.

4. What must precede calling table 5's check closed?

- A The actual relevant payment and closure process
- B Merely changing servers
- C Writing possible duplicate in a note
- D Assuming dessert is unnecessary

08

- 01 Ben: Maya, it is eight o'clock. I need to hand over tables four and five before I leave the section. Each has a different follow-up still open.
- 02 Maya: I am ready for the ¹ _____. Please give me the current stage and unfinished request for each table so I can take them on clearly.
- 03 Ben: Table four has received its mains. Dessert has not been ordered, so please check their choice when it is appropriate in the service.
- 04 Maya: Understood: ² _____, dessert not ordered. I will not enter desserts on the assumption that your mention of them means the guests have already chosen.
- 05 Ben: Correct. There is no dessert selection for me to pass over. The follow-up is to ask, not to chase a dish that has already been sent.
- 06 Maya: I will handle the ³ _____ with table four. That is the first task I am accepting. What is happening at table five?
- 07 Ben: Table five still has an open check. They asked about what may be a duplicate coffee charge, and the shift lead is reviewing that question.
- 08 Maya: So the ⁴ _____ has a live query attached. I should not treat the bill as settled or the coffee line as already corrected.
- 09 Ben: Exactly. I have not been given a review result, and no bill adjustment has been approved. The guest needs an accurate update once there is a decision.
- 10 Maya: I will preserve the wording ⁵ _____. I will not tell them the charge is definitely wrong simply because a query has been raised.

The conversation, continued

E Conversations / turns 11-20

Continue with the word bank on page 73.

- 11 Ben: Thank you. The shift lead owns the charge review. I need you to keep the guest communication moving, rather than leave the table waiting because I have gone.
- 12 Maya: I can be the ⁶ _____ for that follow-up. The shift lead makes the relevant decision; I track it and explain the actual outcome to the guests.
- 13 Ben: That is the distinction. Please keep the unresolved question visible in the notes as well, so it does not disappear when the section assignment changes.
- 14 Maya: I will retain the ⁷ _____ and the current status. A change of server should not make a pending charge question look like routine payment completed.
- 15 Ben: Can you read back both tasks once more? I want to be sure I have not mixed the table numbers while we are moving between them.
- 16 Maya: My ⁸ _____ is table four: follow up the dessert choice. Table five: track the shift-lead coffee review and give the guests the actual update.
- 17 Ben: Yes. Neither task is finished yet, and table five remains open. We should not record an adjustment or a payment event before it happens.
- 18 Maya: Agreed. Any ⁹ _____ will reflect what actually occurs. Accepted follow-up is not the same as completed service, approved adjustment, or settled payment.
- 19 Ben: Good. You have both follow-ups, and the shift lead still has the charge decision. That gives each next step a clear person to contact.
- 20 Maya: Yes, I accept both. I will maintain ¹⁰ _____ for the two tables, check the pending decision, and keep the records aligned with what the guests are actually told.

Read both roles, pausing for two seconds when the speaker changes. Repeat with the bank covered, then check any missed expressions.

01 Briefing and language checks

Confirming seats and order details

A Briefing checks / page 4

1. Which seat has not chosen?

C. Seat three

The brief explicitly leaves seat three's dish undecided.

2. Which request already belongs to the salad?

B. Dressing separately

Seat two requested salad with the dressing served separately.

3. What should Lena clarify before sending?

D. Which dish should have no onions

The onion request has no clear dish or seat reference when first heard.

D Language checks / page 9

1. Which clarification is most useful?

A. Which dish should have no onions?

The question asks for the missing dish reference without blame or unsupported changes.

2. What should be sent as the salad modifier after Sam confirms?

D. No onions, dressing on the side

Sam confirms the onion request for the salad, which already has separate dressing.

3. Which statement preserves the pending choice?

D. Seat three is still deciding.

The brief leaves the third choice open rather than establishing a dish or cancellation.

4. What does the onion request establish medically?

A. No allergy diagnosis or report by itself

A requested omission alone does not supply an allergy report or a safety conclusion.

01 Conversation answers

Confirming seats and order details

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 10-11

1. modifier. Turn 2. The modifier changes the salad order; Sam identifies which dish the no-onions instruction belongs to.

2. on the side. Turn 4. On the side is the usual serving phrase for dressing provided separately rather than mixed into the salad.

3. pending choice. Turn 6. A pending choice has not been made; it is not a cancellation or permission to invent a dish.

4. read-back. Turn 8. A read-back repeats recorded details aloud so the guest can correct an error before the order is sent.

5. seat reference. Turn 10. The seat reference links the salad and its two requests to seat two, keeping the pasta unchanged.

6. order ticket. Turn 12. The order ticket carries preparation details to the kitchen, so the dish and its modifiers must remain linked.

7. covers. Turn 14. Covers counts diners; three covers does not mean that three main-course choices have already been confirmed.

8. omission. Turn 16. An omission is a requested removal; here it means leaving onions out of the salad, without an allergy report.

9. confirmation. Turn 18. Confirmation establishes that the repeated order details are correct; it should include the actual third choice when made.

10. send the order. Turn 20. Send the order means transmit the confirmed details; Sam asks Lena to check the remaining choice before doing so.

1. fish

Server: "The lemon request belongs to the fish."

The clarification specifically attaches the separate lemon to the grilled fish.

2. two

Guest: "That is seat two."

The guest ordering grilled fish is in seat two.

3. unchanged

Server: "The tomato soup remains unchanged."

No modification to the soup is supplied in the facts.

4. covers

Guest: "There are two covers."

Covers counts diners, and this table has two diners.

02 Briefing and language checks

Explaining menu choices and prices

A Briefing checks / page 13

1. What is the steak set price?

D. $29

The $24 base plus the $5 steak supplement equals $29.

2. Which item is included in both steak options?

B. Potatoes

Both the steak set and a la carte steak include potatoes.

3. What is not supplied?

D. A separate dessert price

The case gives the set comparison, not a standalone dessert price.

D Language checks / page 18

1. Which calculation is correct?

B. $24 + $5 = $29 for the steak set

The supplement is added to the set base, not to the a la carte price.

2. Which comparison is complete?

D. $29 with dessert versus $27 without dessert; both include potatoes.

This comparison gives the actual prices and distinguishes shared and different inclusions.

3. What cannot be inferred from the two-dollar difference?

B. The restaurant's standalone dessert price is $2.

A difference between bundled offers does not establish the separate selling price of a component.

4. Which recommendation avoids pressure?

B. If you want dessert, the set includes it for two dollars more than steak alone.

The recommendation uses the supplied price and inclusion difference without inventing benefits or removing choice.

02 Conversation answers

Explaining menu choices and prices

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 19-20

- 1. base price. Turn 2. The base price is the set's starting amount before the listed five-dollar steak supplement is added.
- 2. supplement. Turn 4. A supplement is an addition to the stated base, not a replacement price or the cost of the whole dish.
- 3. a la carte. Turn 6. A la carte identifies an individual menu item rather than the main-and-dessert set being compared.
- 4. inclusion. Turn 8. An inclusion is covered by the quoted option; potatoes are included in both steak choices in this menu.
- 5. price difference. Turn 10. The price difference is twenty-nine minus twenty-seven, or two dollars between these two specific options.
- 6. standalone price. Turn 12. The standalone price applies to a dessert bought separately; the two-dollar bundle difference does not establish it.
- 7. value comparison. Turn 14. A value comparison considers both price and inclusions, allowing the guest to decide whether the dessert matters.
- 8. main-and-dessert set. Turn 16. The main-and-dessert set names the included courses; coffee is not supplied as an inclusion in this comparison.
- 9. price basis. Turn 18. The price basis specifies what each quoted amount covers, avoiding unsupported claims about other items or charges.
- 10. guest choice. Turn 20. The guest choice must be confirmed explicitly; discussing an option at length does not authorize ordering it.

F Transfer conversation

Page 21

1. twenty-four

Server: "The fish set costs twenty-four dollars."

Twenty dollars plus the four-dollar supplement equals twenty-four dollars.

2. twenty-two

Guest: "Fish alone is twenty-two dollars."

The stated a la carte price is twenty-two dollars without dessert.

3. rice

Server: "Both options include rice."

Rice is included in both options under the supplied menu.

4. unspecified

Guest: "The separate dessert price is unspecified."

The bundle comparison does not supply a standalone dessert price.

03 Briefing and language checks

Receiving an allergy question

A Briefing checks / page 22

1. Which allergen does Eli report?

D. Sesame

Eli explicitly reports a sesame allergy in the brief.

2. What information does Noor hold?

A. An old menu description

The available description is old and does not establish current ingredients or handling.

3. Who is available before an order is sent?

D. Kitchen lead Cam

Cam is identified as available to discuss the allergy question.

D Language checks / page 27

1. Which first response is best?

B. Thank you for telling me; I will check the current bun and handling information with Cam.

The response acknowledges the allergy and directs the unresolved questions to current product and preparation checks.

2. Which distinction matters?

B. Ingredients and cross-contact are separate questions.

A product's intended ingredients do not alone answer how unintended allergen contact is managed.

3. What does Cam's availability establish?

A. A kitchen lead can discuss the query.

Availability provides a responsible contact, not a completed product or preparation assessment.

4. Which guest update is accurate?

D. I cannot confirm suitability yet; the current information is being checked.

The update preserves the unresolved status without offering a false guarantee or inventing a clinical event.

03 Conversation answers

Receiving an allergy question

03

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 28-29

1. reported allergen. Turn 2. The reported allergen is sesame, which must be communicated accurately rather than replaced by a vague dietary note.

2. current product. Turn 4. The current product is the bun actually used today; an old description cannot establish its present ingredients.

3. cross-contact. Turn 6. Cross-contact concerns unintended allergen introduction, which is not answered solely by the bun's intended ingredient list.

4. ingredient list. Turn 8. The ingredient list must match the actual bun in use, rather than an older menu or another supplied product.

5. handling information. Turn 10. Handling information covers preparation and service conditions, making it distinct from the list of intentional ingredients.

6. product specification. Turn 12. The product specification describes the supplied item; visual appearance alone is not equivalent to verified product information.

7. order hold. Turn 14. The order hold prevents this unresolved allergy query from being treated as an ordinary confirmed order ready for preparation.

8. ingredient verification. Turn 16. Ingredient verification is the actual check of the relevant product; receiving the question does not mean that check is complete.

9. alternative dish. Turn 18. An alternative dish is a separate option requiring appropriate checks, not an automatically safe replacement for the bun.

10. allergy flag. Turn 20. The allergy flag preserves the reported sesame allergy with the relevant order and handoff; it does not itself certify suitability.

F Transfer conversation

1. peanut

Server: "The reported allergen is peanut."

Alex reports peanut, which must be repeated without changing the allergen.

2. sauce

Colleague: "The product being questioned is the sauce."

The inquiry concerns the sauce, not an invented bread or dessert.

3. Imani

Server: "The receiving kitchen lead is Imani."

Imani explicitly accepts the query as the named kitchen lead.

4. confirmed

Colleague: "Suitability is not yet confirmed."

Neither current ingredients nor handling has been verified in this exchange.

04 Briefing and language checks

Coordinating courses and delays

A Briefing checks / page 31

1. When were the mains fired?

D. 7:20

The kitchen began the relevant preparation stage at the stated 7:20 time.

2. What is the current estimate at 7:30?

B. Another eight minutes

The estimate is eight additional minutes from the 7:30 update.

3. What is the guests' departure requirement?

C. Leave at 7:50

The guests explicitly need to leave at 7:50.

D Language checks / page 36

1. Which timing explanation is accurate?

B. At 7:30 the kitchen estimates eight more minutes, pointing to around 7:38.

The explanation anchors the additional eight minutes to the current update and retains uncertainty.

2. What does 7:50 minus 7:38 establish?

D. A twelve-minute clock interval, not guaranteed dining time

Arithmetic alone does not establish delivery, eating, payment, or a comfortable departure.

3. Which offer stays within the facts?

A. I can discuss the timing options with you and the kitchen.

A timing discussion is available without inventing an approved operational or financial change.

4. Which phrase needs translation for a guest?

B. Your mains were fired at 7:20.

Fired is internal kitchen shorthand and may need a plain-language explanation of the preparation stage.

04 Conversation answers

Coordinating courses and delays

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 37-38

- 1. readiness estimate. Turn 2. The readiness estimate is provisional information about food readiness, not a promise that the whole meal will finish on time.
- 2. remaining time. Turn 4. Remaining time means additional time from the seven-thirty update, not total time since preparation began.
- 3. fired time. Turn 6. The fired time records the preparation instruction at seven twenty; it is distinct from the later readiness estimate.
- 4. departure deadline. Turn 8. The departure deadline is seven fifty, which must be considered separately from preparation or service estimates.
- 5. rush request. Turn 10. A rush request asks for acceleration; it does not establish accepted priority or a faster confirmed completion time.
- 6. timing discussion. Turn 12. A timing discussion explores feasible options without claiming that a substitute or cancellation has already been approved.
- 7. table update. Turn 14. A table update should communicate the actual order status and options, not repeat reassurance unsupported by the kitchen.
- 8. Pickup. Turn 16. Pickup is the kitchen-to-service handoff, which remains distinct from delivery to the table and completion of the meal.
- 9. timing constraint. Turn 18. The timing constraint remains the guests' seven-fifty departure; an uncertain kitchen estimate does not remove it.
- 10. completion promise. Turn 20. A completion promise would commit to a finished outcome; the available estimate does not justify such a guarantee.

F Transfer conversation

Page 39

1. 8:10

Server: "The estimate starts from 8:10."

The additional six minutes is anchored to the 8:10 update.

2. 8:16

Guest: "That points to around 8:16."

Adding six minutes to 8:10 produces the approximate 8:16 time.

3. 8:30

Server: "Your departure requirement is 8:30."

The supplied deadline is departure at 8:30, not food readiness.

4. unconfirmed

Guest: "A faster alternative remains unconfirmed."

No quicker option has been confirmed in this scenario.

05 Briefing and language checks

Correcting a dish without blame

A Briefing checks / page 40

1. What does the ticket confirm?

B. Vegetable pasta

The ticket supports the guest's vegetable-pasta order rather than the dish delivered.

2. What replacement can Dana offer?

B. A pasta remake with an estimated ten-minute wait

The kitchen offers the pasta remake, with its timing stated as an estimate.

3. Who must review a bill adjustment?

B. The shift lead

The case assigns bill-adjustment review to the shift lead.

D Language checks / page 45

1. Which apology fits the facts?

A. I am sorry; the ticket confirms pasta, but we brought risotto.

The apology acknowledges the confirmed mismatch without blaming the guest or inventing a cause.

2. Which offer is authorized?

D. A pasta remake with an estimated ten-minute wait

Dana may offer the remake, while timing remains estimated and billing requires review.

3. Which statement keeps the financial decision accurate?

A. I will ask the shift lead to review the bill question.

The supplied authority covers referral for review, not a completed adjustment or universal rule.

4. When can the issue be described as fully resolved?

C. After the relevant agreed actions are actually completed and checked

An apology and offer are steps toward resolution, not evidence that the correction and related decisions are complete.

05 Conversation answers

Correcting a dish without blame

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 46-47

- 1. order mismatch. Turn 2. The order mismatch is the confirmed difference between vegetable pasta ordered and mushroom risotto delivered.
- 2. remake. Turn 4. A remake is a newly prepared corrected dish; here the available option is the originally ordered vegetable pasta.
- 3. estimated wait. Turn 6. An estimated wait is approximate, so Dana must not turn it into a guaranteed exact arrival time.
- 4. bill adjustment. Turn 8. A bill adjustment is a separate financial decision that the shift lead must review under the supplied authority.
- 5. comp. Turn 10. A comp means an item provided without charge under authorization; the available remake offer does not establish that approval.
- 6. cause. Turn 12. The cause of the wrong delivery is not supplied; a correct ticket does not identify which person or stage caused the error.
- 7. follow-up check. Turn 14. A follow-up check verifies that the agreed correction actually occurs, including delivery of the correct dish to the guest.
- 8. acceptance. Turn 16. Acceptance is the guest's agreement to the proposed remedy; Alex explicitly has not given it yet.
- 9. shift lead. Turn 18. The shift lead is the named role responsible for reviewing a bill adjustment, distinct from Dana's replacement-offer authority.
- 10. resolution status. Turn 20. Resolution status tracks actual agreement and completion; the current state is an offer and pending bill review, not closure.

Server: "The ticket confirms lentil soup."

Lentil is the ordered soup confirmed by the ticket.

2. tomato

Guest: "The delivered soup was tomato."

Tomato is the soup actually delivered in this scenario.

3. seven

Server: "The estimated remake wait is seven minutes."

Seven minutes is the stated estimate, not a guaranteed arrival time.

4. Noor

Guest: "The bill question goes to Noor."

Noor is named as the lead responsible for reviewing an adjustment.

06 Briefing and language checks

Explaining and splitting a bill

A Briefing checks / page 49

1. What is the stated bill total?

A. $72 with all listed charges included

The scenario supplies a seventy-two-dollar total with its listed charges already included.

2. What does three ways need to clarify?

A. Equal payments or separate checks by item

The phrase can refer to different allocation methods even with three diners.

3. What is each equal share?

D. $24

Seventy-two divided by three equals twenty-four dollars per equal share.

D Language checks / page 54

1. Which first question resolves the ambiguity?

B. Do you mean equal payments or separate checks by item?

The question presents the two supported methods without guessing the group's intention.

2. Which arithmetic is correct for equal shares?

D. $72 divided by 3 is $24 each.

Three times twenty-four equals the full seventy-two-dollar total.

3. What is needed to calculate item-based checks?

A. An agreed allocation of items and shared charges

Item-based amounts depend on who is assigned each charge, not simply the diner count.

4. What does confirmation of three equal payments establish?

D. The intended allocation, not completed payment

Agreeing the method precedes processing and does not prove that any payment has been completed.

06 Conversation answers

Explaining and splitting a bill

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 55-56

- 1. equal shares. Turn 2. Equal shares divide the total into the same amount for each diner, unlike separate checks based on individual items.
- 2. bill total. Turn 4. The bill total is the stated seventy-two dollars, including all listed charges in this fictional scenario.
- 3. item allocation. Turn 6. Item allocation assigns charges to the relevant diners; their amounts cannot be calculated from the diner count alone.
- 4. allocation method. Turn 8. The allocation method is the group's agreed way of dividing the bill, which the server should not choose for them.
- 5. split payment. Turn 10. The split payment applies three agreed twenty-four-dollar payments to one seventy-two-dollar bill; it does not change the total.
- 6. card terminal. Turn 12. The card terminal displays the payment being submitted; checking its amount helps prevent an incorrect full-bill charge.
- 7. listed charge. Turn 14. A listed charge is already part of the supplied total; splitting the payment does not justify charging it a second time.
- 8. payment receipt. Turn 16. A payment receipt records an actual transaction; it should not be represented as proof of payment before processing occurs.
- 9. outstanding balance. Turn 18. The outstanding balance is what remains unpaid after actual recorded payments, not an amount inferred solely from the agreed split.
- 10. payment confirmation. Turn 20. Payment confirmation establishes the relevant completed transaction status, which remains separate from agreeing a payment plan.

F Transfer conversation

Page 57

1. equal

Server: "You have chosen equal payments."

The diners explicitly choose equal payments rather than item-based checks.

2. twenty-four

Guest: "Each share is twenty-four dollars."

Ninety-six divided by four equals twenty-four dollars per diner.

3. ninety-six

Server: "The full total remains ninety-six dollars."

Changing the allocation does not change the stated ninety-six-dollar total.

4. processed

Guest: "The payments are not yet processed."

The scenario confirms the method but supplies no completed payment.

07 Briefing and language checks

Agreeing on clearing and shared service

A Briefing checks / page 58

1. Why is the empty plate still needed?

C. The diner is using it for another portion.

The brief states that the diner will use the plate for more shared food.

2. What remains in the shared dish?

B. Vegetables

The shared vegetable dish still contains food in this case.

3. What may the team offer?

B. Extra sharing plates

Extra sharing plates are available to offer, while clearing still needs clarification.

D Language checks / page 63

1. Which question is most appropriate?

D. May I clear this plate, or are you still using it?

The question checks the actual plate and allows the diner to keep using it.

2. What does the empty plate establish?

B. Its current contents, not that it is no longer needed

The plate is empty but remains in use for another portion.

3. Which instruction should Mina give Leo?

C. Leave the active plate and ask what may be cleared.

The instruction preserves active items while allowing a specific clearing-permission check.

4. How should cultural differences be handled?

D. Ask the individual table about its preference.

A direct, respectful question establishes the actual preference without relying on group stereotypes.

07 Conversation answers

Agreeing on clearing and shared service

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 64-65

1. active item. Turn 2. The active item is the empty plate still needed for another portion; its empty surface does not make it finished.

2. service cue. Turn 4. A service cue may suggest a need, but the empty plate is ambiguous and requires checking with the guest.

3. clearing permission. Turn 6. Clearing permission is the guest's agreement to remove the specific item, which should be obtained before taking it.

4. guest preference. Turn 8. The guest preference is the actual table's request, not a rule inferred from nationality or an empty plate.

5. sharing plate. Turn 10. A sharing plate can help guests take portions from a shared dish, but the extra item remains an offer.

6. shared dish. Turn 12. The shared dish still contains vegetables for continued service, so one empty individual plate does not establish permission to remove it.

7. finished item. Turn 14. A finished item can be removed with appropriate agreement without treating the entire table as finished with the meal.

8. table reset. Turn 16. A table reset prepares the setting for new guests; clearing one agreed item during a meal is a different stage.

9. meal pace. Turn 18. Meal pace is the guests' eating rhythm, which the team can respect by checking needs instead of rushing active items away.

10. Unobtrusive service. Turn 20. Unobtrusive service meets the real need with minimal disruption, combining a specific question with respectful follow-through.

F Transfer conversation

1. needed

Server: "The empty plate is still needed."

The diner needs the plate for another portion of shared dessert.

2. dessert

Colleague: "The shared dish contains dessert."

The remaining food in the supplied shared dish is dessert.

3. offered

Server: "Extra small plates can be offered."

The plates are an available offer, not an automatic addition.

4. given

Colleague: "Clearing permission has not been given."

The scenario supplies no guest permission to remove the active plate.

08 Briefing and language checks

Handing over a live section

A Briefing checks / page 67

1. What is table 4's meal stage?

C. Mains served; dessert not ordered

The brief states that the mains are served while dessert remains unchosen.

2. What is table 5's check status?

B. Open

Table 5 has an open check while the coffee query remains under review.

3. Who is reviewing the possible duplicate coffee charge?

C. The shift lead

The shift lead is already reviewing the query, but no result is supplied.

D Language checks / page 72

1. Which handover for table 4 is correct?

C. Mains served; dessert not ordered; follow up the dessert choice.

The message preserves the known meal stage and identifies the unfinished dessert follow-up.

2. Which coffee description is justified?

C. A possible duplicate charge under shift-lead review

The brief supplies a pending query, not a confirmed error, motive, or adjustment.

3. Which ownership arrangement is clear?

C. Maya accepts guest follow-up while the shift lead reviews the charge.

The arrangement distinguishes guest communication from the decision authority and gives both work streams an owner.

4. What must precede calling table 5's check closed?

A. The actual relevant payment and closure process

A staffing handover does not establish that the bill has been paid or closed.

E Dialogue gaps

Pages 73-74

- 1. handover. Turn 2. The handover transfers relevant table information and accepted responsibility, not just a list of numbers.
- 2. mains served. Turn 4. Mains served means the main dishes have reached table four; it does not establish that dessert has been ordered.
- 3. dessert decision. Turn 6. The dessert decision is the guest's pending choice; the incoming server should ask rather than treat it as an existing order.
- 4. open check. Turn 8. The open check remains unsettled in the relevant process; the handover does not supply payment or closure.
- 5. suspected duplicate. Turn 10. A suspected duplicate is a possible repeated charge under review, not a confirmed error or approved adjustment.
- 6. service owner. Turn 12. The service owner takes responsibility for guest-facing follow-up while the shift lead remains responsible for the charge decision.
- 7. exception note. Turn 14. The exception note preserves the unusual unresolved coffee query alongside the table's ordinary service and payment status.
- 8. read-back confirmation. Turn 16. Read-back confirmation checks that the receiving server has matched each table with the correct unfinished task.
- 9. status change. Turn 18. A status change must reflect an actual new event or decision, not an assumption caused by the handover.
- 10. continuity of service. Turn 20. Continuity of service keeps guest needs attended to across the staffing change without losing unresolved work.

1. dessert

Outgoing server: "Table 8 needs a dessert follow-up."

Dessert is not ordered, so Noor needs to check that choice.

2. open

Incoming server: "Table 9's check remains open."

No payment or closure is established for table nine.

3. tea

Outgoing server: "The queried item is tea."

The possible duplicate concerns tea rather than an invented coffee charge.

4. Noor

Incoming server: "The receiving server is Noor."

Noor explicitly accepts both follow-ups in this handover.

Find the move you need

Use these as precise language models. Replace details only when you know the actual facts, authority, and agreed conditions.

01 Confirming seats and order details

Clarify the dish: Which dish should have no onions?

Read back seat two: Seat two is the salad with dressing on the side.

Ask briefly: May I check one detail before I send this?

Full phrase set: pages 7-8 | Dialogue: pages 10-11

02 Explaining menu choices and prices

Introduce the set: The lunch set includes a main and dessert.

Give the combined price: That makes the steak set $29.

Calculate the difference: The set is two dollars more than steak alone.

Full phrase set: pages 16-17 | Dialogue: pages 19-20

03 Receiving an allergy question

Acknowledge the disclosure: Thank you for telling me about the sesame allergy.

Pause the order: I will check before sending an order.

Include handling: We also need the relevant cross-contact information.

Full phrase set: pages 25-26 | Dialogue: pages 28-29

04 Coordinating courses and delays

Acknowledge the wait: I am sorry your mains are taking longer than you expected.

Translate the estimate: That points to around 7:38, not a guaranteed service time.

Separate stages: Kitchen readiness and arrival at the table are different stages.

Full phrase set: pages 34-35 | Dialogue: pages 37-38

Keep the conversation productive

Use these as precise language models. Replace details only when you know the actual facts, authority, and agreed conditions.

05 Correcting a dish without blame

Acknowledge the mismatch: You ordered vegetable pasta, and we brought mushroom risotto.

Avoid blaming the guest: You do not need to explain the order again.

Keep timing honest: I cannot guarantee an exact arrival time.

Full phrase set: pages 43-44 | Dialogue: pages 46-47

06 Explaining and splitting a bill

Clarify the request: Do you mean three equal payments or separate checks by item?

Explain the other method: For item-based checks, I need to know which items belong to each person.

Confirm the selected method: You would like three equal payments, correct?

Full phrase set: pages 52-53 | Dialogue: pages 55-56

07 Agreeing on clearing and shared service

Ask about an item: May I clear this plate, or are you still using it?

Offer practical help: Would extra sharing plates be useful?

Keep the question narrow: Ask about the specific item rather than the whole meal.

Full phrase set: pages 61-62 | Dialogue: pages 64-65

08 Handing over a live section

Open the transfer: It is 8:00, and I am handing over tables 4 and 5.

Name the first follow-up: Please check whether table 4 wants dessert.

Name the decision owner: The shift lead is reviewing the charge query.

Full phrase set: pages 70-71 | Dialogue: pages 73-74
