Its or it's? Belonging or a contraction

Teaching guide

Choose its for belonging and it's for it is or it has by identifying the job the words do.

Understand the distinction

Its is the possessive form of the personal pronoun it. It goes before a noun to show belonging or a connection: 'The robot raised its arm.' Here its arm means the robot's arm. Personal-pronoun forms such as his, hers, ours, and its already express possession; standard English writes them without an apostrophe. A noun such as robot forms its possessive differently: the robot's arm.

It's is a contraction: two words shortened into one. The apostrophe marks omitted letters. 'It's ready' means 'It is ready'; 'It's finished the job' means 'It has finished the job.' In the second example, has helps form the present perfect. The spelling it's does not itself express possession, even though an apostrophe can mark possession in a noun such as robot's.

Check the meaning by expanding it's to it is or it has in the complete sentence. If one expansion fits, use it's. If neither fits and the word means belonging to or connected with it, use its: 'The museum changed its opening hours.' Sound cannot settle the choice because its and it's sound alike. Some contractions are ambiguous without context: 'It's finished' can mean it is finished or it has finished. The full sentence helps you choose the meaning.

Compare the patterns

ITS: BELONGING OR CONNECTION

The robot raised its arm.

Its arm means the robot's arm. Its is already the possessive personal-pronoun form, like his; it needs no apostrophe.

IT'S: IT IS

It's ready for the next task.

Expand the contraction: It is ready for the next task. The apostrophe marks the missing letter in is.

IT'S: IT HAS

It's finished the job.

Expand the contraction: It has finished the job. Has is the helping verb in the present perfect; the apostrophe marks omitted letters.

Read each example and notice how its form changes the meaning. Use these distinctions to choose your answers on the following pages.

Check your understanding

Circle one answer for each question. There is one correct choice among the options shown. Check the answer key after choosing.

1. The arm belongs to the robot. Complete: 'The robot moved ___ arm.'

A. it's

B. its

C. its'

2. Replace 'It is' with its contraction: 'It is ready for testing.'

A. It's ready for testing.

B. Its ready for testing.

C. Its' ready for testing.

3. What does it's mean in 'It's completed three tasks today'?

A. belonging to it

B. it is

C. it has

Choose the best response

Choose the response that fits the situation. Check both its meaning and its grammar.

4. A machine has finished its work, and a light belonging to the machine is green. Choose the sentence with both forms correct.

A. Its finished the job, and it's light is green.

B. It's finished the job, and its light is green.

C. It's finished the job, and it's light is green.

Review your choices

Use the answer explanations on the next page. If you chose a different answer, find the detail that makes it unsuitable and try the question again.

Practice online

The web lesson gives feedback for the option you select and lets you try again. No written response is required.

Answers and explanation

1. B. its

Its arm means the robot's arm. Like his, its is already a possessive form and takes no apostrophe.

A: It is arm and it has arm do not fit this sentence. You need the possessive form its to connect the arm to the robot.

C: Its is a possessive personal-pronoun form, not a plural noun needing an apostrophe. Write its arm.

2. A. It's ready for testing.

It's contracts it is. The apostrophe marks the omitted letter; this sentence describes the robot's state.

B: Its shows belonging before a noun. This sentence needs it is, so use the contraction it's.

C: An apostrophe after the s does not form this contraction. It is becomes it's.

3. C. it has

It has completed three tasks today is the full sentence. Has is the helping verb in the present perfect, and it's shortens it has.

A: The sentence describes what has been completed; it does not put a possessive form before a noun. It's expands to it has.

B: It is completed three tasks today does not fit. Completed has the object three tasks here, so the full verb phrase is has completed.

4. B. It's finished the job, and its light is green.

It's finished expands to it has finished. Its light identifies the light belonging to the machine; that possessive form takes no apostrophe.

A: The first part needs it has finished, so write it's. The second refers to the machine's light, so write its light.

C: The first it's correctly means it has. In the second part, it is light and it has light do not fit the intended meaning. Use its light for the machine's light.

A practical teaching sequence

1. Notice (2 minutes)

Read the comparison examples with the learners. Point out the meaning and form that distinguish each pattern.

2. Choose (4 minutes)

Learners select one option for each of the three checks. Keep the answer key covered. Use the selected option's explanation rather than presenting a generic model as feedback.

3. Apply (5 minutes)

A machine has finished its work, and a light belonging to the machine is green. Choose the sentence with both forms correct.

Learners choose the response that fits this situation. All responses in this activity are multiple choice; do not replace the choices with a written-answer task.

4. Review (3 minutes)

Compare selected options with the key. Use the option-specific notes to explain why a distractor does not fit. Let learners change their selection and try again.

Scope of the answer key

Each question has one correct option among the choices shown. This does not mean that every other way to express the idea is wrong. Preserve the qualifications in the teaching notes.

Feedback criteria

Check both grammatical form and the stated situation. A correct option answers this question; four correct choices do not certify a learner's overall proficiency.

You are my patient English practice tutor. Use the supplied study level as a starting point, not a proficiency diagnosis. Keep explanations brief and use familiar words. Define any necessary grammar term. Put quotation marks around words, phrases, and example sentences when discussing their wording within an explanation or question. Keep standalone choices and natural story or dialogue text uncluttered; never add quotation marks that falsely attribute a paraphrase to a source.

For every question requiring my response, offer three labeled choices, A, B, and C, then stop and wait. Do not ask for typed sentences, personal details, or an open-ended answer. Give one question at a time. Keep the answer and explanation hidden until I choose. Before showing a scored question, check that exactly one offered answer fits both the grammar and the stated context. If two choices work, revise the question; never mark a natural alternative wrong just because it differs from your model. Vary the correct letter.

Accept a choice letter or the quoted option. If my reply does not identify a choice, repeat the options without scoring it. After each choice, say whether it fits and explain that particular choice. If I miss it, give a short hint and let me retry; distinguish first-attempt answers from retries. Follow the session length below, then review two useful takeaways and one fresh multiple-choice transfer question. Do not convert this practice into a level certificate.

SESSION
Prepare a 15-minute extension for this lesson: two minutes noticing an example, three minutes guided comparison, six minutes of branching dialogue choices, and four minutes reviewing why options fit. Supply a simpler version with shorter sentences and a harder version with less scaffolding, while preserving the same facts and target distinction. Keep every student answer multiple choice. Provide a small bank of six original questions with exactly one correct option each, realistic distractors, and explanations for all options. Keep a teacher-only answer key after the student material. For feedback, distinguish a meaning problem from a grammar problem and accept alternative natural expressions in discussion. This is a materials-preparation task, so produce the complete teacher plan and student bank now; the one-question-at-a-time rule applies when running it with a learner.

LESSON MATERIAL

Lesson: Its or it's? Belonging or a contraction

Study level: A2-B1

Goal: Choose its for belonging and it's for it is or it has by identifying the job the words do.

Grammar focus:
- Its is the possessive form of the personal pronoun it. It goes before a noun to show belonging or a connection: 'The robot raised its arm.' Here its arm means the robot's arm. Personal-pronoun forms such as his, hers, ours, and its already express possession; standard English writes them without an apostrophe. A noun such as robot forms its possessive differently: the robot's arm.
- It's is a contraction: two words shortened into one. The apostrophe marks omitted letters. 'It's ready' means 'It is ready'; 'It's finished the job' means 'It has finished the job.' In the second example, has helps form the present perfect. The spelling it's does not itself express possession, even though an apostrophe can mark possession in a noun such as robot's.
- Check the meaning by expanding it's to it is or it has in the complete sentence. If one expansion fits, use it's. If neither fits and the word means belonging to or connected with it, use its: 'The museum changed its opening hours.' Sound cannot settle the choice because its and it's sound alike. Some contractions are ambiguous without context: 'It's finished' can mean it is finished or it has finished. The full sentence helps you choose the meaning.

Examples:
- ITS: BELONGING OR CONNECTION: The robot raised its arm. (Its arm means the robot's arm. Its is already the possessive personal-pronoun form, like his; it needs no apostrophe.)
- IT'S: IT IS: It's ready for the next task. (Expand the contraction: It is ready for the next task. The apostrophe marks the missing letter in is.)
- IT'S: IT HAS: It's finished the job. (Expand the contraction: It has finished the job. Has is the helping verb in the present perfect; the apostrophe marks omitted letters.)
